TWISTER HITS TOWN

This remarkable picture was taken as an onrushing "twister" hit Blytheville, Ark. Twenty persons were injured a few minutes later when the tail of the whirling funnel ripped through the community, damaging a quarter million dollars' worth of property. Blytheville was hardest hit of the Arkansas towns in the path of a tornado that swept through six states in the lower Mississippi river basin, causing untold damage and taking 21 lives.

4 YOUNG 'CRIME TOURISTS' HELD

Suspects Admit Hijacking Four Trucks And Robbing Beer Garden

BATON ROUGE, La., March 19.—(AP)—Superintendent of State Police Louis Guerre reported today that four youthful "crime tourists" admitted hijacking four transport trucks and robbing a beer garden since Monday.

Three young men were listed at the parish jail as Gordon Turpin, 23, of Columbia, Tenn., and Monroe McMeen, 19, and Marvin McMeen, 19, both of Carter's Creek, Tenn. Their 20-year-old girl companion was listed as Lillian McMeen Nash of Columbia. Guerre said the girl told him she was a first cousin to the McMeen brothers, that she had been married but left her husband.

Guerre said the quartet admitted hijacking a truck between Jackson, Miss., and Memphis, Tenn., a second near McAllister, Okla., a third between Vicksburg, Miss., and Jackson, Miss., and the fourth between Arcadia, La., and Monroe, La.

"I hardly think we've scratched the surface yet," said Guerre this morning as he turned to questioning the girl after querying the young men throughout the night.

Guerre said the four were arrested yesterday near LaPlace, between here and New Orleans, when they turned up the wrong road. When arrested, the superintendent said, their automobile was crammed with shotguns, pistols and ammunition.

The superintendent said the four told him that they exchanged shots with truck drivers in two of the hijackings. Guerre said the group's tactics would be to drive up to a

JAPANESE ARMY SMASHES FORWARD

SHANGHAI, March 20 (Sunday).—(AP)—A Japanese army estimated at 50,000 men smashed forward on the southern Shantung front today in an offensive some foreign military observers considered the most extensive battle since the World war.

Backed by heavy complements of artillery, planes and tanks, the Japanese pushed from the north as approximately 250,000 Chinese sought to stem the advance.

Casualties were heavy on both sides of the central China fighting.

Japanese reported they were within striking distance of their main objective, Suchow, where China's main east-west Lunghai and north-south Tientsin-Pukow railways cross.

Japanese aerial scouts said Chinese defending Suchow were fleeing in disorder under continuous plane bombardment.

Chinese reported their forces launched successful counterattacks on the Tientsin-Pukow line where 5,000 Japanese were killed. Foreign advices indicated, however, that the Japanese were advancing steadily along the north-south railway.

Veterans Continue Campaign For Funds To Purchase New Emergency Truck

Approximately $750 has been subscribed by various municipal, industrial and banking concerns of Ouachita parish toward the purchase of new equipment to replace the American Legion emergency truck, which has outlived its usefulness after more than 10 years of service, it was announced Saturday by C. B. Braun, adjutant of Barkdull Faulk Post No. 13, chairman of the committee in charge of solicitation of funds for the purpose.

The amount already subscribed represents virtually half the total required to replace the old truck with modern equipment, it was stated.

Subscribers to the funds were listed as follows: Ouachita parish police jury, United Pipe Lines corporation, Tallulah post, American Legion; United Carbon company, Central Saving Bank and Trust company, Ouachita National bank, People's Homestead and Savings association, Monroe Building and Loan company, Brown Paper mill, Lions club of Monroe, Southern Carbon company, Field's store.

It is expected that other business and industrial concerns will add their contributions during the coming week. Intimations have also been given that police juries and other municipal bodies in communities which have been served by the emergency truck during the last 10 years will contribute to the effort to provide a completely modern truck equipped with adequate lighting facilities to make it serviceable under any emergency conditions which may arise in the future.

It was pointed out by officials of the American Legion that the local emergency truck has a nation-wide reputation, and in fact is the "daddy" of a movement which has spread to many of the most important cities throughout the south, where similar emergency trucks for service in lifesaving and other activities on behalf of human safety are in use.

KICKED BY PATIENT, ORLEANS MEDIC DIES

NEW ORLEANS, March 19.—(AP)—Leon D. Hubert, assistant United States attorney, said today Dr. Daniel J. Devlin, 28-year-old assistant surgeon at the Marine hospital, died last Monday from a kick under the heart by a patient.

The attorney charged William Doherty, 32, seaman, with voluntary manslaughter in the surgeon's death.

Hubert, in making the charge before United States Commissioner R. H. Carter, Jr., said the doctor was kicked by Doherty while he was attempting to quiet the patient. Doherty, the attorney said, had been drinking.

The doctor's death was at first attributed to a normal heart attack but an autopsy showed, Hubert said, that the kick was responsible for Devlin's death. Doherty had been under treatment at the hospital three years for a leg fracture. He will be given a hearing Monday.

MEXICO CITY, March 19.—(AP)—President Lazaro Cardenas expropriated American and British oil properties valued at more than $400,000,000 today in a bold stroke designed to end a two-year conflict between labor and foreign capital.

Simultaneously, the central bank of Mexico suspended dealings in foreign currency and the president indicated devaluation of the peso was under official consideration.

Mexico's oil workers went back to work late today "to collaborate with the government" in operating the nation's expropriated $400,000,000 oil industry.

Workers ended a short "folded arms" strike as 17 American and other foreign owned companies whose property was taken over by the government mapped a legal attack on President Lazaro Cardenas' expropriation decree.

A widening economic crisis faced the government as a result of extension of its "Mexico for the Mexicans" policy.

New labor difficulties brought the possibility national expropriation might be extended to include the equally important mining industries of Mexico.

Financial paralysis followed the dramatic turn in Mexico's long-

WASHINGTON, March 19.—(AP)—The senate finance committee, in an unusual Saturday session designed to hasten tax revision, heard a suggestion that the government should hand back to the taxpayers all money collected under the tax on undistributed corporation profits.

This suggestion was advanced by J. W. Oliver of New York, representing the tax committee of the New York Merchants association. He spoke at a hearing on the house-approved tax revision bill, which the committee shortly will revise and present to the senate.

Urging repeal of the undistributed profits levy, Oliver added:

CONFESSED SLAYER OF TWO SUCCUMBS

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 19.—(AP)—Peter Burton, confessed slayer of two women, died here late today from injuries suffered in a three-story leap from police headquarters two days before.

Burton, 39-year-old Detroit electrician, in a death-bed statement asserted he had strangled his estranged wife and her landlady in a Detroit rooming house last Monday.

Just before he made his desperate leap Thursday while being questioned, Burton was said by detectives to have cried: "All right. I killed them both."

He landed on his head on the sidewalk, his body grazing a passing newsboy. A half hour later Chief of Detectives John J. Whaleo announced Burton had confessed to slaying his former wife, Mrs. Monica Janonis, 40, and her landlady, Mrs. Ursula Jakubowski, 53, following a quarrel with the younger woman.

NEW CHAPTER IN EDEN'S CAREER?

About to depart for a vacation on the Riviera, Anthony Eden, deposed British foreign minister, is shown above as he looked over a Victoria Station bookstall. His vacation coincided with rumors of a cabinet split over European policy, with one faction demanding that the Chamberlain government take a leaf from the Eden book of stern measures against dictators. Most persistent was talk of a cabinet shake-up with Eden recalled to an important post.

CLEAN-UP WORK CALLED SUCCESS

650 Truckloads Of Trash Taken From Yards, Streets And Alleys

Approximately 650 truckloads of debris, representing the winter's accumulation of trash and refuse from Monroe's lawns, gardens, back yards, and alleyways were gathered by the city parks and streets and sanitary departments during the annual clean-up week which ended Saturday noon, it was announced last night.

The clean-up, sponsored by the beautification committee of the Chamber of Commerce and the Monroe Garden club, was pronounced a distinct success, in spite of the fact that the last day of the endeavor was marked by heavy downpours of rain which materially interfered with the operation of the trucks.

"We sincerely appreciate the cooperation of the householders of Monroe in making this event a noteworthy one," Luther Reed, chairman of the beautification committee, stated. "This was the initial effort of our committee, working in harmony with the new program of the Chamber of Commerce, and we are exceedingly pleased with the general results. It shows what can be done when all forces of the city are united in constructive efforts. We especially appreciate the cooperation given by

HUNT FOR POLAR AVIATORS ENDED

Any Further Search Will Be Made On Russian Side Of Arctic

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, March 19.—(AP)—A fruitless seven-month hunt from Alaska for the six missing Russian transpolar fliers ended today. The Soviet government indicated any further search would be carried on from the Russian side of the Arctic.

Wireless and weather reporting systems were being dismantled, and Sir George Hubert Wilkins' Aklavik, N. W. T., base was abandoned. Wilkins and his party flew yesterday to Edmonton, Alta., en route to New York. Wilkins was employed by the Soviet government for the search.

Michael B. Beliakov, Soviet representative here, said he was returning to Washington, D. C.

Wilkins expressed the opinion:

"The drift in the Arctic ice would have carried the missing men over to the Russian side of the Arctic ocean by now if they landed on the ice."

The transpolar plane, piloted by Sigismund Levaneffsky, was last heard from early on August 13—28 hours after leaving Moscow for Fairbanks, 4,100 miles away.

Shortly after passing the pole one of the ship's four motors failed. The last message said: "No bearings . . . having trouble with . . . wave band."

Issues Bring Renewed Attacks Upon Government Of Premier Chamberlain

LONDON, March 19.—(AP)—One country was swallowed and war in another averted in a week of kaleidoscopic events which brought Europe nearer to armed conflict than at any time since 1918.

Little Lithuania capitulated today to the overwhelming force of neighboring Poland and kept peace in the Baltic.

But she did not surrender her independence as did Austria a week ago in the face of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's ultimatum backed by the force of the German army.

Poland's resort to strong-arm tactics, closely emulating Hitler's, angered such countries as Great Britain, France and Soviet Russia, associated with her in the League of Nations.

But they counselled Lithuanian submission to keep a relatively minor border incident from becoming another Sarajevo and embroiling all Europe.

Today's victory over a state having close relations with Russia improved Poland's chances for domination of in the Baltic area, possibly in conjunction with Germany, with whom she now appears more friendly.

Settlement of the Polish-Lithuanian dispute left the fates of Czechoslovakia and Spain, as burning issues in war-frightened Europe.

They were issues which brought renewed attacks on the government of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain just as it was recovering from the political repercussions to Anthony Eden's protest resignation from the post of foreign secretary.

Eden quit February 20 over Cham-

GEOLOGISTS GO ON FIELD TRIPS

Assert Search For Oil Production In Mississippi To Be Continued

NEW ORLEANS, March 19.—(AP)—D. J. Munroe of the Sun Oil company told the concluding session of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists that the search for commercial oil production in Mississippi was to be continued.

The geologists, more than 1,800 of them, broke up in sections today for post-convention field trips that followed exhaustive discussions of many phases of their business.

The convention, the largest in the association's history, was also termed the most successful by Business Manager J. P. D. Hull of Tulsa, who attributed the record-breaking attendance to "the intense search by major companies for new oil territory."

Mr. Munroe described to his colleagues the underground structure at the Midway salt dome, 14 miles southwest of Hattiesburg, Miss., so far as it has been revealed by test wells. He pointed to an unexplained variance in the strata of the No. 3 and No. 4 wells drilled by his company.

He said the No. 3 test well disclosed a thick asphaltic sand with sediments underneath of a much greater geologic age than the formations encountered at a greater depth in the No. 4 well.

"The finding of this asphaltic sand is of extreme importance to the state of Mississippi," Mr. Munroe said, "because it proves the presence somewhere of petroleum source beds. All of the oil could not have gone into this asphaltic sand, and if structures can be located where these sands are properly placed commercial production of oil in Mississippi will result."

Mr. Hull, in commenting on the major companies' search for new territory, said:

"Geologists and physicists are now engaged in intensive surveys in Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia and Florida, and the frontier of exploration has moved to the Atlantic ocean. There have been shows of oil in Mississippi, and oil seeps in Georgia, and the scientists are now engaged in a hunt for underground structures that might overlie oil reservoirs."

GENE AUTRY FINDS GOLF PLAY COSTLY

HOLLYWOOD, March 19.—(AP)—It's costing Gene Autry about $400 a day to play golf.

That's about all he can do these days.

Republic Studio legally de-spurred the hero of the gelatin sagebrush with an injunction against personal appearances, its answer to Gene's refusal to work for $7,500 per breathless escape.

Autry asked for $15,000. He said today he'll settle for "somethin' in between."

"They pay Buck Jones about $15,000 a picture," he said. "Bill Boyd gets $12,500 and George O'Brien about $15,000. But all the box office polls show I'm in first place among the cowboys, so I think I'd oughta get as much.

"I probably wouldn't of become dissatisfied, exceptin' for Paramount offerin' me $25,000 for just one picture. But Republic sad, 'No,' and Paramount, they didn't want to get in the middle of any fight, so they just called off the deal.

"I could be out makin' personal appearances with my horse Champ, but doggone, they won't let me," he complained. "I can do around $3,000 a week.

"No, sir, it ain't doin' me no good to be off the screen this way.

"My golf isn't improvin' that much."

SMALLER NATION FORCED TO YIELD UPON THREAT OF BLOOD-SPILLING

Unwilling Hand Extended In Diplomatic 'Friendship' After Ultimatum

WAVE OF BITTERNESS IN LITTLE COUNTRY NOTED

Relations To Be Re-Established Following Feud Lasting 18 Years

(By Associated Press)

KAUNAS, Lithuania, March 19.—Lithuania surrendered in advance today to the Polish bayonets on her border, yielding to Poland's ultimatum to prevent blood-spilling.

Her parliament, in a special session, heard the government announce it already had been "forced" to extend its unwilling hand in diplomatic "friendship."

The decision was received in stony silence in parliament.

But the legislators had no alternative except to endorse the government's compliance with Poland's terms—an exchange of ministers by March 31 and re-establishment of rail, air, postal and other relations.

Lithuania's forced friendship ended a feud of 18 years in which neither country had diplomatic nor other relations with the other. It started when Poland, October 9, 1920, seized about one-third of Lithuania, including the city of Wilno, her historic capital.

The issue came to a crisis after a Polish guard was killed March 11 on the armed frontier between the neighbors. Poland insisted border friction be ended and declared the only possible way was unconditional acceptance of her ultimatum.

A wave of bitterness spread through the little Baltic country in whose lap suddenly had been dumped her own and possibly Europe's peace. Despite government efforts to calm the nation and suppress demonstrations, the settlement increased bitter anti-Polish feeling.

Lithuanians generally believed they had been forced to choose between two evils. They regarded acceptance of the ultimatum as a surrender to

KIDNAP LETTER WRITER CAUGHT

Youth Admits Sending Six Notes To Father Of Young Peter Levine

NEWARK, N. J., March 19.—(AP)—A 19-year-old Newark probationer was held in $25,000 bail today after police said he confessed writing six letters to Murray Levine, New Rochelle, N. Y., attorney, demanding $30,000 for the return of Levine's 12-year-old son, Peter, who disappeared more than three weeks ago.

Detective Peter Labagliva said Stanley Thomas Jasosky, who was arraigned before United States Commissioner Holland after being questioned all night by Newark detectives and federal bureau of investigation agents, confessed writing the missives; declared he did not participate in the kidnaping, but asserted he "knew who did it."

After the arraignment, he was transferred to the Hudson county jail in Jersey City.

Jasosky, who was placed on a five-year probation in 1935 for an attempted holdup, was charged with attempted extortion in writing six letters.

ENT ART IN 19 NATIONS HERE

Five Continents To Be Represented In Pictures To Be On Display

Under the direction of Miss Louise [illegible], supervisor of art in the city schools, and Miss Marjorie Oliver, elementary supervisor, the city school board is sponsoring an extremely unique display of art work of school children of ages 5 to 18 years, who live on five continents, and who represent 19 nations. The display will be placed on exhibition in the halls of Central Grammar school from March 23 to March 29, and the public is invited to make inspection free of charge.

A special invitation is extended to all school boards, supervisors, principals, parents and students from all cities and towns in the fifth congressional district as the display is regarded as highly unique and calculated to show in strikingly forcible manner the art work of the four corners of the earth.

Chinese, Japanese art, the art of India, France, Germany, Italy, Austria and other European countries are shown. African countries have large exhibits as do countries of South America, Australia, England, Canada and the United States.

This unusual display has attracted widespread attention wherever exhibited and it is expected that many will make special trips to Monroe for the sole purpose of witnessing the exhibition.

$165,098.99 Disbursed By Welfare Board In Year

The Ouachita parish public welfare board, during the year ending December 31, 1937, disbursed a total of $165,098.99 to care for less favored and financially deserving residents of the parish, according to a report submitted by L. G. Hughes, director, which was prepared for submission at the recent conference of state welfare workers who met in Monroe the past week.

Month by month, with number of recipients and the funds disbursed, the statement is as follows: January, 580 recipients, amount received, $10,-[illegible]. The various departments through which relief is administered comprise old age assistance, aid to dependent children, aid to the needy blind and other assistance which cannot be classified under any single heading.

Old age assistance [illegible] Mr. Hughes explains [illegible] needy aged [illegible] health and decency, provided he has lived in Louisiana for at least five years out of the last nine, and one year continuously preceding his application.

Aid to dependent children who are dependent because one or both parents are dead, invalided or deserted, and no one responsible who can or will provide for them. The child must live with a legally recognized relative who also must be in need. He must have been in Louisiana a year before aid can be given, or, if less than a year old, the mother must have lived in the state a year before the child's birth, and must be in need.

To receive aid a blind person must be in need, must be between the ages of 18 and 64, must meet the same residence requirements as the aged and the fact of blindness must be certified to by an approved physician skilled in the diseases of the eye. In addition to issuing the blind a monthly check every effort is made to create an interest in life for them, teach them a trade if possible, if not, interest them in some diversion that will at least partially occupy their minds and break the monotony of life in the dark.

Under the classification of other assistance [illegible]

"Let us tell you about Jack, who has been blind since his birth. His parents are dead and his life has not been a happy one. He has none of the advantages that even the poorest enjoy. He looked forward to nothing and seemed to have no desires, he hung his head when talking. Through suggestions and encouragement the worker has taught him to recognize objects by feeling them and remembering what they are. It was discovered that he likes music, and he now has an old guitar that he practices on, and though he will never be a musician, at least he has an interest in life.

"Recently an examination showed congenital cataracts on both eyes, and it appeared that there was a fair chance that vision might be restored. At first he was afraid to undergo an operation, but was told to take his time in considering it, and to discuss it with his regular family physician and friends. Many hours were spent by the worker and friends in talking to him about the wonderful advantages of being able to see. He decided to take the risk, and has just recently been sent to Charity hospital in New Orleans. He left perfectly satisfied with the decision he had made to look forward to living and to learn more about the world in which he lives. This was made possible through the department of public welfare and the assistance to the needy blind under the social security act."

During the period of January 1 through December 31, 1937, the commodity distribution division of the state department of public welfare distributed in Ouachita parish a total of [illegible] pounds of [illegible] valued at $[illegible]. NEW SENATE PROBE LOOMS IN ARKANSAS

HOME PLANNED FOR CHILDREN

Project At Memphis, Tenn., Outlined At Social Welfare Conference

As part of his plan to put the emphasis of the church's work on childhood and youth for the next five years, Bishop James M. Maxon, bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Tennessee, is planning a thoroughly modern, scientific program for Church Home, Memphis, beginning May 1, according to Rev. Charles M. Seymour, Jr., of Memphis, in an address before the Louisiana Conference of Social Welfare, held here last week.

Surrounded by ample playground and sheltered by fine old shade trees the big red brick building sits well back from the street, providing ample playroom for the children, Mr. Seymour said. The institution, about 15 years old, has been operated on the lines of an orphanage in the traditional sense of the word.

Under the new plan, it will be a scientific, highly specialized center for caring for orphaned children, so-called "problem" children, and children from broken homes. There will be no restrictions as to religious affiliations.

The plan is twofold: To rehabilitate the child; and, where a broken home is involved, to attempt to rehabilitate the home. Probably half of the children in the institution at present could be returned to their homes or cared for otherwise, with proper study and analysis. The capacity of the new institution will be 100 children, where 43 are now being provided for.

The Rev. Thomas P. Simpson has been appointed director of the institution, responsible to the bishop. Mr. Simpson, of Knoxville, a graduate of the University of Virginia, and the Virginia Theological school at Alexandria, has had special training in the field of child welfare, social work and community problems. He was in the school of applied religion in Cincinnati one summer, and worked for two years in the city missions in New York, under Rev. Dr. Sunderland. Mrs. Simpson, a graduate of Columbia university, is likewise versed in sociological subjects, and was sought by the Child Welfare League of America.

A thorough study will be made of every child, to determine whether he should be placed in a home of his family or relatives; a boarding home or foster home; placed for adoption; or placed in an institution. Every child will be carried through until he is adjusted to life, whatever the age be. The criticism of many institutions is that the child is often turned out too young or without proper training to adjust himself to the world.

The Child Welfare League of America has heartily endorsed the plan as proposed, as has the Children's Bureau of Memphis, and the other child caring agencies. Miss Jean Proutt, regional director of Tennessee, department of institutions and public welfare, and the late Miss Clara Kumme former director of Children's Burea Memphis, collaborated with Miss Margaret Cornell of Washington, D. C., in planning the new program.

STUDENT ART IN 19 NATIONS HERE

Five Continents To Be Represented In Pictures To Be On Display

Under the direction of Miss Louise Moore, supervisor of art in the city schools, and Miss Marjorie Oliver, elementary supervisor, the city school board is sponsoring an extremely unique display of art work of school children of ages 5 to 18 years, who live on five continents, and who represent 19 nations. The display will be placed on exhibition in the halls of Central Grammar school from March 23 to March 29, and the public is invited to make inspection free of charge.

A special invitation is extended to all school boards, supervisors, principals, parents and students from all cities and towns in the fifth congressional district, as the display is regarded as highly unique and calculated to show in strikingly forcible manner the art work of the four corners of the earth.

Chinese, Japanese art, the art of India, France, Germany, Italy, Austria and other European countries are shown. African countries have large exhibits as do countries of South America, Australia, England, Canada and the United States.

This unusual display has attracted widespread attention wherever exhibited and it is expected that many will make special trips to Monroe for the sole purpose of witnessing the exhibition.

$165,098.99 Disbursed By Welfare Board In Year

The Ouachita parish public welfare board, during the year ending December 31, 1937, disbursed a total of $165,098.99 to care for less favored and financially deserving residents of the parish, according to a report submitted by L. G. Hughes, director, which was prepared for submission at the recent conference of state welfare workers who met in Monroe the past week.

Month by month, with number of recipients and the funds disbursed, the statement is as follows: January, 588 recipients, amount received, $19,407.60; February, 618 recipients, amount received, $10,892.16; March, 653 recipients, amount received, $11,453.46; April, 722 recipients, amount received, $12,978.06; May, 833 recipients, amount received, $14,635.85; June, 893 recipients, amount received, $9,304.48; July, 843 recipients, amount received, $14,620.10; August, 883 recipients, amount received, $15,719.48; September, 1,017 recipients, amount received, $16,354.36; October, 924 recipients, amount received, $15,622.19; November, 961 recipients, amount received, $16,051.07; December, 994 recipients, amount received, $16,860.18.

The various departments through which relief is administered comprise old age assistance, aid to dependent children, aid to the needy blind and other assistance which cannot be classified under any single heading.

Old age assistance does not mean old age pension, Mr. Hughes explains, but rather it is aid to the needy aged which provides that any person 65 years of age or over who has no means of support, and no one who can or will provide for them is entitled to aid to an extent compatible with health and decency, provided he has lived in Louisiana for at least five years out of the last nine, and one year continuously preceding his application.

Aid to dependent children who are dependent because one or both parents are dead, invalided or deserted, and no one responsible who can or will provide for them. The child must live with a legally recognized relative who also must be in need. He must have been in Louisiana a year before aid can be given, or, if less than a year old, the mother must have lived in the state a year before the child's birth, and must be in need.

To receive aid a blind person must be in need, must be between the ages of 16 and 64, must meet the same residence requirements as the aged and the fact of blindness must be certified to by an approved physician skilled in the diseases of the eye. In addition to issuing the blind a monthly check, every effort is made to create an interest in life for them, teach them a trade if possible, if not, interest them in some diversion that will at least partially occupy their minds and break the monotony of life in the dark.

Under the classification of other assistance given there is a group of unemployables who do not fit into any of the security groups, and yet are a public responsibility because of physical disability or mental deficiency. The federal government does not contribute to this group and it follows that the funds available are limited, even more than in the security groups. The money for this assistance comes entirely out of state and parish funds. The requirements for certification for aid in other assistance are one year's residence in the state and total disability for employment, certified to by an approved physician.

In this class is often found the greatest need, and very often temporary aid, or the necessary medical attention, or possibly supplying an artificial limb or correction of vision and glasses makes it possble for one of this group to become self-sustaining.

The first three classificaaions for aid come under the security classification and the state receives partial federal reimbursement for funds expended. The report summarises as follows:

"On January 1, 1937, 569 cases were receiving assistance from the local office and 632 cases were pending (either because the investigation had not been completed or for lack of funds). On January 1, 1938, 951 cases were receiving assistance, and 237 cases were pending. It is hoped that the funds will soon be available to clear up these pending cases.

"Through the rehabilitation department of the department of education, and the cooperation of T. E. Hampton, director in this area, it has been possible to accomplish the results shown below. This work speaks for itself in making it possible for a person who is prevented from earning for itself in making it shrdlu un ing a livelihood by ordinary methods of employment to get a start in some vocation that he is adapted to and rehabilitate himself.

"Two artificial limbs purchased for a man 24 years of age. He is now regularly employed as a mechanic and is self-supporting.

"One artificial limb purchased for a boy 14 years of age. He is back in school and doing excellent work.

"One artificial limb purchased for a man 30 years old. He has been placed in training as a shoe repair man, and in a few months will be self-sustaining.

"A girl of 20 years of age being trained in show card writing, and is progressing nicely.

"A man 52 years of age afflicted with tuberculosis, given a start in rabbit farming, and taught in raising and marketing them.

"A boy 18 years of age, with a foot disability, placed in training for auto repairing.

"A man, 28 years of age, who has recovered from tuberculosis, being trained as office equipment repairman.

"A built up shoe and leg brace was bought for a young man, 22 years of age, who has been placed in training in electrical repairing and is making splendid progress.

"A man 50 years of age, with a back disability, given a start in chicken farming and trained in raising and marketing them.

"A girl, 23 years of age, being given gift shop art.

"Artificial limb bought for a man 43 years of age, who has been certified for placement on WPA work."

Concerning the work among the blind the report cites the following:

"Let us tell you about Jack, who has been blind since his birth. His parents are dead and his life has not been a happy one. He has none of the advantages that even the poorest enjoy. He looked forward to nothing and seemed to have no desires, he hung his head when talking. Through suggestions and encouragement the worker has taught him to recognize objects by feeling them and remembering what they are. It was discovered that he likes music, and he now has an old guitar that he practices on, and though he will never be a musician, at least he has an interest in life.

"Recently an examination showed congenital cataracts on both eyes, and it appeared that there was a fair chance that vision might be restored. At first he was afraid to undergo an operation, but was told to take his time in considering it, and to discuss it with his regular family physician and friends. Many hours were spent by the worker and friends in talking to him about the wonderful advantages of being able to see. He decided to take the risk, and has just recently been sent to Charity hospital in New Orleans. He left perfectly satisfied with the decision he had made to look forward to living and to learn more about the world in which he lives. This was made possible through the department of public welfare and the assistance to the needy blind under the social security act."

During the period of January 1, through December 31, 1937, the commodity distribution division of the state department of public welfare distributed in Ouachita parish a total of 245,676 pounds of surplus commodities, valued at $16,219.16. Commodities represented were fresh apples, canned beef, oat cereal, grapefruit, grapefruit juice, dry skim milk, fresh Bartlett pears, Irish potatoes, dried prunes and rice grits. These were distributed to an average per month of 772 families of an average of 3.2 persons each.

The report concludes with the following:

"This report rendered as briefly as possible outlines the duties and functions of the department of public welfare in rendering assistance to the aged and the needy, in helping to provide employment for those in need of work, in the aiding and training of youth, and the supervision and understanding service to all who come within the scope of its activities.

"It gives a brief picture of the amount of work involved and of the vast sums of money needed in this effort to uplift and rehabilitate those less fortunate individuals who have lost their place in the rightful scheme of things—and if there be those who doubt the wisdom of sums being spent, it is only fair that a just comparison be made with the staggering sum spent in the recent war, the notable difference being that it was spent in preparation to destroy human values and today is being spent in an effort to rebuild them.

"It is hoped that through this report is brought about a better understanding of problems involved and results hoped for, for without this understanding and without the cooperation of every individual and organization in Ouachita parish, the ends hoped for cannot be reached."

NEW SENATE PROBE LOOMS IN ARKANSAS

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 19.—(AP)—Possibility of a new senatorial investigation loomed today as members of the Arkansas general assembly returned to their homes for the week-end.

Speaking on a point of personal privilege yesterday, Senator Joe Steele Hall, critic of Governor Carl E. Bailey's administration, charged "the time of paid public officials is being devoted to attacking other public officials."

The speech was prompted by what he said was an attack on him in a weekly publication distributed in statehouse circles. He said the paper charged him with attacking the Bailey administration because he had been denied patronage.

Before recessing, the senate passed the key measure to Governor Bailey's new highway program—a bill designed to free state-owned bridges from tolls and appropriate $5,000,000 from federal aid funds for highway construction.

The house passed a senate bill providing for gradual reduction in the price of automobile licenses and adopted a resolution calling for sine die adjournment of the special session not later than April 1.

HOME PLANNED FOR CHILDREN

Project At Memphis, Tenn., Outlined At Social Welfare Conference

As part of his plan to put the emphasis of the church's work on childhood and youth for the next five years, Bishop James M. Maxon, bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Tennessee, is planning a thoroughly modern, scientific program for Church Home, Memphis, beginning May 1, according to Rev. Charles M. Seymour, Jr., of Memphis, in an address before the Louisiana Conference of Social Welfare, held here last week.

Surrounded by ample playground and sheltered by fine old shade trees, the big red brick building sits well back from the street, providing ample playroom for the children, Mr. Seymour said. The institution, about 75 years old, has been operated on the lines of an orphanage in the traditional sense of the word.

Under the new plan, it will be a scientific, highly specialized center for caring for orphaned children, so-called "problem" children, and children from broken homes. There will be no restrictions as to religious affiliations.

The plan is twofold: To rehabilitate the child; and, where a broken home is involved, to attempt to rehabilitate the home. Probably half of the children in the institution at present could be returned to their homes or cared for otherwise, with proper study and analysis. The capacity of the new institution will be 100 children, where 43 are now being provided for.

The Rev. Thomas P. Simpson has been appointed director of the institution, responsible to the bishop. Mr. Simpson, of Knoxville, a graduate of the University of Virginia, and the Virginia Theological school at Alexandria, has had special training in the field of child welfare, social work and community problems. He was in the school of applied religion in Cincinnati one summer, and worked for two years in the city missions in New York, under Rev. Dr. Sunderland. Mrs. Simpson, a graduate of Columbia university, is likewise versed in sociological subjects, and was sought by the Child Welfare League of America.

A thorough study will be made of every child, to determine whether he should be placed in a home of his family or relatives; a boarding home or foster home; placed for adoption; or placed in an institution. Every child will be carried through until he is adjusted to life, whatever the age be. The criticism of many institutions is that the child is often turned out too young or without proper training to adjust himself to the world.

The Child Welfare League of America has heartily endorsed the plan as proposed, as has the Children's Bureau of Memphis, and the other child caring agencies. Miss Jean Proutt, regional director of Tennessee, department of institutions and public welfare, and the late Miss Clara Kummer, former director of Children's Bureau, Memphis, collaborated with Miss Margaret Cornell of Washington, D. C., in planning the new program.

FIRST AID CLASS TO BE CONDUCTED

Red Cross Chapter To Sponsor Group; Accident Prevention Goal

The certainty that many fatalities resulting from accidents of all kinds can be eliminated was pointed out Saturday by E. C. Gibson, chairman of the Ouachita Red Cross chapter, in announcing a series of classes in first aid to be sponsored by the local chapter at Northeast Center, beginning Monday, March 28 at 7 p.m.

"The national headquarters of the Red Cross in Washington recently revealed that many letters are received each month recounting instances where first aid training was the means of saving lives and preventing lasting injuries," Mr. Gibson said. "In our own state and parish we also have numerous instances called to our attention where knowledge of first aid came in handy.

Shall we evangelize and christianize America or shall we become paganized? is the burning question before the Christian forces of America. Baptists, in obedience to their Divine Lord, choose the former alternative. If room can be found for them we are looking for 850 in Sunday school. There were [illegible] present last Sunday. But the Lord is the true God, he is the living God, and an everlasting King" (Jer. 10.) The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, "We define matter as error, because it is the opposite of life, substance, and intelligence. FIRST AID CLASS TO BE CONDUCTED

The certainty that many fatalities resulting from accidents of all kinds can be eliminated was pointed out Saturday by E. C. "The national headquarters of the Red Cross in Washington recently revealed that many letters are received each month recounting instances where first aid training was the means of saving lives and preventing lasting injuries," Mr. Gibson said. "In our own state and parish, we also have numerous instances called to our attention where knowledge of first aid came in handy.

"Police and firemen, employes of public utility companies, and drivers of buses and interstate trucks are being trained by the Red Cross instructors in an effort to lessen the number of fatalities that occur on our highways and in our homes," Mr. Gibson said. "We feel that our local chapter will be performing a distinct and much-needed service to the community in training everyone possible in the rudiments of first aid and its application."

Automobile accidents are increasing at an alarming rate, he pointed out. The toll of lives taken on highways and on city streets continues to mount in many places in spite of traffic safety drives and stringent traffic laws. The Red Cross has been working hand in hand with local officials throughout the country in efforts to control traffic fatalities and crippling accidents, and the national organization has incorporated this accident prevention work in its year-round program.

Mr. Gibson said that all persons interested in receiving first aid training should communicate with the Red Cross chapter at once in order to be enrolled in the class which will start shortly.

W. C. T. U. DISTRICT INSTITUTE HELD

A district institute of W. C. T. U. was held at the First Baptist church in Monroe, on Friday. The first session began at 10 a.m., with Mrs. A. D. Eglin, of Grayson, state corresponding secretary, presiding. The devotional was led by Mrs. Ina E. Akin.

Mrs. Eglin gave a brief report of progress of the Frances E. Willard centenary celebration and the million dollar national education fund.

Rev. J. T. Walters, of Ruston, state Baptist missionary, was introduced and spoke of his work in prison camps and jails, contacting inmates on the evils of alcoholic drinking.

A luncheon was served to 25 registered delegates.

The afternoon session consisted of two playlets by West Monroe delegates and those from Grayson.

Dr. A. D. Tisdale, of Riverside sanitarium, gave an address on "The Effects of Alcohol on the Human Body." Beer, he said, was worse on the kidneys than whiskey.

It is desired to continue the institute by each local union each quarter of the year.

ELECTRICAL GROUP HAS HOTEL DINNER

The northern chapter of electrical inspectors met at Hotel Frances Saturday at 8 p.m. A dinner was served and an entertainment program given.

Miss Teresa Turk as pianist furnished the accompaniment for an adagio dance by Miss Dorothy Hudnall and Mr. Prestage. A vocal solo was rendered by Miss Johnette Register, followed by an acrobatic act by Miss Mary Turk.

Following the dinner, screen pictures displayed by the Shreveport trades school showed important facts concerning underwriters' laboratory tests and the importance of safety electrical installations.

The attendance was large and the program, arranged by E. C. Coleman, chairman of the northeast division of the electrical inspectors' chapter, was well received.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Corner Grammont And St. John Streets
L. T. Hastings, Pastor

"Shall We Give Our Religion Away or Shall We Give It Up?" will be the question raised by the pastor Sunday morning in his series of sermons on "The Mysteries of the Kingdom," with special application to the task of southern Baptists to evangelize the home land. Shall we evangelize and gospelize America or shall we become paganized? is the burning question before the Christian forces of America. Baptists, in obedience to their Divine Lord, choose the former alternative. If room can be found for them we are looking for 850 in Sunday school. There were 828 counted last Sunday. We can do better in our B. T. U. and Brotherhood attendance Sunday evening at 6:15. The pastor will bring another evangelistic message at the evening hour on "Things New and Old Gleaned from Genesis." "Come thou with us, and we will do thee good."

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible: "Silver spread into plates is brought from Tarshish, and gold from Uphaz, the work of the workman, and of the hands of the founder: blue and purple is their clothing; they are all the work of cunning men. But the Lord is the true God, he is the living God, and an everlasting King." (Jer. 10.) The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy. "We define matter as error, because it is the opposite of life, substance, and intelligence. Matter, with its mortality, cannot be substantial if spirit is substantial and eternal." (p. 278.)

GRACE CHURCH

Fourth And Glenmar Streets
Edward Farren Hayward, Rector

The idea common to Collect, Epistle and Gospel appears to be that of our spiritual dangers from Satan, and our spiritual sufficiency in Christ. So in the Collect God is invoked to save us from our enemies—the world, the flesh and the devil by the Man of His Right Hand, Christ Jesus. So in the Epistle—while sins of flesh and especially instanced—we are warned to have no fellowship with the unfruitful works of darkness, which we have renounced. The Holy Gospel, in like manner, exhibits the Right Hand of God's Majesty casting out devils, by the finger of God. Services on Sunday, the third in Lent, are as follows: The Holy Eucharist, 7:30 p.m. Matins and church school, 9:30 a.m. Choral Eucharist and sermon, 10:45 a.m. Vespers and Confirmation address, 7:30 p.m. Evensong and sermon at St. David's Rayville, 4 p.m. The public is cordially invited to attend the services in Grace church. The church is open daily from 7:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Come in, rest, pray, give thanks, meditate.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Grammont At Catalpa
Ernest Holloway, Pastor

The Rev. Mr. S. N. Harris, pastor of the Presbyterian congregations at Waterproof and St. Joseph, will speak both morning and evening. He is a splendid young man, devout, sincere and able. Hear him, and you will be richer and stronger. The Sabbath school attendance is growing. If you are not a member of the class to which you belong, why not enroll this Sabbath? The adults of the congregation are most urgently invited. Four hundred present each Sabbath is the goal. The adult classes are organized and under the leadership of capable men and women. The Frank P. Stubbs Memorial Bible class meets in the Paramount theater at 9:45 a.m. Two more Sabbaths remain in the current church year. If this is the communion of your persuasion, if you have never publicly accepted Jesus Christ as Master, Savior and Redeemer, come today. The elders assemble at the close of each worship to receive you. The deacons covet and desire your cooperation in the underwriting of the budget. Will you on your own initiative come by the church this afternoon, if you have not responded, between the hours of 2:30 and 5 and indicate your share of the financial support of the church? "Remember the word of Jesus, who said, It is more blessed to give than to receive." "Upon the first day of the week, let each one of you, lay by him in store, as he may be prosper, that no collections be taken when I come." "Where your treasure is, there will your heart be also." What we give, we have. What we invest, we may have. With a membership of 600 our financial responsibilities can easily be met. Five cents a day from each member will underwrite the budget.

CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE

The church of the Nazarene invites you to worship with them through the coming Sabbath. Mr. S. P. Quigley, superintendent, will assemble the Sunday school at 9:45 a.m. The children and young people, directed by Mrs. E. L. Hoskins, will have charge of the singing. The congregation will take communion at 11 a.m., with Mrs. Ina Lee Akin in charge. The young people's meetings will be held at 6:30 p.m. The leaders are Mr. O. L. S. meets Tuesday at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

TERMITES SURVIVE KENTUCKY FLOODS

The current flooding of areas that are known to be termite infested has raised the interesting question—what happens to the termites? Immediately after last year's flood, investigation was started to find out just how termites did withstand the effects of complete and continued inundation. Several typical buildings were inspected and the following surprising facts were disclosed:

On March 31, 1937, a Louisville, Ky., house was inspected for termites. The first floor of this house had been under three feet of water for several days. Termites were found actively at work in the 10x10 pier posts running from basement floor to the joists of the first floor. The infestation was of long standing, since three of the 10x10 piers had to be replaced.

Termites were reported swarming in a Louisville industrial building on March 15, 1937, 15 days after the water had receded from a crest of three feet over the first floor. This building had an eight-inch concrete floor slab with wood partitions bearing upon it. Active termites were found in the wooden baseboards and center partition.

Several explanations of the termite's ability to survive floods are possible, and perhaps all of them are true. First, termite nests are built deep in the ground, apparently below the depth which becomes water-soaked by a flood of relatively short duration. When the water comes termites simply retreat into their ground nests, seal the tunnels with their waterproof cement (made of digested wood and mud), and more or less hibernate until the flood is over.

Termites bore out working tunnels in the wood of buildings often extending them high up into the structure. So even if the whole first floor of a building is covered with water the termites might crowd up into their upper channels in the wood and ride out the flood.

GIRL NEAR DEATH FROM RARE DISEASE

BATON ROUGE, La., March 19.—(AP)—Dr. Thomas Jones, an attending physician, said today that Marian Grayson, 15, lay near death from a rare blood disease from which there is no known cure.

The disease is known as lupus erythematosus disseminata, a blood infection accompanied by skin manifestations, Dr. Jones said. Marian has been suffering from the rare affliction since last August.

One of the treatments is gold which has been administered to the girl, as well as several blood transfusions. Although specialists from various sections have been consulted, the girl's condition has grown steadily worse.

One of the specialists consulted was Dr. Aldo Castellani, tropical disease expert with the Louisiana State university medical center at New Orleans, who had charge of guarding the health of Italian soldiers in the Italo-Ethiopian war.

The girl is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilmer Grayson and a granddaughter of the late Colonel Thomas Duckett Boyd, formerly president of Louisiana State university.

OPERETTA TO BE GIVEN APRIL 1

'Lelawala' Rehearsals In Progress At Northeast Center Of L. S. U.

The operetta company of the Northeast Center of Louisiana State university will give its first performance of Charles Wakefield Cadman's light opera, "Lelawala," Friday, April 1, in the college auditorium.

The company, which is composed of students, was selected by faculty members in charge of the production from a talented group of undergraduates. Students who were chosen for singing roles in "Lelawala" have been coached by Dallas Goss, member of the music faculty, while Miss Grace Ingledue, speech instructor at Northeast Center, has directed those in the cast having speaking parts. The Indian dances have been arranged by Miss Ada Bess Hart, of the physical education department. Lowry Jefferson is in charge of the orchestra.

The scenery, however, is being constructed entirely by students at the junior college. Members of the student body will have charge of make-up and stage properties.

Much cannot be said of Charles Wakefield Cadman's "Lelawala" that is not already known. It is one of the most entertaining of the many modern operettas and has elicited favorable critical comment wherever it has been performed, state those in charge. Based upon an Indian legend, it offers the rare combination of a good libretto and music that is far above the average.

Tickets are now on sale and many are making reservations far in advance of the holding of the performance.

STATE LEGION CHIEF PLANS COLUMBIA VISIT

CLARKS, La., March 19.—(Special)—State Commander Alcee Legendre, and District Commander Sam Orchard of Monroe will be guests of Caldwell post 162, of the American Legion, at 8 p.m., Tuesday.

L. L. Jackson of Clarks, commander of the local post, has called a special meeting for the occasion.

The party will attend a birthday celebration of the post in Monroe Monday evening. On Tuesday they will be guests of posts in Bernice, Farmerville and Bastrop, and will return to visit the Caldwell post at their home south of Columbia the same evening.

HUGH BERBIGBIE IN PARISH JAIL

Hugh Bergigbie, 30, formerly a mechanic here, yesterday was extradited from Jackson, Miss., to Louisiana to face a 3-year-old charge of obtaining money from a newsboy by means of a confidence game. He was returned to Monroe by Deputy Sheriffs Clyde Mitchell and Otto Horn and placed in the Ouachita parish jail.

Jackson police officers arrested Berbigbie there last week on a charge of giving a bogus check. An investigation disclosed he was wanted in Ouachita parish and that he had jumped his bond here three years ago.

Berbigbie is reported to have fought his transfer to this state and extradition papers were prepared last Thursday and signed yesterday by the Mississippi governor authorizing his transfer from Jackson to Monroe.

Dynamic Dreams

On a cold, crystal clear night a great airplane hurried across the sky of a northern state. The ship nosed higher and higher to avoid the shouldering of a rude cross wind. Fourteen thousand feet up it hung, still as a star, and the earth flowed blandly beneath.

Then, as a salute to the solemnity and striking silver of the moonlit night, the pilot descended to fifteen hundred feet and circled dramatically floodlighted Niagara falls.

Here was magic—nature's behemoth of water roaring in angry conversation with the ship's engines, shaking great clouds of spray and mist skyward at a fleet and daring bird of metal.

To a passenger of that ship recurred the statement of a dean of science thirty-five years ago: "May not our mechanicians be ultimately forced to admit that aerial flight is one of that great class of problems with which man can never hope to cope, and give up all attempts to grapple with it?"

The passenger thought, too, of Leonardo, of old, daring to dream of flight; Leonardo, whose tenuous thoughts reached out like century-spanning tendrils to outdistance in time the dreams of a twentieth century man of science.

It is great to dare to dream. Wings casting black shadows on the green Pacific, now near our coast, now near Hawaii; the drone of motors over the great Andes; the reflection of sun on waves and wings at the bottom of the world. All dreams—dreamed in the face of stupendous odds, and then at last reality.

Do you dream? And if you dream do you dream from a perspective far above the level of the niche you fill?

Christopher Columbus dreamed dreams like that. Pasteur did. Lincoln did. So did Edison. Their great dreams helped make them great.

As long as services rendered by human beings to one another are incomplete and imperfect, as long as governments are oppressive or wasteful, as long as businesses have shortcomings, as long as products wear out, as long as crime persists and accidents happen, dreams will be dreamed by humble people, who will grow great in making them come true. Dare to dream and do not despair.

BOXING AND BRAIN INJURIES

Dr. David C. Hall, director of the University of Washington health service and a former boxing and wrestling champion at Brown university, has recommended that college boxing be abolished because it often leads to student "punch drunkenness." He adds that "any sport, the object of which is to render an opponent unconscious, is fundamentally wrong." The more acute the intellect, Dr. Hall says, the more susceptible is the brain to injury.

Blows to the head cause small hemorrhages of the brain and continued concussions finally result in the development of that condition of mind and nerves characterized in the boxing game as "punch drunkenness."

Dr. Hall is not alone in his view of the physical dangers of boxing. Writing in the American Journal of Medical Science, Dr. Edward J. Carroll said: "It is probable that no head blow is taken with impunity, and that any knockout, from whatever cause, results in irreparable damage. It is important that athletes entering into competitions in which head injuries are frequent and knockouts are common should realize that they are exposing themselves not only to immediate injury, but also to remote and more sinister effects."

These opinions of responsible medical authority should be pondered seriously by college and university authorities who are charged with safeguarding the well-being of boys and young men. They raise serious doubts as to the wisdom of encouraging or even allowing intercollegiate boxing, which apparently is attended by so many serious dangers.

DEMOCRATIC TRIUMPH

There are people who believe that the roots of democracy push down just a little deeper in the heart of the great middle west. And their case is strengthened by a series of happenings during the last five years at Iowa State Teachers' college in Cedar Falls.

Back in 1933, when the college administration established a student cafeteria, campus social arbiters ruled that there would be no toothpicks available. A great cry went up, one group of revolutionary students protesting that, while they weren't advocating tooth-picking as the best means of making friends and influencing people, they did believe that the wooden implements should be offered in the cafeteria.

This minority got nowhere at first with the manners-minded faculty. But the spark never went out. This year the minority had become a majority. And today, on the cashier's desk in the cafeteria at Iowa State Teachers' college in Cedar Falls you will find a little dish containing nothing but toothpicks.

As Japan grows tougher, the Filipino longing for independence may become more and more academic, like the American Indian's desire to have his country back.

A naturalist says fish do not drink water, which is only what we suspected. So many who drink like a fish don't either.

RHYME AND REASON

By ANNE CAMPBELL

MAPLE SYRUP TIME

Father would build a shelter
Of logs in early spring.
The little squirrels would watch him
With curious whispering.
A startled fawn would scamper
To some more peaceful glade,
The birds, with lyric protests,
Would fly from him, dismayed.

When all was ready, mother
And I would leave the house,
And walk across the meadows
To where the maple boughs
Were bending to discover
Their trunks were warm with sap.
Already pails were hanging
Beneath each home-made tap.

Before the shelter, father
Had swung the heavy crane,
And fastened the iron kettle . . .
I whistled from the lane.
Our shepherd dog came running
To guide us to the wood,
Where with a brisk fire burning,
My jovial father stood.

All day we boiled and sugared
The twilight's misty blue
Fell softly to remind us
That there were chores to do
Upon the homeward journey.
Held fast by father's hand
I saw the first faint breaking
Of sunset on the land . . .

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON—Whether the government is competent to sit in as referee on the problems of an industry is a question very much bound up in the new effort of the National Bituminous Coal commission to start out and do its job all over again after an initial fiasco.

The commission is sometimes known as the "goofy board" because it operates under the Guffey coal act and for numerous other good and sufficient reasons. Its job is to set minimum coal prices so that mine owners in each of 19 soft coal areas will receive approximately the average cost of production per ton in their area.

Dynamic Dreams

On a cold, crystal clear night a great airplane hurried across the sky of a northern state. The ship nosed higher and higher to avoid the shouldering of a rude cross wind. Fourteen thousand feet up it hung, still as a star, and the earth flowed blandly beneath.

Then, as a salute to the solemnity and striking silver of the moonlit night, the pilot descended to fifteen hundred feet and circled dramatically floodlighted Niagara falls.

Here was magic—nature's behemoth of water roaring in angry conversation with the ship's engines, shaking great clouds of spray and mist skyward at a fleet and daring bird of metal.

To a passenger of that ship recurred the statement of a dean of science thirty-five years ago: "May not our mechanicians be ultimately forced to admit that aerial flight is one of that great class of problems with which man can never hope to cope, and give up all attempts to grapple with it?"

The passenger thought, too, of Leonardo, of old, daring to dream of flight; Leonardo, whose tenuous thoughts reached out like century-spanning tendrils to outdistance in time the dreams of a twentieth century man of science.

It is great to dare to dream. Wings casting black shadows on the green Pacific, now near our coast, now near Hawaii; the drone of motors over the great Andes; the reflection of sun on waves and wings at the bottom of the world. All dreams—dreamed in the face of stupendous odds, and then at last reality.

Do you dream? And if you dream do you dream from a perspective far above the level of the niche you fill?

Christopher Columbus dreamed dreams like that. Pasteur did. Lincoln did. So did Edison. Their great dreams helped make them great.

As long as services rendered by human beings to one another are incomplete and imperfect, as long as governments are oppressive or wasteful, as long as businesses have shortcomings, as long as products wear out, as long as crime persists and accidents happen, dreams will be dreamed by humble people, who will grow great in making them come true. Dare to dream and do not despair.

BOXING AND BRAIN INJURIES

Dr. David C. Hall, director of the University of Washington health service and a former boxing and wrestling champion at Brown university, has recommended that college boxing be abolished because it often leads to student "punch drunkenness." He adds that "any sport, the object of which is to render an opponent unconscious, is fundamentally wrong." The more acute the intellect, Dr. Hall says, the more susceptible is the brain to injury.

Blows to the head cause small hemorrhages of the brain and continued concussions finally result in the development of that condition of mind and nerves characterized in the boxing game as "punch drunkenness."

Dr. Hall is not alone in his view of the physical dangers of boxing. Writing in the American Journal of Medical Science, Dr. Edward J. Carroll said: "It is probable that no head blow is taken with impunity, and that any knockout, from whatever cause, results in irreparable damage. It is important that athletes entering into competitions in which head injuries are frequent and knockouts are common should realize that they are exposing themselves not only to immediate injury, but also to remote and more sinister effects."

These opinions of responsible medical authority should be pondered seriously by college and university authorities who are charged with safeguarding the well-being of boys and young men. They raise serious doubts as to the wisdom of encouraging or even allowing intercollegiate boxing, which apparently is attended by so many serious dangers.

DEMOCRATIC TRIUMPH

There are people who believe that the roots of democracy push down just a little deeper in the heart of the great middle west. And their case is strengthened by a series of happenings during the last five years at Iowa State Teachers' college in Cedar Falls.

Back in 1933, when the college administration established a student cafeteria, campus social arbiters ruled that there would be no toothpicks available. A great cry went up, one group of revolutionary students protesting that, while they weren't advocating tooth-picking as the best means of making friends and influencing people, they did believe that the wooden implements should be offered in the cafeteria.

This minority got nowhere at first with the manner-minded faculty. But the spark never went out. This year the minority had become a majority. And today on the cashier's desk in the cafeteria at Iowa State Teachers' college in Cedar Falls you will find a little dish containing nothing but toothpicks.

As Japan grows tougher, the Filipino longing for independence may become more and more academic, like the American Indian's desire to have his country back.

A naturalist says fish do not drink water, which is only what we suspected. So many who drink like a fish don't either.

RHYME AND REASON

By ANNE CAMPBELL

MAPLE SYRUP TIME

Father would build a shelter
Of logs in early spring.
The little squirrels would watch him
With curious whispering.
A startled fawn would scamper
To some more peaceful glade.
The birds, with lyric protests,
Would fly from him, dismayed.

When all was ready, mother
And I would leave the house,
And walk across the meadows
To where the maple boughs
Were bending to discover
Their trunks were warm with sap.
Already pails were hanging
Beneath each home-made tap.

Before the shelter, father
Had swung the heavy crane,
And fastened the iron kettle . . .
I whistled from the lane.
Our shepherd dog came running
To guide us to the wood,
Where with a brisk fire burning,
My jovial father stood.

All day we boiled and sugared . . .
The twilight's misty blue
Fell softly to remind us
That there were chores to do.
Upon the homeward journey,
Held fast by father's hand,
I saw the first faint breaking
Of sunset on the land. . . .

GOODBYE, GAY VIENNA!

By BRUCE CATTON

The Nazis have finally extended their benign guidance to what used to be Austria and gay, dreamy Vienna henceforth may be about as gay and dreamy as Philadelphia on a dreary winter Sunday.

One of the major tragedies of the Hitlerization of little Austria is the certainty that the be-good-or-be-beaten discipline that the Nazis so dearly love will be imposed on her capital. Vienna, where for many centuries good food, beautiful women and gay dancing have been considered among the most important things in life, may feel the puritanical influence of the Nazi reform mania.

Wiener schnitzel will be broiled in some imitation butter, because the Nazis must have guns instead of butter. The beautiful women will be sent to camps to learn farm work or they may be told that their place is forever in the home, for they must be ready to do their solemn bit when the big war comes.

Leisure, long looked upon as an art in Vienna, will of course be something to be forgotten for there can be no unemployment—much less anything like leisure—in a Nazi state. In short, the Viennese must stop having fun and be quick about dedicating their lives to the greater glory of Herr Hitler and his ideas of how the world should be run.

In this befuddled world the Nazis are true missionaries. Nothing makes a good storm trooper happier than the knowledge that he has changed the way of living of some erring soul and brought to him the stern light of national socialism. And right there you have the aspect of Naziism that is more irritating to a lot of people than the more sinister phases of the movement.

The Germans used to be just about the world's jolliest people. It was a rare German indeed who was not dominated by the spirit of gemuetlichkeit. But Herr Hitler apparently has changed them into a nation of crusading zealots.

Not long ago it was even decreed that the Germans would consume no bock beer this spring. Got away with it, too. Whatever you think of Der Fuehrer you must admit that he accomplishes things no man ever dared dream before the advent of the Nazi regime.

But when Herr Hitler finally gets everything he wants—which is quite a bit—what then? Will the German people be happy? Ordinary human beings—and that is just exactly what the Germans fundamentally are—ask more pleasure of life than the Nazis are willing to permit.

So for the present: Heil Hitler, Vienna, and forget all those champagne parties, grand balls, and the light and carefree spirit that made you famous. As the capital of a Nazi state you now have a mission, and the fulfillment of that mission leaves no room for the enjoyment of living.

A BOOK REVIEW

WHEN INCOMPETENTS WIN AUTHORITY

One of the worst things about a revolution must be the weird crew of misfits, incompetents and blunderbusses who come straggling back to power when the revolution is overthrown.

A neat sidelight on this not-too-profound truth is contained in "They Sailed for Senegal," by D. Wilson MacArthur.

This book tells about a naval expedition the French government dispatched to Africa a year or so after Napoleon had finally been shipped away to St. Helena. The expedition bore troops, civil officials and assorted hangers-on to take charge of the new French territory in Senegal.

Unfortunately, the admiral in charge of the fleet and the governor who was to take charge of the colony, as well as most of the subordinate officers, were pompous and grotesque nincompoops. They had been in exile ever since Louis XVI had been beheaded; now they were given jobs because the Bourbons wanted to reward their loyalty in opposing the revolution, not because they had any ability.

The flagship of the expedition ran on a reef off the African coast. It was wrecked by the admiral's complete incompetence; some scores of soldiers, sailors and civilians then drowned, died of thirst or starvation, or were murdered, because the admiral and the governor were almost fantastically unable to deal with the situation.

The admiral and governor sailed away for Senegal and got there without much trouble. They left their followers to die—in the sea, in the surf, on the desert, or wherever they chose—and the record of what followed is not pretty. It is a valuable commentary, however, on what happens when important offices are passed out to men whose sole qualification is that they voted right.

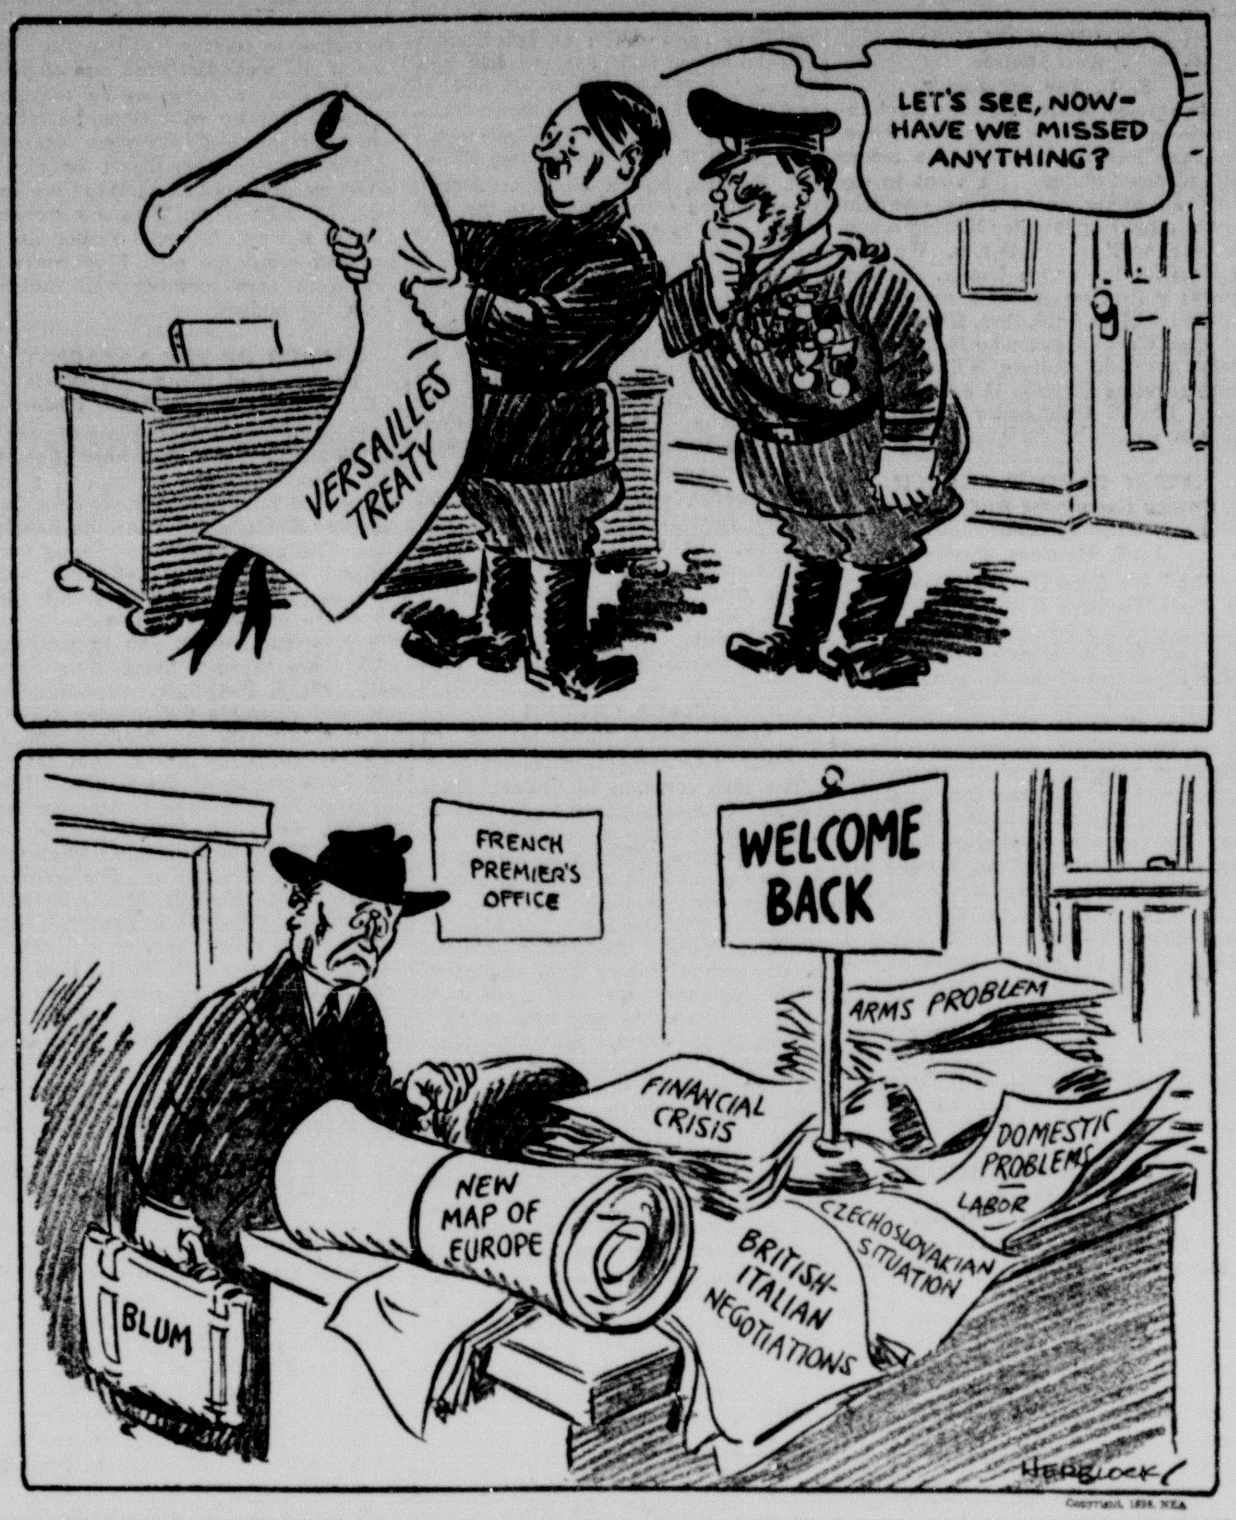
TWO COUNTRIES



Human Side Of The News

By EDWIN C. HILL

(Copyright, 1938, by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

THERE IS APT to be a bit of raveling or a loose end on a news story. Even in competent reporting there may be missing the one thing you really crave to know. I cite that little piece from Camden, N. J., which told about the prank of some wight-person opening the door of the dog pound and letting out twenty-five scurrying and yelping prisoners. They almost had to call out the militia, with a dozen police cars rushing about before they caught the cavorting canines.

And then, the story reports casually, they started after the man who had opened the door.

Who was the citizen suddenly seized with a vagrant impulse to let out the dogs? Was it young Reggie Hoophen-Hyphen, bored with the stale routine of his uneventful days? Could it have been that little Mr. Wilbur Hamilton Pipsqueak, the expert accountant who has commuted to Philadelphia 43 years, without missing a day? Or was it maybe old Doc Singlefoot? He is apt to do something like that after one of his championship bouts with a bottle.

WE SPEAR THIS as the one most errant but authentic human impulse in the day's news. I speak feelingly, as one who is afflicted with an all but ungovernable yen to kick open the doors of dog pounds. The psychiatrists probably have a name for it.

I have an idea that Charles Anderson Dana, were he alive today and running a newspaper would send out three or four men, of the breed of the late Frank O'Malley, to find, photograph and interview the man who, in a world of statistics, illusions, ghosts, political shadow-boxing and wordy make-believe, would have in his heart concern for an unhappy pooch. Whatever happened, they would have a story that would make us forget Washington, Paris, London, Berlin and Rome.

RUNNER-UP in the human side of the news is all this dither about the American visit of King Zog's charming sisters. We are no less Graustarkian than we were in the age of innocence. That's human, too. Our adulation of foreign royalty, its sisters and its cousins and its aunts, has stirred the observation that democracy doesn't believe in democracy, or it wouldn't make such a fuss over titles. That isn't necessarily true. The annual title blizzard of Governor "Happy" Chandler of Kentucky, creating generals and admirals, is just clean fun.

WHEN VISITING royalty departs, there are always a few salutary tales of our own robust provincialism in its wake. As when the queen of Belgium was the guest of the San Francisco haut monde at a luncheon in the Peacock room of the St. Francis hotel. They had rehearsed their behavior for weeks, all standing as they waited for the queen to take her seat.

In the gallery was a big, shaggy newspaper photographer, with an old-fashioned camera as big as a cracker box. At the climactic moment there was an interruption: "Hold that a minute, will you Queen? That's fine." And—bang!—went a pound or two of flashlight powder. It was shocking, of course, and it messed up the luncheon considerably, but a gorgeous chuckle echoed around the globe.

And then there was that possibly apochryphal remark by Mayor Hylan of New York to Queen Elizabeth of Belgium when she praised the tall towers of New York: "You said a mouthful, Queen." There is still a lot of homespun and the old Davy Crockett in modern America.

E. C. BENTLEY writes a preface to "The Best of Damon Runyon," just published in England, and thereby lets himself in for considerable spoofing by American critics. Just to show how it is done, the Britisher tries to cut a few Runyonesque didos on his own account and doesn't come off so well. It does seem pretty brash for a mere provincial Englishman to try to imitate our one and only Damon Runyon. I don't know any American, with access to the same linguistic feed box, who could get away with it. Mr. Runyon is sui generis, as Dopie Benny wouldn't say. I venture to say that Mr. Runyon's best will live long after he leaves this world.

H. L. Mencken says we are developing a distinctly American language. Wilson Follett swings back at him, in the Atlantic Monthly, ancient fount of unsullied speech, and implies in forthright philological diction that Mr. Mencken is all wet.

Regardless of the war of the scriveners, American diplomats sometimes forget how to speak or write American. Ambassador Kennedy, now at London, seems to savvy this quaint speech better than did the late Walter Hines Page.

THE FRENCH LINER Normandie sideswipes the recession news with a trip to South America, on which 975 passengers consumed two tons of caviar and 150,000 quarts of French champagne. They paid total fares of more than $1,000,000, spent $500,000 on a four-day frolic and bucking the tiger in Rio de Janeiro, and consumed 269 tons of food taken on at New York, with supplies of fresh fruits and vegetables acquired en route. The trip covered 10,500 miles.

The room clerk is hereby instructed to give us a call when this recession is over. We'd like to see the caviar and champagne statistics when we really get going.

STAMP NEWS

By I. S. Klein

TO mark the athletic events which recently took place in Panama, the country has issued five stamps labeled "Commemoration of the Fourth Olympic Games of Central America and the Caribbean." They depict basketball, baseball, soccer, swimming and boxing. Three are for ordinary postage and two for air mail use.

Regulations issued by the Treasury Department governing the reproduction of U. S. stamps in black and white, for the first time in newspapers and periodicals, require that each stamp shown be either less than three-quarters or one and a half times the original size. Regular use of U. S. stamps under this law is contemplated for this column shortly.

First-day cover collectors may now obtain the 1938 catalog of "Specialized First Day Covers" from Leo August, Newark, N. J. With the demand for these covers greater than at any time in philatelic history, the book fills a real need in the field. It lists statistical data and prices.

Still resting with the "America's No. 1 Stamp Collector," President Roosevelt, is the decision on the 1938 U. S. stamp program. Recommendations have been made to the President, including, it is reported, the long-deferred "Presidential" set and several commemoratives. The "Presidential" set would gradually replace the "regular" stamps which have now been in use for several years.

YOUR HEALTH

By Dr. Morris Fishbein

(Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine)

Bones are the solid element of structure which sustains the body's form and its position. The most important attribute of a bone is its rigidity. The moment it is broken or crushed, it loses that rigidity so that motion becomes possible at the point where the break has occurred. This is the element of importance in a break of a bone.

Since it is important to get the fragments of the bone back into the proper position before they heal together, the first step to be taken after it has been determined that a bone is broken is the setting or replacement of the fragments into the proper position.

When a bone is broken there will be bleeding and discoloration of the tissues around the bone and a considerable amount of pain because of the pressure of the fragments of the bone on the nerves in the area concerned. Motion of the fragment is different from the ordinary motion of the portion of the body affected. Sometimes the fragments can be heard rubbing on each other, scientifically called crepitus.

Before the discovery of the X-ray in 1898, it was necessary for doctors to diagnose the presence of a fracture by studying these signs and symptoms.

Nowadays, one of the very first steps in the study of a broken bone is the taking of an X-ray picture. This shows exactly how the broken fragments lie in relation to each other. It is also possible by the use of the X-ray to determine exactly whether or not the fragments have been replaced in a position as nearly normal as possible. When the fragments have been replaced, they are held in a suitable position by the use of the splint or a cast.

Then healing begins. Lime salts are deposited by the blood in the area where the fracture occurred. Gradually the scar tissue is transformed into new bone and then the broken ends will be found firmly united.

If the broken bones have not been put into a correct position, they will heal incorrectly and as a result an arm or a leg may be severely bent or shortened. There are some instances in which healing does not occur promptly and in such cases the surgeons may unite the broken fragments by the use of plates, wires, nails, pins or other fastening methods.

In case a bone is broken and a physician is not immediately availble, the first step must be to put the tissues at rest and to hold them in one position by the use of a suitable splint. Care should be taken, however, not to restrict too greatly the blood supply and thus bring about damage of the tissue before the physician has opportunity to undertake scientific care of the fracture.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON—Whether the government is competent to sit in as referee on the problems of an industry is a question very much bound up in the new effort of the National Bituminous Coal commission to start out and do its job all over again after an initial fiasco.

The commission is sometimes known as the "goofy board" because it operates under the Guffey coal act and for numerous other good and sufficient reasons. Its job is to set minimum coal prices so that mine owners in each of 10 soft coal areas will receive approximately the average cost of production per ton in their area.

Ruinously Competitive

Many piecemeal stories about the commission have appeared. Here's a brief roundup:

Senator Guffey of Pennsylvania and his political ally, John L. Lewis of the mine workers, along with coal operators and other coal state operators, got a coal stabilization law through after an earlier, different one had been killed by the supreme court. The industry has an active productive capacity of 500,000,000 tons a year, which could be pushed up to 900,000,000, and a demand for about 400,000,000 tons.

Conditions had been fiercely, often ruinously, competitive. The measure skinned through the house only after certain members had been assured the public would be protected from gouging. Bituminous consumers include railroads which burn 19 per cent of it, "manufacturing and miscellaneous" (including cities, states, schools and so on) 52 per cent, utilities and domestic users 16 per cent, the last figure covering hotels and apartment houses. Nobody knows how many householders use soft coal. The act set up a consumers' counsel empowered to learn all pertinent fact, to advise, to protest and to spread information.

Guffey got "his man" in as chairman—Charles S. Hosford, Jr., of Pittsburgh, Princeton and Harvard law graduate, ex-coal operator, ex-coal salesman. Senator Neeley of bituminous West Virginia obtained appointment of C. E. "Ned" Smith, Fairmont publisher, and of F. W. McCullough as the commissions $9,000-a-year secretary. Thomas S. Haymond, a Kentucky operator, was named and Boss Tom Pendergast of Kansas City found a place for a lawyer named Walter H. Maloney. The miners had Percy Tetlow of Ohio and John C. Lewis of Iowa and Senator Minton of Indiana drafted his old friend Pleas Greenlee as the seventh member.

Hosford Ran The Show

Hosford undertook to rule the roost, working closely with Smith, who took over personnel problems with Guffey's approval.

Much bitterness ensued as Haymond and Maloney lined up with Hosford and Smith. Tetlow, Greenlee and Lewis functioned as a howling minority. Smith built up an organization and congressional investigation of an alleged patronage scandal was threatened as the minority members protested they couldn't learn who was on the payroll or what the Hosford-Smith machine was doing.

Six months of internal war was mixed with some investigation, statistical work and hearings on certain questions. Then suddenly coal operators began a barrage of telegrams for prices at a time when congressmen were introducing resolutions for an investigation.

Courts Will Decide

The law says the commission can't make an order without giving interested persons a chance to be heard, to examine and cross-examine, and without making a finding of fact—which would explain the order. But there was no hearing and the committee at the end of November announced prices—some 30,000 of them—effective December 15. There were many protests.

Consumers' Counsel John Carson, who was secretary to the late Senator Couzens of Michigan, had battled to keep the public informed. Opposing secrecy, he insisted the act could only be enforced by gaining public confidence. Although he urged and pleaded for public hearings, he received no cooperation from Hosford and was ignored.

But soon the courts got their hands on the commission and granted injunctions against the prices to the railroads, to the city of Cleveland, to the Associated Industries of New York. So the commission called it all off, canceled the prices and the public will have its day in court. The price-fixing job, to be done legally, will take four to six months.

Temporarily there's a truce in the commission. But nearly everyone still fears the worst.

SAFETY SPECIAL TO VISIT HERE

Demonstration Will Be Held In City Streets Next Thursday

Despite National Safety council reports that the number of deaths from street and highway accidents has increased during the past year, it is encouraging to note that many communities which have conducted active safety programs, report a substantial decrease in the toll of lives lost through traffic mishaps.

Such a campaign is planned locally when the Aetna "safety special," a new type of traveling safety demonstration, makes its appearance on the streets of Monroe. Now touring the country in the interests of street and highway accident reduction, the "safety special" is scheduled to arrive here Thursday, March 24.

PASTOR STARTS OFF EIGHTH YEAR HERE

Special interest attaches to the services at the First Baptist church in West Monroe today as the seventh anniversary of the pastorate of Rev. E. E. Huntsberry will be observed. It is expected that large congregations will be present at morning and night services. The pastor's morning sermon theme will be: "From Feet to Fathoms," and "Sounding Forth the Gospel" at the night service.

The past seven years have been especially successful for this church, the pastor points out. Not only are there now 2,000 members on the church rolls, with 1,200 of these residents of the community, but also during the past seven years the church has raised $80,043.93, is operating on a budget and has paid off a deficit that formerly existed. The debt on the church has been reduced to $31,300.

Approximately $1,000 has been expended in renewing and repapering the parsonage, and the W. M. S. is re-carpeting the church, and woodwork, cement and steel work of the church building will be repainted before Easter Sunday, April 17, the pastor stated.

SAFETY SPECIAL TO VISIT HERE

Demonstration Will Be Held In City Streets Next Thursday

Despite National Safety council reports that the number of deaths from street and highway accidents has increased during the past year, it is encouraging to note that many communities which have conducted active safety programs, report a substantial decrease in the toll of lives lost through traffic mishaps.

Such a campaign is planned locally when the Aetna "safety special," a new type of traveling safety demonstration, makes its appearance on the streets of Monroe. Now touring the country in the interests of street and highway accident reduction, the "safety special" is scheduled to arrive here Thursday, March 24.

The equipment, a semi-streamlined truck and trailer combination, houses a battery of tests which enable drivers and prospective drivers to determine their reaction time and steering ability, while a newly-developed electrical device measures susceptibility to headlight glare, and at the same time checks color blindness.

Indirect lighting illuminates the red and ivory interior of the trailer, and draws attention to a series of murals depicting traffic situations involving pedestrians as well as motorists. Literature on highway accident prevention subjects will be distributed to interested persons. Through the use of safety glass in the curb side of the unit, the entire interior is visible to sidewalk audiences. A modern "cab-forward" truck which furnishes the electricity and motive power for the unit, is equipped with large safety glass windows displaying illuminated action displays and safety posters. Talking pictures and colored slides are ingeniously projected on a glass screen mounted on the curb side of the truck.

Local motorists are urged to improve their driving ability in every way possible, since to do so may result in a life saved or a serious accident averted. It is believed by local officials that reliable driving tests offer a means of pointing out to the individual certain fundamental truths which may help him to operate his car more safely.

While in Monroe the "safety special" will be sponsored by the local police department in cooperation with S. M. McReynolds and John E. Godfrey, local representatives of the Aetna companies.

ZIGZAG DRIVING HERE LANDS BLACKS IN JAIL

Three negroes who said they lived in Monroe but commuted to Clarks each morning to work in a lumber mill there, were arrested yesterday afternoon by Deputy Sheriffs Frank Jones and Gus Toombs. They were placed in the Ouachita parish jail.

The negroes were West Tappins, charged with driving an automobile while drunk; Herman Barfield and Norwood Worley, held for investigation.

The officers reported they were driving on Jackson street when an automobile occupied by the negroes passed their car and zigzagged from one side of the street to the other. The officers forced the negroes' machine to the curb and questioned the driver, Tappins, who claimed the car he was driving belonged to a negro school teacher at Rochelle. A suitcase and several packages were found, the ownership of which was being checked by the officers.

Hundreds of visitors to the Parade of Progress exhibition in Forsythe park Friday night were amazed at the way music was played over a beam of light by Roland Seward. Here he is demonstrating the use of a photo electric cell. Today is your last chance to visit the exhibition. Hourly shows begin at 2 p. m. and continue until 10 p. m.

PROGRESS PARADE REMAINS IN CITY

Saturday Shows Rained Out; Program Starts At 2 P. M. Today

Because it was rained out yesterday, General Motors' Parade of Progress, an exhibition of scientific marvels which was scheduled to conclude a two-day stand in Monroe last night, is remaining in the city today. As on the first day, when hundreds attended, the hourly shows will begin at 2 p. m. and continue until 10 p. m.

The show, which requires 20 large trucks and 10 automobiles for transportation from city to city, arrived in Monroe Thursday from Alexandria and immediately staged a parade through the streets of the community before setting up its big top and sideshows in Forsythe park, at the intersection of Forsythe avenue and North Sixth street.

Besides exhibitions showing scientific advancements in recent years, the Parade of Progress includes stage shows and movies, shown in the big top, on its program. The exhibits touch virtually every phase of human life. One shows progress in science and its application to industry; another, progress in the home; still another, progress in transportation.

Progress in the home is illustrated by the difference between a modern kitchen and one in use in grandmother's day.

A part of the progress of transportation is devoted to the advances science has made possible in automotive service and safety. This exhibit ranges from a modern service station with all its precision testing apparatus to the service station that serviced the first "horseless carriage."

The stage show in the big top is devoted to demonstrations in scientific phenomena; the movies, to research activities in General Motors laboratories.

SAFETY EXHIBIT TO BE HELD HERE

Will Take Place At 1:15 Monday Immediately North Of New Bridge

An unusual treat is in store Monday for local residents who are interested in highway safety, when they will have an opportunity to witness just how a tire reacts when it blows out, according to S. H. Womack, manager of Goodyear service.

"The demonstration will occur during a safety show sponsored by Goodyear service, 306 Walnut street, which will take place at 1:15 p.m., Monday, March 21, on Riverfront, one block north of the new bridge," he said. "During the course of the show, to which city officials and others interested in reduction of highway accidents have been invited, a tire equipped with a regular tube will be blown out by use of dynamite. This demonstration will be made at slow speed, in order that spectators may see for themselves just what happens to a tire when it suddenly loses all its air.

"Another part of the safety show will feature the blowout of a tire at high speed, but on this occasion the tire will be equipped with a Goodyear Life-Guard, a new safety achievement which turns a tire failure into a slow leak. The Life-Guard, which takes the place of the conventional tube, has been hailed by police and fire officials, and heads of safety organizations throughout the United States as one of the most remarkable contributions to highway safety in recent years.

"In reality, the Life-Guard consists of an inner tire inside an outer tube, both being joined at the base. Air passes from the inner tire (which is built up of fabric plies) to the outer tube through a single tiny vent. When a tire failure occurs, air escapes from the outer tube instantly, but can escape from the inner tube only through the single tiny vent. This means that in event of failure, the tire drops down to ride on the inner tire, allowing the driver to bring the car to a safe stop."

PUBLIC FORUM

TWO WORTHY YOUNG MEN

To the Editor:

While making my regular water route, which carries me practically on every street in Monroe, I have many experiences, some interesting and some not.

One experience captured my attention. I had trouble with my truck and did not know what was wrong—thought it might be the starter locked, which sometimes happens to an old Ford, but it was not that; it was only the carburetor out of adjustment. I saw a boy coming on a bicycle. He came a block out of his way to see what the trouble was and what he could do about it. He suggested that he help me, so we pushed the truck back and forth to learn that it was not a locked starter. He was anxious to help out, if he could, just like a real Boy Scout would.

There are some 12-year-old boys right now who are real men, and will amount to something. Just such boys make our greatest men. This boy is really a regular fellow, a good scout, and I guarantee has real good parents, and a very worthy boy. He is Warren Breard Vaughn, son of L. D. Vaughn, 602 Bres avenue, Monroe.

Another experience: This time, I was parked in front of Trenton Baptist church, West Monroe. I was doing some repairs on the church bell frame. Some boys were playing ball in the street, and a stray ball went wild and hit the top of my truck and tore a hole in it; it was called to my attention. I said, "Well, too bad, but nothing can be done about it." Soon, very soon, a boy of about 12 or 13 came to me and said he wanted to apologize for kicking a ball that went wild and hit my car and tore a hole in it. He said he wanted to pay for it (surprise to me), and asked me how much? I told him I did not know, but not much. He said he would get the money and suggested that it would cost about $1 or $1.25, maybe more, and that if I would be satisfied he would pay that amount. I told him to pay 25 cents, and we would call it off. It cost 50 cents.

This boy did not run off and leave me to guess who damaged the car, but he acted like a real 100 per cent man, a perfect gentleman. Just such boys as these two are worthy of the attention of any community and should be praised for such thoughtfulness and sense of responsibility. This last boy referred to is Billy Register, son of O. B. Register, 1519 Trenton street, West Monroe.

I am for such fine boys, first, last and all the time.

DISTRICT MEETING HELD BY TIRE MEN

A district meeting to acquaint Goodrich dealers in northeast Louisiana with the new Goodrich Safety Silvertown tire with life-saver tread, was held Friday night at Hotel Frances. There were 55 persons in attendance.

Two films were shown: "Weather Permitting" and "You've Got Something There." The first picture presented laboratory tests bringing out the safety features of the new Silvertown. The second was a comedy designed to show dealers how to sell tires.

Among Goodrich officials in attendance at the meeting were J. F. Moser of New Orleans, district manager; Ted Redding, also of New Orleans, district sales promotion manager, and Bill Gallant of Monroe, salesman in the north Louisiana territory. The dealers present were from all over northeast Louisiana.

PASTOR STARTS OFF EIGHTH YEAR HERE

Special interest attaches to the services at the First Baptist church in West Monroe today as the seventh anniversary of the pastorate of Rev. E. E. Huntsberry will be observed. It is expected that large congregations will be present at morning and night services. The pastor's morning sermon theme will be: "From Feet to Fathoms," and "Sounding Forth the Gospel" at the night service.

The past seven years have been especially successful for this church, the pastor points out. Not only are there now 2,000 members on the church rolls, with 1,300 of these residents of the community, but also during the past seven years the church has raised $90,043.93, is operating on a budget and has paid off a deficit that formerly existed. The debt on the church has been reduced to $31,300.

Approximately $1,000 has been expended in renewing and repapering the parsonage, and the W. M. S. is re-carpeting the church, and woodwork, cement and steel work of the church building will be repainted before Easter Sunday, April 17, the pastor stated.

The concluding function of the conference was a luncheon given by the Louisiana Tuberculosis and Public Health association to delegates representing various tuberculosis units throughout the state. The principal address was given by Dr. M. W. Hunter, president of the Ouachita Parish Medical society on "Some Tuberculosis Problems." The need for a more informed public consciousness in realizing the importance of early treatment of tuberculosis was emphasized by the speaker in his address.

"It is of no value to start treatments in late stages of the disease," he said. "The time to start is in its incipiency. The public must be made aware of this need if any real progress is to be made in combating its ravages."

SEADLUND LAWYERS CHALLENGE VERDICT

CHICAGO, March 19.—(P)—Attorneys for kidnaper John Henry Seadlund challenged the constitutionality of the Lindbergh law today in a notice of appeal filed 10 minutes after he was sentenced to die in the electric chair on April 19.

Their action, producing an automatic stay of execution, gave Seadlund at least until May 19 to live because Federal Judge John P. Barnes granted the court-appointed lawyers, Floyd E. Thompson and Frederick Burnham, 60 days to perfect the appeal.

Seadlund pleaded guilty to the $50,000 ransom abduction of Charles S. Ross, 72, Chicago businessman, last September 25. Ross and Seadlund's confederate, James Atwood Gray, were slain at the kidnapers' cave hideout near Spooner, Wis.

A jury in Judge Barnes' court decreed the extreme penalty for Seadlund last Wednesday.

He was the fifth condemned to die under the Lindbergh law passed in 1932. Arthur Gooch was hanged in 1936 at McAlester, Okla., for kidnaping two Texas peace officers. Arnett A. Booth, John Travis and Orville Adkins were scheduled to be hanged Monday at Moundsville, W. Va., for kidnaping Dr. James I. Seder.

This was fed by reports in reliable quarters that Stanisauckis yielded only after a vain appeal to Soviet Russia for aid in resisting the Poles.

Recognition that hopes of Russian intervention were badly founded, it was believed, might force a radical change in Lithuania's foreign policy toward appeasement with Poland.

(Russia is not obligated by any understanding to give military aid to Kaunas, Lithuanians in Moscow acknowledged.)

POLISH STATESMEN FACE URGENT PROBLEM

WARSAW, Poland, March 19.—(AP)—Polish statesmen, victorious over Lithuania, turned to a more urgent problem at home tonight after a wild day of anti-Jewish rioting in which two persons were killed and more than 100 injured.

The windows of hundreds of Jewish-owned shops were smashed and strong police guards encircled Warsaw's ghetto to prevent large crowds from invading it.

President Ignace Moscicki, in an address at a triumphant moment in Polish history, condemned the demonstration as "brutal" and warned that repeated disorders might compel Poland to become totalitarian to maintain discipline.

"I cannot hide my sorrow that so many people who used to stand behind the marshal," the president broadcast in a memorial address on the patron saint's day of the late Marshal Joseph Pilsudski, "are today obstacles to the realization of his aims.

"He who fails to understand our historic developments only creates confusion . . . From confusion and demagogy one cannot establish sound government . . . Chaos serves communism first of all."

What had been a spontaneous celebration of Lithuania's capitulation to a Polish ultimatum, turned into a fierce anti-Jewish demonstration.

smouldering oil industry dispute. The Central Bank of Mexico suspended all dealings in foreign exchange, and all Mexico City banks followed suit.

President Cardenas indicated devaluation of the peso was considered and called on congress to appropriate funds to finance the government's newly acquired properties. The peso was quoted yesterday at 27.75 cents.

Spokesmen for the dispossessed oil companies said they planned an appeal to a district court for an injunction against the expropriation decree and an ultimate appeal to the supreme court against constitutionality of the 1936 law on which the president based his action.

Most oil officials were frankly skeptical of being able to obtain help from the courts, however. The supreme court recently upheld an arbitral award to oil company workers which was the immediate cause of the Mexican crisis.

The award granting wage increases and other benefits to the industry's 18,000 workers would have increased operating costs $7,200,000, the labor board held.

Oil company officials stoutly maintained their inability to meet the award, saying it would increase costs $12,000,000 a year. They declared 1936 profits were only $5,500,000, making it impossible to grant the proposed wages.

Talk of currency depreciation drastically curtailed all credit operations in the capital today, but cash business went on almost as usual.

An acute gasoline shortage occurred during the morning but by afternoon gasoline supplies became available little by little as reserves were tapped.

Treasury statisticians indicated about $200,000,000 had been collected under the levy.

GUARANTEE SOUGHT FOR SUPREME COURT

NEW YORK, March 19.—(AP)—A drive to amend the United States constitution to guarantee the future independence of the supreme court was pressed today by an influential unit of the American bar.

The federal legislation committee of the New York City Bar association, in a communication to the judiciary committees of both houses of congress, asked these three things:

1. A constitutional amendment definitely setting the number of justices at the present figure, nine.

2. Another amendment making retirement of justices mandatory at a set age, preferably "not less than 75" years.

3. Adoption of a law creating an independent agency to handle the court finances, which now go through the department of justice, an administrative branch of the executive arm of the government.

THINK ROOSEVELT COULD OUST MORGAN

WASHINGTON, March 19.—(AP)—Administration legal experts contended today that President Roosevelt could remove Arthur E. Morgan from the chairmanship of the Tennessee Valley authority if Morgan refused to answer questions at a White House hearing Monday.

Mr. Roosevelt has given the TVA chairman until Monday afternoon to answer "yes" or "no" to presidential demands that he give facts to support his charges of misconduct against his fellow directors.

Many members of congress contend that, if Morgan persists in his refusal to answer presidential questions and his demands that congress instead of the president investigate the TVA, the most Mr. Roosevelt can do is to ask him to resign. They say the TVA act gives congress removal power over directors of the public power and planning agency and authorizes the president to remove directors only in event they are opposed to the policies of the act or appoint employes without regard to merit.

TVA NEGOTIATIONS 'GETTING QUITE HOT'

NEW YORK, March 19.—(AP)—Negotiations between the TVA and Wendell L. Willkie, president of the Commonwealth-Southern corporation for the sale of the system's properties in the Tennessee valley, are "getting quite hot," utility circles heard today.

When an agreement is reached, these circles believed, a line would be drawn in the valley beyond which the TVA would not enter into competition with private utility systems.

As delineated in the conferences between Willkie and David E. Lilienthal, this line extends from around Columbus, in northeastern Mississippi, across the northern part of Alabama in a zigzag course, nips the northwestern corner of Georgia and encircles the state of Tennessee.

In the financial district, it is already being referred to as "the Lilienthal-Willkie line."

truck parked along a highway and wake the sleeping driver by poking gun barrels in his ribs.

The beer garden robbery, Guerre said, was committed near the start of the "crime tour" at Booneville, Ark.

Guerre said he believed the automobile used in the sallies was stolen and its transportation across state lines would make the youths liable to federal action under the Dyer act.

EUROPE NEARER ARMED CONFLICT

berlain's determination to seek agreements with Germany and Italy.

Powerful groups, including some of the prime minister's own Conservative party members, demanded he declare flatly Britain would support France if she should go to the aid of Czechoslovakia to repel an invasion by Hitler.

Horrifying bombings of Barcelona during the week—in which the death toll variously was estimated at between 600 and 1,300—resulted in further pressure on Britain to abandon non-intervention and allow the Spanish government to have arms.

The 69-year-old Chamberlain, still facing a latent revolt in the house of commons, refused to be "rushed" into decisions. He adhered to a "hands-off" policy in Spain but promised aid to France in event Mediterranean communications were threatened.

There were indications, however, that he would clarify further the positions on Czechoslovakia and Spain Thursday in parliament after cabinet consultation Wednesday.

CZECHOSLOVAKIA MEETS ONE GERMAN DEMAND

PRAHA, March 19.—(AP)—Adolf Hitler was said by diplomatic sources today to have demanded that Czechoslovakia abandon her military alliance with Soviet Russia—but the Czech government showed no indication it would comply.

Hitler's demand was said to have constituted Der Fuehrer's basic condition for talking terms with the little republic, now two-thirds surrounded by the expanded Reich.

Czechoslovakia's existence virtually rests on her alliances with Russia and France, apart from sturdy reliance on her own military resources.

The Russian alliance never has been extremely popular, and if Germany offers good compensation, political circles believe there might be some reorganization of Czech policy.

Hitler's long-expected move, said to have been made through diplomatic channels, came as the Czech government capitulated to another German demand.

By action of the cabinet council, the 3,500,000 Germans in Czechoslovakia were given a greater voice in the war-created republic's government. The move permits administration of German districts by German nationals.

U. S. CONCERNED AT HITLER'S SEIZURE

WASHINGTON, March 19.—(AP)—The United States government announced to the world today that it was seriously concerned at the extent to which Adolf Hitler's seizure of Austria tended to endanger peace.

Secretary of State Hull broke his silence on the Nazi coup after receiving official notice that the Austrian legation here had been abolished and its functions taken over by the German embassy.

Giving emphasis to his words by waiving his usual rule against direct quotation of press conference statements, he told reporters:

"The day before yesterday I discussed fully the principles governing peaceful and orderly international relations and their application to present conditions in European and other world areas.

"The extent to which the Austrian incident, or any similar incident, is calculated to endanger the maintenance of peace and the preservation of the principles in which this government believes is of course a matter of serious concern to the government of the United States."

The secretary also authorized an announcement that certain "technical steps" on the part of this government would be required as a result of Austria's changed status.

CLEAN-UP WORK CALLED SUCCESS

the parks and streets department and the sanitary department of the city in throwing the full force of their truck facilities into the enterprise."

Friday, the last full day of the campaign, was marked by the heaviest number of truckloads for any of the days of the clean-up week. The parks and streets trucks collected a total of 90 loads, while those of the sanitary department, using larger trucks and being handicapped by the necessity of following their usual routes in garbage collection, gathered 47 loads on the last day. On Saturday, in spite of the rain, the parks and streets trucks picked up 20 loads of debris.

Although full publicity had been given to the campaign for a week in advance, many householders delayed individual clean-up efforts until the latter part of the week, which imposed a heavy burden on the trucks in the final two days. The city departments made every effort to meet this situation, and in all cases where refuse had been placed on the street curbs none was overlooked in the final round-up.

It was again emphasized as the campaign came to a close, that vacant lots in many parts of the city are still encumbered with weeds, tin cans, and other debris. An urgent request was made that owners of these lots take steps to have them cleaned before warmer weather stimulates the propagation of mosquitoes in these unsightly areas. Refuse cleaned from vacant lots will be picked up by the city's sanitary trucks as quickly as possible, if it is placed on the street curbs where it will be easily available for hauling away.

TUCSON, Ariz., March 19.—(AP)—General John J. Pershing, 77-year-old World war commander recovering from a grave illness, was "not so well" last night, Dr. Roland Davison said.

Dr. Davison expressed belief the general had been "pushing himself too hard, trying to get well too fast." Pershing has been allowed to sit up for brief periods daily this week.

DR. WEISNER TO HEAD CONFERENCE

was re-elected secretary, and Robert L. McElree, New Orleans, treasurer. Lafayette was chosen as the meeting place of the conference next year.

The concluding function of the conference was a luncheon given by the Louisiana Tuberculosis and Public Health association to delegates representing various tuberculosis units throughout the state. The principal address was given by Dr. M. W. Hunter, president of the Ouachita Parish Medical society on "Some Tuberculosis Problems." The need for a more informed public consciousness in realizing the importance of early treatment of tuberculosis was emphasized by the speaker in his address.

"It is of no value to start treatments in late stages of the disease," he said. "The time to start is in its incipiency. The public must be made aware of this need if any real progress is to be made in combating its ravages."

He quoted statistics to show that over 1,500 deaths occurred in Louisiana in 1933, which, he said, indicated more than 15,000 active cases in the state that year. "The situation is not materially improved since the last available statistics," he said.

Among those in attendance at the luncheon were Dr. Elizabeth Weisner, the new conference president; George Freeman, retiring president; Miss Edith Grubb, chairman of the conference; Mrs. John M. McBryde, New Orleans, executive secretary Louisiana T. B. association; Dr. Prentice Gray, Monroe, member state executive board; Mrs. Royden Douglas, New Orleans, member state executive board, superintendent children's conservation league; Miss Emma Maurin, director of nursing division of the state board of health; Captain G. B. Cooley, president Ouachita Parish T. B. association; Miss Bernice Wright, executive secretary Ouachita Parish T. B. association. Fred Williamson presided at the luncheon.

The closing sessions of the conference included panel discussion on "The Community's Responsibility for Public Welfare," with Sister Mathilde, Charity hospital, New Orleans, as chairman. Miss Anna Harrison, New Orleans; Dr. O. P. Daly, Lafayette; Miss Emma Maurin, of the state board of health nursing division, and Dr. W. J. Sandrige, Shreveport, participated.

A round table on "Publicity for Social Work" was conducted by Mrs. Helen Cody Baker, Chicago. "Lay Participation in Social Work," led by Mrs. Dagmar R. LeBreton, New Orleans; Salvation Army Executives," led by Adjutant Joseph Lones.

Registration of delegates to the conference, representing all sections of the state, totalled 403.

Resolutions adopted by the conference at the Saturday morning business session were as follows:

"That the conference is deeply grateful to their officers and to the representatives of all agencies who gave so unselfishly of their time and energy to make the conference so profitable.

"That the program has been on an extremely high plane, our speakers have been outstanding in their field, and the exhibits have been highly educational.

"That we recognize that many organizations and individuals have helped in a large measure to make our convention an outstanding success. Thanks are due to the mayor of the city of Monroe for the hospitality extended here; to the hotels of Monroe for their hospitality and courteous service; to the Chamber of Commerce for its counsel and cooperation; to the press of the state of Louisiana for the splendid publicity given the conference prior to and during the convention; to the committee on arrangements and entertainment for their diligence, courtesy and help throughout the conference.

"That the convention secretary write a letter of thanks to the Ouachita Parish Tuberculosis association and to all others who have made outstanding contributions in making the conference a success."

Thousands of miles of flying failed to disclose a trace of the missing men. Wilkins said that since last October he had covered 21,000 miles and that his final flight last week was equivalent to crossing the Atlantic.

He made several trips to within a few hundred miles of the pole.

The missing fliers were the third group to attempt a polar flight from Moscow to the United States. The first group reached southern Washington and the second landed in southern California after a record long distance flight.

Many other fliers scanned 75,000 square miles in vain. One was Jimmy Mattern, whom Levaneffsky aided when he was forced down in Siberia on a world flight in 1933.

Moscow sent three ships and had others ready, but winter balked their attempts.

of births in the 10-year period after his death.

Justice Middleton in his action today ruled out the brightest stars in the "stork derby"—25-year-old Mrs. Pauline Mae Clarke and stocky Mrs. Lilian Kenny, who had promised to build a mausoleum in Millar's honor if she won.

Mrs. Clarke, like the winners, had nine babies born in Toronto in the 10 years but the justice ruled five of them were illegitimate and therefore ineligible.

Mrs. Kenny had 10 babies but four were registered as still-born and the judge ruled they could not count.

The mother had contended they were born alive but Justice Middleton decided this was not established.

SEADLUND LAWYERS CHALLENGE VERDICT

CHICAGO March 19.—(AP)—Attorneys for kidnaper John Henry Seadlund challenged the constitutionality of the Lindbergh law today in a notice of appeal filed 10 minutes after he was sentenced to die in the electric chair on April 19.

Their action, producing an automatic stay of execution, gave Seadlund at least until May 19 to live because Federal Judge John P. Barnes granted the court-appointed lawyers, Floyd E. Thompson and Frederick Burnham, 60 days to perfect the appeal.

Seadlund pleaded guilty to the $50,000 ransom abduction of Charles S. Ross, 72, Chicago businessman, last September 25. Ross and Seadlund's confederate, James Atwood Gray, were slain at the kidnapers' cave hideout near Spooner, Wis.

A jury in Judge Barnes' court decreed the extreme penalty for Seadlund last Wednesday.

He was the fifth condemned to die under the Lindbergh law passed in 1932. Arthur Gooch was hanged in 1936 at McAlester, Okla., for kidnaping two Texas peace officers. Arnett A. Booth, John Travis and Orville Adkins were scheduled to be hanged Monday at Moundsville, W. Va., for kidnaping Dr. James I. Seder.

JENA, La., March 19.—(Special)—Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Cobb are the parents of a baby boy born Sunday morning, March 13, at the Baptist hospital in Alexandria. He weighed seven younds, ten ounces and has been given the name Alfred David.

Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Pittman, of Enterprise announce the arrival of a baby boy on February 28. He has been named Richard Daldon.

BOGALUSA, La., March 19.—(Special)—A son, their second, was born to Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Ulmer here today. He has been named Franklin William Ulmer. Mrs. Ulmer was a resident of Monroe prior to her marriage, her maiden name being Miss Ava Gates.

was a minor one and did not solve the kidnaping of young Levine on February 24. Peter disappeared on his way home from the Albert Leonard Junior High school in New Rochelle. Justice officials said Jasosky attempted to "chisel in" on the case.

LEVINE RECOGNIZED LETTER AS FRAUD

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., March 19.—(AP)—Unperturbed by hundreds of fake ransom-demand notes, Murray Levine, father of the 12-year-old Peter Levine, said today:

"I'll know the right note when I see it by the insignia. Only the kidnapers and myself know what it is."

Levine would not explain further, but presumably he referred to a secret symbol or code word inscribed in one of the first kidnap notes.

Regarding the arrest of a 19-year-old Newark, N. J., probationer who, police said, confessed writing six letters to Levine demanding $30,000 for the safe return of his son, the father said:

"I have never been to Newark to make any contact. I knew immediately the note was a fraud."

Levine again appealed to the kidnapers to make contact with him, and said that immediately he recognized "the insignia" as genuine he would hold any communication secret from federal agents or other authorities pending payment of the ransom and return of his son.

Real Estate Transfers

The following real estate transfers were recorded in the clerk's office here yesterday:

AIR-CONDITIONED BREAD ON MARKET

New Butter Krust Makes Big Hit With Housewives Of Northeast Louisiana

The new air-conditioned Butter Krust bread was introduced to northeast Louisiana yesterday and made an instant hit with housewives of this section because of its uniform goodness.

The Ouachita Baking company, makers of Butter Krust bread, recently completed the most extensive improvements ever made in the baking industry in north Louisiana and the new air-conditioned Butter Krust loaf is the result of these improvements. The public is cordially invited to visit the local bakery and inspect the modern plant.

Air-conditioned Butter Krust is no idle slogan devised in an attempt to "sell" housewives on a new wrinkle that has no actual merit. There are several reasons why air-conditioned bread is far superior to a product baked under ordinary conditions.

When bread dough comes from the mixer, it has a temperature of 80 degrees. It must be kept at this temperature for four hours to assure maximum uniformity and goodness. In an ordinary bakery the dough is subject to changing temperatures—in the hot summertime it may reach 1[illegible] degrees and in colder weather it may go as low as 6[illegible]. Under these conditions the dough picks up many impurities. But not so in the air-conditioned Butter Krust plant. Here the temperature is kept at 8[illegible] degrees by the automatic humidifier.

Also, bread must be cooled quickly when it comes from the ovens to avoid absorption of impurities and it must be cooled before wrapped. [illegible]

bothered me continually, up nights and such severe pains in my back I could hardly stand it. I had sick headaches too all of the time and my system was clogged with poisons through constipation. Finally I began to suffer with terrible shooting pains all through my limbs and arms and extending into my back. It was known as neuritis and almost drove me frantic at times. I would lay awake by the hour at night and became so nervous. I spent much money searching for relief—but all in vain and had come to the conclusion I would never feel my real self again. But once I began Gly-Cas all of that was soon changed."

"In less than half the full course of treatment Gly-Cas had rid me of every ache and pain," said Mrs. Buckingham. "My nerves improved and I sleep like a child. There is only one Gly-Cas and I am certainly thankful I found it when I did for my suffering is at an end."

Gly-Cas is sold by Phoenix Drug company, 348 DeSiard street, this city, and by all the leading druggists in surrounding towns. —Adv.

For Love of Polly

CHAPTER XXV

Morning found them off the American coast opposite what appeared to be Delaware or Maryland. A shout went up from the sailors. Polly wept openly for joy, and Jerry's commands to the sailors were husky with feeling. That dim shoreline was beautiful with the magic of home. Even Cabell Banks lost his blase man-of-the-world manner and tossed his hat jubilantly.

To the north several sails were presently spied by the lookouts. Jerry and Cabell consulted. They would maneuver nearer, they decided; if they were American ships they would speak to them and learn their exact location.

The maneuvering was done, and almost with disaster. The ships were discovered to be British frigates blocking Delaware bay, the approach to Philadelphia. The Gray Gull's course was promptly shifted southward, and no harm done, save to taut nerves. The approach to Washington spread clear before them.

On board there were several reliable sailors who had gone out from Baltimore on the Gray Gull more than once and had stayed hopefully with her while she lay docked at Carteret. These men now proved of infinite value. They were able to help their New England officers round the treacherous Cape Charles and enter Chesapeake bay.

The long blue bay stretched away before them, free of hostile sails. As they passed the mouth of the York and later of the Rappahannock river, Cabell stared hard at the Virginia shore. On these rivers and on the James and Potomac, he knew, there lived the Virginia landed gentry who were said to feel themselves superior even to rich Boston bankers and importers. Englishmen under Sir Walter Raleigh had landed on these shores before the Mayflower had sailed to Plymouth Rock. It was very annoying to a young Bostonian to have to think of it. He was forced to call his newfound patriotism into play to dispel his malice. Virginia was one of the United States, he reminded himself, and no doubt was a very agreeable place if you didn't mind the heat and if you could excuse the girls for being better educated in their heels than their heads. . . . Take Prudence Winthrop now. She could talk about other things than the latest dance figure.

"A penny for your thoughts," Polly said. "American money."

"I was thinking I must write two letters home and post them in Washington. One of them to my family." They both laughed.

Jerry and Cabell supposed the most direct way to reach Washington would be to sail up the Potomac. The Baltimore sailors, however, with seamen's old distrust of rivers, advised avoiding the curving Potomac and sailing direct to Baltimore. From there, they suggested, Captain Banks could easily go to Washington by coach or horseback and procure the papers.

This they agreed to do, Jerry the more readily because of Polly. Baltimore had good coach service to Philadelphia, and from the latter city she would have no trouble reaching home.

When they had entered Baltimore harbor Jerry went to Polly who stood at the bulwark watching the men drop anchor. "Go below and get ready now, Polly. A sailor's wife must be brisk."

"Get ready for what, Jerry?"

"To go ashore, my sweet, with your dog and trunk."

"But, Jerry! You'd not put me ashore in Maryland when I belong in Connecticut?" Her face showed honest amazement.

"Didn't you know, Polly, that I'd put you ashore at the first port? Did you suppose I'd keep you an hour longer at sea than I had to?"

"Oh, Jerry! I'd not figured it out, but I supposed you'd take me home to Lyme after you got your papers. I might as well be honest and say I hoped you'd decide to keep me on board, Jerry. The way some of the skippers out of New England used to keep their wives aboard. I know an old woman at home who's been around the Horn on her husband's ship seven times."

"This is war time, Polly." He spoke with finality and with such regret that she could not make it harder for him.

"All right, Jerry. But it's going to take Cabell a couple of days to go to Washington and back. Can I stay here till then?"

"I'd thought to put you on a stage coach, Polly, and see you started on your way. I'd feel easier about you—"

But he could not resist her pleading arm that stole around his neck, nor the prospect of an extra day and night with her on a deserted ship in a friendly port. He said, "I reckon I've earned another sunset with you, Polly. Stay if you will."

That night when the sailors went ashore and Cabell was in Washington, the Gray Gull was their own. They stood at its bulwarks and watched the lights of Baltimore. Polly made one more effort to snatch at happiness.

"You've brought the Gull home, Jerry, and it wasn't easy. Cabell couldn't have done it without you. Every man aboard owes you his life or his liberty—"

"It may be true, Polly. But what of it?"

"This. You've done your part. If Cabell's so set on going to sea again, let him find another mate for his clipper. You come home to New England."

"Polly, what are you saying!" He held her shoulders and looked down into her face.

"I'm saying you don't belong to the navy by rights," she answered fiercely. "Why must you go out there and let an English long gun tear you to pieces?"

"This is every American's fight as I look at it, Polly. It's our way of backing up those that died in the Revolution. Our men walked shoeless in the snow and ice till their feet bled, that war. That's how much they wanted freedom. Well, that freedom's being questioned. This time on the sea."

"Oh, I know," said Polly brokenly. "I must have been crazy for a minute, Jerry . . . Remind me to mend your coat before I leave tomorrow. You've torn the sleeve—"

Before noon the following day Cabell returned from Washington, having traveled most of the night. He was jubilant. Mr. Madison had consented to see him in person and had readily given him all the papers necessary to turn the Gray Gull into a privateer to harass British craft.

"He says he's thankful to see so many New Englanders turning out to fight. He thinks our hope lies almost entirely in privateers . . . Hello, Polly! Where are you going with your bonnet on?"

"Home," said Polly, holding out her hand. "Jerry wants to get me started."

"Won't tomorrow do? I thought a little dinner in Baltimore tonight . . . It's quite a place, I hear—"

Jerry said, "All our crew came aboard this morning, Cabell, and about 20 extras they were able to recruit. The rumor's out that the Chesapeake's going to be bottled. You'll want to go out with the tide tonight. I'm taking Polly ashore now—"

Two hours later Polly was jolting out of Baltimore on the road to Philadelphia. She rode atop the coach. Nuisance shared her seat and her dejection.

The driver, a genial soul, said, "You appear sad to part from your young man, Miss. Is he a sailor?"

"Yes. A mate on a privateer. He's going to sea tonight . . . I wonder what name this war will have?"

"Why, Miss, maybe they'll just call it the war of 1812. I figger we'll have the British licked before Christmas and maybe annex Canada."

Polly snorted derisively. "Have you ever seen a British man-of-war coming down on you with all sails spread?"

"Well, no, Miss. I'm an inland man, rightly. Horses is my line."

"Then don't try to be a prophet!" snapped Polly vehemently and began to weep into her handkerchief. . . . Never to see Jerry again. Could she endure it?

AIR-CONDITIONED BREAD ON MARKET

New Butter Krust Makes Big Hit With Housewives Of Northeast Louisiana

The new air-conditioned Butter Krust bread was introduced to northeast Louisiana yesterday and made an instant hit with housewives of this section because of its uniform goodness.

The Ouachita Baking company, makers of Butter Krust bread, recently completed the most extensive improvements ever made in the baking industry in north Louisiana and the new air-conditioned Butter Krust loaf is the result of these improvements. The public is cordially invited to visit the local bakery and inspect the modern plant.

Air-conditioned Butter Krust is no idle slogan devised in an attempt to "sell" housewives on a new wrinkle that has no actual merit. There are several reasons why air-conditioned bread is far superior to a product baked under ordinary conditions.

When bread dough comes from the mixer, it has a temperature of 80 degrees. It must be kept at this temperature for four hours to assure maximum uniformity and goodness. In an ordinary bakery the dough is subject to changing temperatures—in the hot summertime it may reach 105 degrees and in colder weather it may go as low as 65. Under these conditions the dough picks up many impurities. But not so in the air-conditioned Butter Krust plant. Here the temperature is kept at 80 degrees by the automatic humidifier.

Also, bread must be cooled quickly when it comes from the ovens to avoid absorption of impurities and it must be cold when wrapped. Air-conditioning does this for the Butter Krust loaf through the circulation of washed, humidified air.

The Ouachita plant also has installed the very latest machines for slicing and wrapping the Butter Krust loaf, which is now wrapped in the distinctive black and white wrapper. These machines make the wrapping as near air-tight as possible and it is all done automatically.

The Ouachita Baking company has spent thousands of dollars to provide northeast Louisiana with a better Butter Krust loaf and the management is more than pleased with the fine reception accorded their new product yesterday.

HARVEL GOES "HOME"

"Red" Harvel got quite a reception when he returned to Dallas last week to look over some prospects for the Monroe ball club. "Red," you know, did quite a bit of outfielding for the Dallas club during the past few years and he's rated one of the most popular players ever to perform in the Steers' outfield.

The first day "Red" was in town he was cornered by newspapermen and given the well-known first degree. The next morning an interview was printed in the News. And George White, sports editor of the News, used Harvel as column-fodder. It follows:

"Luther (Red) Harvel, former Mav outfielder who was transferred to the Monroe (La.) club of the Cotton States league during the winter to take a managerial post, herded his gasoline buggy into Dallas Tuesday and was an interested spectator at the first intra-squad game.

"Dallas has agreed to let Harvel have his pick of excess talent.

"'Yeh,' broke in a leather-lung occupying a front box, 'you're liable to get arrested, Red, if they don't come up with more than [illegible] to fix in the outfield here.'"

Which is quite a compliment to the Monroe skipper.

And White tells another one on Red.

"Red Harvel was inspecting some of the working tools the Steers were using," wrote the Dallas scribe, "when he spied a fungo bat labeled 'Vicksburg.' The letters were plainly burned in the wood.

"'This belongs in the Cotton States league,' he declared. 'Guess I'd better order a truck to return any stuff I find to its rightful home.'

"Brubaker halted these plans by warning that Hal Funk, the Longview pilot, already had been here on camp inspection and Ray figures the East Texas league will do all right for equipment."

But Harvel has the last laugh. He returned with the signed contracts of eight promising rookie pitchers and two catchers who are said to be better than fair to middling.

LET'S HAVE TRACK

We have it from an authoritative source that Northeast Center of L. S. U. will get a new stadium and that the athletic field will be improved with all the trimmings. And we want to put in our nickel's worth in behalf of a cinder track at the junior college plant.

Several track coaches in northeast Louisiana have been trying to prevail upon Northeast Center to stage a track and field meet each spring. There's a make-shift track at Center now and we still can't see why an invitational meet couldn't be held there this spring, but even so, we hope the powers that be out there provide for the future by including plans for a real cinder layout in the new setup.

There is no reason why this section of the state couldn't produce as many outstanding track men as any other section, provided the proper encouragement is given track coaches and their athletes.

Woodrow Turner, of Ouachita Parish High school, and John Whatley, of Rayville High school, are the prime movers in the campaign for more and better track meets in this section. The biggest drawback is lack of competition. The teams have to travel too far to get a good meet. Wisner is the only place with a track suitable for a dual meet and other track teams must practice on football fields and vacant lots.

A meet held in Monroe, open to everybody, could create a lot of interest in track. It would encourage high schools which do not have track teams at present to sponsor cinder squads.

Monroe merchants would be glad to provide prizes for winners in a general track meet which would attract teams from throughout this area.

MATTHEWS SIGNS FOR FIGHT HERE

Spectacular Tallulah Negro Heavyweight Meets Ted Wilson March 28

Oscar "King Kong" Matthews, Tallulah negro heavyweight who went east and piled up an impressive string of knockout victories in New York before he injured his arm, will return to the boxing wars at Bruscato arena here on Monday, March 28, it was announced last night.

Matthews, who has been in Tallulah for the past few weeks recuperating from his arm injury and visiting his home, will meet Ted Wilson, St. Louis negro heavyweight. Wilson and his manager, Lon Curley of New York, passed through Monroe last week en route to Florida, where Wilson has two fights booked, and signed to meet Matthews.

Matthews proved quite a sensation in New York during the four months he remained there. With Paul Berlenbach, former light heavyweight champion of the world, training and handling him, the Tallulah negro scored eight consecutive knockouts before running into Jack Trammell and injuring his wrist. Matthews kayoed Jack Tebo, Canadian heavyweight champion, and Jose Monez, Portuguese titleholder, during his impressive string.

Wilson, who will be brought here after his Florida engagements, is said to be a worthy opponent for the big Tallulah negro. The St. Louis heavy has won his last six matches, five of them by knockouts. He knocked out Sid Petrin in Chicago, and Petrin previously had fought a draw with Pete Perroni. Promoter Charlie Bruscato said it would be no upset if Wilson beat Matthews.

Bruscato said he would arrange a good card to back up the main event. The eight-round semi-final will feature "Speedy" Wallace, 147, of San Diego, vs. Joe Gulley, the 153-pound West Monroe slugger. Three four-round battles also will be presented, it was said.

CLASS D LEAGUE FORMED IN RIO GRANDE VALLEY

DURHAM, N. C., March 19.—(AP)—Minor league headquarters announced today the Texas Valley league has qualified as a class D baseball circuit for the 1938 season.

The league is made up of Taft, Harlingen, Refugio, McAllen, Corpus Christi and Brownsville, all in Texas. Guy Airey of San Antonio is president of the circuit.

The Western and Three-I loops have consolidated for the approaching campaign, but the organization of the Texas Valley leaves the membership of the National association at 37 circuits.

STANFORD CAGE STAR TO SEEK CAREER IN MOVIES

HOLLYWOOD, March 19.—(AP)—Angelo (Hank) Luisetti, Stanford's basketball wizard, is looking for a career in the movies.

The dark, handsome holder of the world collegiate scoring record will confer Monday with Warner Brothers studio, which had planned to use him in a basketball short. However, it was reported today he may be starred in a feature picture.

Luisetti said he has a $125-a-month job waiting when he graduates in June if his film dream collapses.

TRAINING CAMP Notes

PELICANS

NEW ORLEANS, March 19.—(AP)—The Pelicans held only a routine workout today as the New York Giants and the Cleveland Indians claimed baseball fans' interest here.

Manager Larry Gilbert said the New Orleans team would go through another light conditioner tomorrow before yielding the spotlight to a pitching duel between Bob Feller of the Indians and the Giants' Carl Hubbell.

CHICKS

GULFPORT, Miss., March 19.—(AP)—Manager Billy Southworth clipped 19 rookies from the Memphis Chicks' roster today.

The dismissed rookies, brought on from the team's training school at Jackson, Miss., probably will be farmed out for the 1938 season, Southworth said.

A late afternoon shower cut short today's practice for the remaining 25 players as they prepared for an exhibition game Tuesday with the Philadelphia Phillies at Biloxi, Miss.

SENATORS

ORLANDO, Fla., March 19.—(AP)—Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Senators, said tonight he and Manager Bucky Harris were "looking over" Leon "Goose" Goslin, former star Detroit outfielder.

Goslin was given an unconditional release by Detroit after last season. He once ranked as one of the best hitters in the American league.

TRAYNOR EXPECTS IMPROVED SQUAD

Battle For Positions Being Waged But Pirates' Pilot Is Optimistic

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., March 19.—(AP)—Until the Pittsburgh Pirates settle a none too friendly internal war for positions in every department except catching, the Bucs' regular lineup during the coming National league campaign will remain undecided.

Manager Harold J. (Pie) Traynor believes the Giants, Cubs, Pirates and Cardinals, who finished in that order in 1937, will fight it out again this year for the championship.

Traynor, confident he can smooth his infield and outfield talent into clicking combinations, prays most ardently of all that his pitching staff won't fall apart in mid-season, as it did in the thick of things last summer.

The easy-going Traynor thinks the two Waners, Paul and Lloyd, will be as good as ever in the outer garden, and that the Bucs' young $25,000 rookie, Johnny Rizzo, will provide a new punch in left field. He hit .358 for Columbus last year.

John Dickshot, Forrest Jensen, young Morrie Sands and Melvin Preibisch will have to fight it out among themselves for the two reserve outfield jobs.

Gus Suhr has first sewed up. Ditto Pep Young at second. Arky Vaughn should be able to continue at short. But Bill Brubaker has a tussle afoot to keep third from Lee Handley. Tommy Thevenow was expressly bought for utility purposes, so he seems safe for that role.

Al Todd, who batter .307 last year, and Raymond Berres, late of Louisville, will do the catching.

As for the hurling possibilities, Traynor pins most of his faith on Russ Bauers and Jim Tobin, both of whom blossomed into winning pitchers late last season. Bauers won 13 and lost 6, and Tobin won 6 and lost 3.

The rest of the Pirate pitchers fared badly, but Traynor has faith they will come back. Cy Blanton was the only regular who hurled 10 full games. He wound up with 14 wins and 12 defeats.

CHANCE RAY WINNER OF FAIR GROUNDS FEATURE

NEW ORLEANS, March 19.—(AP)—C. E. Davison's Chance Ray captured the $2,000 added Hammond handicap at the Fair Grounds today when Mrs. Sam Orr's gelding, Orinoco, was disqualified.

Orinoco won the race but the stewards said he lugged over on Mrs. A. R. Smith's Trouper during the stretch run of the mile and 70 yards race, causing Trouper to pull up and interfere slightly with Chance Ray. Orinoco was the favorite.

Trouper, which finished second, set the pace in the race, holding the lead to the stretch. Mrs. A. M. Creech's entry, Flying Watch, was third. Chance Ray paid $10.40 for $2.

The $1,000 Rhododendron handicap, at six furlongs, was won by E. K. Bryson's three-year-old filly, Bunny Baby. Bunny Baby survived a dizzy early pace, shook off Yule Star and Gay Balko and won drawing out from Gay Balko, which just lasted to save the place from Sun Capture.

Reaping, carrying top weight, and Miss Dolphin, the favorites, finished far back. Bunny Baby paid $7.40 for $2.

24 EXPECTED TO REPORT HERE FOR INITIAL WORKOUT

Manager Harvel Signs Ten Rookies At Dallas; Exhibition Sale Opens

Twenty-four players under contract to the Monroe White Sox, plus several youngsters from Monroe and vicinity, are expected to report to Manager "Red" Harvel at Casino park next Thursday morning for the first workout of spring training.

Manager Harvel returned late Friday night from Dallas and yesterday announced that he had signed eight rookie pitchers and two rookie catchers during his stay in the Steers' camp. Several of the pitchers appear particularly promising, he said.

"All of those kids are big fellows," Harvel declared, "and three or four of them have a real zip on the ball. I think we'll be able to get one or two starting pitchers from among the eight."

All of the rookies signed are without previous professional experience, Harvel said, and the Monroe skipper didn't collect the data on their semi-pro or college records. The pitchers are Griswold, Hansen, Shipp, Moore, White, Finnell, Burrows and Bruhn, and the catchers are Littlejohn and Cossi.

In addition to these ten players, others who have been ordered to report here next Thursday are Infielders Lester Rock, Lloyd Webb, Paul Riggins, Frank Hackney and Claire Bates; Outfielders Beauford Rhea, Sam Enslen and Frank Narbut, Pitchers Paul Scott, Dick Fentress, Dale Richardson and Ray Beize, and Catcher Bobby Schang. Manager Harvel, of course, will hold down one of the outfield berths. Johnny Conway has been allowed to remain in training at Dallas until April 1 and the seasoned hurlers who will be sent here by the Dallas club probably will not report until the first week in April.

Several youngsters here and in surrounding towns have asked for permission to report "on their own" for workouts with the Monroe squad and Manager Harvel said he would be glad to have them.

Harvel said he was more than pleased with his confab with Business Manager Bob Tarleton of the Dallas club during the past week. Tarleton promised the White Sox "all the help they need" and mentioned several outstanding pitchers as probable Monroe property during the coming campaign.

The playing field at Casino park is in good shape and Manager Harvel will direct the ground crew in the finishing touches early this week. The new road uniforms arrived Friday and the club will use these for spring training.

As plans were being completed for spring training here, club officials last week also began working on advance preparations for the New York Giants-Cleveland Indians exhibition game to be played at Casino park on April 8. Secretary E. E. Meredith said sale of tickets for the "big game" would start Monday morning. Those who wish to reserve seats for the game may call or write the Monroe Baseball club, 8th floor Bernhardt building, telephone 621.

Season box seat tickets will not be honored at the Giants-Indians game but purchasers of boxes will be given first consideration in distribution of the reserved seats, Mr. Meredith said. The scale of prices is 55 cents for bleachers seats, $1.10 for grandstand and $1.40 for box seats, all prices including federal tax. The price scale was set in the contract with Bill Terry, it was announced.

A capacity crowd is expected to see the big exhibition attraction. Many requests for reservations already have been received, with one block of 40 seats already reserved for a group of fans in a neighboring town.

INDIANS TRIM GIANTS

NEW ORLEANS, March 19.—(AP)—The Cleveland Indians hammered out seven runs in the fourth and fifth innings today to defeat the New York Giants, 9 to 5, in the first game of their long spring exhibition series.

Hal Trosky's homer with two on base was the big blow of the fourth-inning rally against Cliff Melton that all but overcame the Giants' early lead. In the next frame singles by Lyn Lary, Roy Weatherly and Ken Keltner and Dick Bartell's wild throw accounted for three tallies. Keltner's homer in the seventh finished the scoring.

The Giants gathered three runs off rookie Tom Drake in the fourth on singles by Lou Chiozza, Melton, Joe Moore and Bartell, combined with two errors and a hit batsman.

Score by innings:

New York (N)	110 300 000	5	8	3
Cleveland (A)	000 430 20x	9	11	4

BROWNS BEAT TULSA

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 19.—(AP)—It took the St. Louis Browns eleven innings to whip the Tulsa Oilers, 4 to 3, in the second game of their spring series here today. Tommy Heath's long fly with John Barkley on third base brought in the winning tally.

The game seemed all wrapped up for St. Louis in the regulation time with the score 3 to 2. Then Bill Miller, third pitcher of the day, became wilder and wilder and walked three men in succession. Bill Trotter was rushed in but the first man hit into a double play, which let the tying run in. The Browns defeated Tulsa, 18 to 3, yesterday.

Score by innings:

Tulsa (T)	001 001 001 00	3	8	2
St. Louis (A)	200 100 000 01	4	9	2

CARDS WHIP YANKS

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 19.—(AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals hammered Joe Beggs, rookie right-hander, for eight runs in the first two innings today then hung on to nose out the New York Yankees 9 to 7 in an exhibition game.

Lon Warneke blanked the world champions for five innings before they began a comeback against Max Macon and Bill McGee. Three walks and three hits, including a double by Art Garibaldi gave the Cards five runs in the first and Terry Moore's homer started a three-run second. Kemp Wicker and Spud Chandler pitched effectively for the Yanks after the damage was done.

NATS TRIM BLUES

HAINES CITY, Fla., March 19.—(AP)—The Washington Senators beat the Kansas City Blues today, 7 to 5, chalking up their second straight victory in the "Grapefruit league" exhibitions.

Kansas City, after trailing in the early innings, hopped on pitcher Ray Phebus in the fifth and sixth to get four of their five runs. The Senators, however, ran up a two-run lead in the eighth and held it through the final frame.

Earlier in the week the Senators beat the St. Louis Cards 15 to 13.

Score by innings:

Washington (A)	200 003 020	7	7	2

PIRATES BEAT CHISOX

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., March 19.—(AP)—The Chicago White Sox dropped a 4 to 2 decision to the Pittsburgh Pirates today, but the performance of Gerald Walker in the Sox outfield took a big edge off the defeat for Manager Jimmy Dykes.

Walker, obtained from Detroit last December, made a spectacular catch in the seventh and in the same frame smacked a lusty double with the bases loaded, giving the Sox all their runs and tying the score at 2-all. The Pirates got four hits and the benefit of a Sox error to win in the eighth. Bowman was the winning pitcher.

Score by innings:

Chicago (A)	000 000 200	2	8	2
Pittsburgh (N)	011 000 02x	4	8	2

CUBS TROUNCE ANGELS

LOS ANGELES, March 19.—(AP)—Leroy Parmelee allowed no hits and walked only two batsmen in the four innings he worked for the Cubs today as the Chicago National leaguers trounced their Los Angeles farm club 13 to 2. Al Epperly, who pitched the last five frames, gave up the three safeties collected by the Angels.

Joe Marty, outfielder, was the only Cub regular who started and finished, and he had a triple and home run to his credit.

BRADENTON, Fla., March 19.—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds today turned back the Boston Bees, 11 to 8, for their fourth victory out of five games in the grapefruit league and their second straight over Casey Stengel's club.

In a game marred by eight errors, the Bees missed a chance to tie the score when Elbie Fletcher ended a ninth-inning rally by striking out with the tying runs on the bases.

RED SOX NOSE DODGERS

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 19.—(AP)—The Boston Red Sox gained their first victory of the "grapefruit league" season today, defeating the Brooklyn Dodgers, 4 to 3. It was Brooklyn's first exhibition start.

The Sox got two runs in the first on Bobby Doerr's lead-off double, singles by Doc Cramer and Ben Chapman and Jimmy Foxx's fly. They picked up another pair in the third when Cramer belted a home run, Chapman tripled and Foxx doubled.

Buddy Hassett made two of Brooklyn's six hits and scored twice. Johnny Hudson accounted for the other with a homer.

Chuck Klein of the Phils connected for two of the circuit clouts. The others were hit by Martin, Arnovich, Scharein and Mueller of the Phils and Hasson, Johnson and Easterling of the A's.

The A's won the game with an eight-run rally in the fifth when southpaw Bill Hallahan issued six bases on balls coupled with two hits.

In the lightweight division Istrouma also piled up 17 points to win. Catholic High was second.

PRO-AMATEUR TO DECIDING ROUND

Moore And Dunkelberger To Meet Toomer And Evers At St. Augustine

ST. AUGUSTINE, Fla., March 19.—(AP)—Frank Moore of Mamaroneck, N. Y., and Bobby Dunkelberger of High Point, N. C., blasted their way into the finals of the Amateur Professional Best Ball Golf tournament today against Jimmy Thomson of Shawnee-On-The-Delaware, Pa., and Carl Dann, Jr., of Orlando.

Piling up a big early margin, the Moore-Dunkelberger combination knocked out the tournament dark-horses—Jack Toomer of Waynesville, N. C., and Oscar Evers of Jacksonville—with an 8 and 7 victory in their scheduled 36-hole match.

The going was tougher for Thomson and Dann, who had to scramble to dispose of Harry Cooper of Chicopee, Mass., and Paul Leslie of Baton Rouge, La., 3 and 2.

Plainly fatigued from their gruelling 27-hole third round match, Toomer and Evers managed to hold Moore and Dunkelberger even only for the first four holes. But the winners put on the pressure and captured three holes in a row.

Dunkelberger made it four-up by sinking a 40-foot putt on the short ninth. He chipped in for a birdie on the 10th, sank an eight-footer for a half on the 11th and canned a 12-footer on the 12th to put his side six up. The Moore-Dunkelberger twosome still held that margin when they went to lunch.

Moore got hot early in the afternoon. He won the first hole with a birdie and played a great second shot two feet from the pin on the fourth for an eagle to top the birdies of both Toomer and Evers. The sixth was won by Moore with another birdie and he and Dunkelberger were eight up—Toomer having won the second with a birdie three.

Evers prolonged the match dropping a 20-foot putt for a deuce on the ninth, but Moore got down from about 10 feet on the 10th. Moore and Dunkelberger won when they halved the 11th.

Cooper and Leslie never could get ahead of Thomson and Dann in their close encounter. After taking the lead on the 14th hole of the morning round, the winners held it throughout the rest of the match.

NEVILLE SWEEPS ALL TROPHIES IN ANNUAL BATTLES

Lake Providence Strong In Heavyweight Division To Become Runner-Up

The Neville High school boxers made almost a clean sweep of the fifth annual district championship fights here last night at the Neville arena as they piled up 45 points to retain their team championship, kept the lightweight division crown with 25 points and then wrested the heavyweight division title from the Lake Providence Panthers with a total of 20.

The Lake Providence team was strong in the heavyweight division, scoring 19 points and missing a tie with Neville in that rank by one point. The 19 points left the Panthers in the runner-up position for the team championship. Tallulah's Trojans placed second in the lightweight division with 14 points and had a total score of 15 points.

Other team scores were as follows: Oak Grove, 9; Start, 6; Bastrop, 5; Forest, 4; Jonesville, 4; Kilbourne, 0, and Sicily Island, 0.

The individual champions for 1938 are:

90 pounds: E. B. Peddy, Neville.

98 pounds: Robert Cagnolatti, Tallulah.

105 pounds: Arleigh "Buck" Brantley, Neville.

112 pounds: Anthony Danna, Neville.

118 pounds: Pat Cole, Neville.

126 pounds: Robert Gates, Neville.

135 pounds: Harry Deal, Lake Providence.

145 pounds: Bill Wyly, Lake Providence.

155 pounds: Walter Brady, Neville.

165 pounds: Perry Snyder, Neville.

175 pounds: Ray Spicer, Neville.

Heavyweight: Sam Whatley, Lake Providence.

The team, lightweight and heavyweight trophies were presented to the Neville team by Dr. William L. Bendel, official tournament physician. Medals were also awarded to all individual first and second-place winners.

There were several close fights in the finals bouts, but the 118-pound engagement between Mouton Quinn, Bastrop, and Cole of Neville and the 135-pound clash between Harry Deal, Lake Providence, and Ed Stanert, Oak Grove, were probably the closest, and the judges had a tough time picking the winners in those weights.

Quinn had the best of Cole in the first round but let hitting in the clinches count against him. The second round was about even, and Cole had a slight edge in the third. Two judges voted for Cole and the other gave Quinn the nod, and an outburst of mingled booes with applause followed the decision.

The favored Deal found he had his hands full with Ed Stanert, the rugged Oak Grove scrapper. The first round was slow and about even, and the second went to Deal by a shade. Deal looked good at the opening of the

LANDIS CALLS BIG SHOTS IN CARDS' PROBE

OWNERS QUIZZED IN INVESTIGATION OF CHAIN SYSTEM

Baseball Czar Questions Many Of Game's Notables In Sweeping Inquiry

By Harry Grayson
(NEA Sports Editor
(Copyright, 1938, NEA Service, Inc.)

BELLEAIR. Fla., March 19.—Judge Kenesaw M. Landis's investigation of the alleged unholy alliances between the St. Louis Cardinals and the Cedar Rapids club of the Western league and their affiliates in 1936 and 1937 is the most sweeping probe in the history of baseball.

Nothing short of a meeting of the National association draws as many big shot owners and officials as did the early exhibition games in nearby St. Petersburg, where the Cardinals and New York Yankees are training.

And Landis called them all individually to the ramshackle old resort hotel at Belleair.

The commissioner is getting everybody's story, but now that news of the investigation has broken ahead of Judge Landis's official decision on the case, there is of course a big effort to hush it all up, and most of the high baseball officials in Florida today are denying that they know anything about it or have anything to do with it.

While everybody versed with the facts in the St. Louis-Cedar Rapids case agrees that Branch Rickey and the Cardinals were attempting to accomplish something which they could not accomplish within a written agreement, most of them disagree with Landis' firm stand against the farm system.

Landis all along has contended that extensive baseball farming borders too closely upon syndicate baseball. He now has something on which to base his argument since it develops that the Cardinals, through Cedar Rapids, actually had two chains in smaller leagues instead of one, thanks to a gentleman's agreement between Rickey and Harry S. Johnson, the attorney who owns the Cedar Rapids club.

But the farm system advocates point out that it restored minor league baseball.

William Gibbons Bramham, president of the National association, explains that only four minor leagues were certain of functioning at the bottom step of the depression, when he was asked to take charge of baseball reorganization, at the famous meeting in Columbus in the fall of 1932.

Unless the Landis verdict in the St. Louis-Cedar Rapids case wipes out two or three minor circuits, 37 leagues will open their gates this spring. Naturally, much of this growth can be traced to major league subsidization.

The Cardinals either own or control something like 30 minor league clubs. The Yankees dominate 13. Landis deems it unfair for clubs like these to have the pick of the talent, while the Philadelphia Phillies, for example, with no farm clubs, have to skimp along as best they can.

Landis was beaten at the National association meeting in Montreal a year ago last December, when the Baltimore amendment made it permissible for major league scouts to recommend players to minor league clubs without notifying either the Landis office or that of the National association.

Landis then was seeking a closer check on the status of players, but the owners refused to give it to him on the ground that some small minor league clubs might occasionally lose a player through unintentional infractions of the rules.

The commissioner is in the corner of the players, who need someone in their corner, as it has been proved repeatedly by the old jurist's findings and decisions.

The Tom Henrich case was a typical example of the progress of a player being impeded. The Cleveland club had Henrich, who wound up with the Yankees, covered up in Milwaukee.

Landis backed up on the Bob Feller case only because he feared that the Iowa farm boy would be hurt by the large sum of money he would have been paid as a free agent.

But the commissioner is not expected to back up in the case of the double-barreled farm system of the Cardinals and Cedar Rapids.

And many of the same men who put Landis at the head of baseball to keep it straight and honest are now squawking about his being vastly too much more judicial than constructive.

FEATHERS SET FOR BIG SEASON WITH SENATORS

JACKSON, Miss., March 19.—(AP)—Beattie Feathers, who first crashed the sports pages as an all-America footballer at Tennessee, was in Jackson today ready to play the best baseball of his life for the Senators in the 1938 Southeastern race.

Feathers' arrival caused President George Brannon of the Senators to recall this story:

"Last year Beattie was worried along the end of the year about getting an early leave to join the Chicago Bears for football practice. I told him I'd let him off early, as he asked, if he would pick up in his baseball. Do you know that big fellow boosted his batting average almost overnight 100 points?"

Beattie himself believes he can do that well all summer if he sets his mind to it and this is his summer to prove it.

First drill under Max Rosenfield, new pilot who arrives Tuesday from Miami Beach Fla., is set for Thursday, with 33 players expected. The Philadelphia Phillies will come here for the Sentors' first game, April 1.

FORMER CENTENARY GRID STAR GOES TO INDIANA

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., March 19.—(AP)—Carl (Swede) Anderson, athletic director and head football coach at Western Kentucky State Teachers college the last four years, was appointed today as assistant to A. N. (Bo) McMillin, head football coach at Indiana university.

He will report for spring practice Monday, McMillin said. Anderson played under McMillin's coaching as blocking halfback three years at Centenary college at Shreveport, La., and a season at Geneva college at Beaver Falls, Pa.

He served as assistant football coach to McMillin at Kansas State university and went to Western State four years ago when McMillin came to Indiana.

CUNNINGHAM WINS MILE RUN AGAIN

Kansan Makes Surprise Start In Metropolitan Event And Sets Record

JERSEY CITY, N. J., March 19.—Glenn Cunningham made a surprise start in the mile run of the Metropolitan A. A. U. indoor track and field championships tonight and it wasn't even a race as he ran three rivals into the ground to set a new meet record of 4 minutes, 21.2 seconds.

As usual, the Kansas king of the milers stole the show from all other performances. In tonight's running, his one-sided victory stood out above even a new indoor world two-mile steeplechase record performance by the veteran Joe McCluskey in 9:43.3, as well as a series of meet field marks by former Olympic aces Ed Gordon and Cornelius Johnson.

For six laps Cunningham and his fellow Kansan, Archie San Romani, ran shoulder to shoulder, but once the mighty miler let go with his kick, Archie started to bat in a different league.

At the seventh-lap mark, Glenn led by five yards, at nine laps he was 25 yards in front and at the finish on the flat boards of the big new armory here San Romani was more than a quarter of a lap behind. Two others entered the event, but no one saw them finish.

His time clipped one-tenth of a second off the Metropolitan record set a year ago by Cunningham's perennial shadow, Gene Venzke, the ex-Pennsylvania picture runner. Venzke did not start in tonight's mile, saving himself for the 1,000-yard run, which Cunningham was scheduled to run, but which he gave up in favor of his specialty.

As a result, Venzke took the 1,000 in a breeze. He went in front at the one-lap mark and finished three yards in front of Henry Egal of St. John's of Brooklyn without putting on much "heat" on the slippery unbanked boards. His time of 2:18.5 was well off the meet record of 2:15.4.

Fordham sent a fast mile relay quartet to the wars and it came home in front after Francis Slater, national 1,000-meter champion, took up the duties on the anchor leg. He overhauled Manhattan and Lenox Hill A. A. and broke the tape in the new Metropolitan record time of 3:28.

CROWDS ARRIVING FOR AINTREE RACE

Grand National Is Six Days Away But English Fans Converge On Track

AINTREE, England, March 19.—(AP)—The strangest sporting pilgrimage in the world started tonight when thousands of racing fans converged on Aintree to place their "jump Sunday" bets on Friday's Grand National Steeplechase.

Though the race is still six days away, tipsters had planted their multicolored umbrellas around the course, the track was opened to the public, and hotels here and at Liverpool were jammed to the doors.

Tomorrow the crowd will be allowed to walk around and inspect Aintree's "suicide lane." They will examine the thorn fences and wide streams—and put their money on the line.

This year, out of a field of 40 there are ten horses which have been receiving the bulk of the support in the pre-race wagering.

First choice is Royal Mail, last year's winner, who was owned by the late Hugh Lloyd Thomas, and bought at auction recently by Mrs. Camille Clifford Evans. In the climax of the most disastrous training season in recent history of the National, Thomas was killed in a race at Derby last month.

Close behind Royal Mail, which is being held at 100.7 are Arthur Sainsbury's Blue Shirt and the Marquis De San Miguel's Takvor Pacha, lone French entry and surprise of the wagering. Each is quoted at 15 to 1.

J. B. Snow's American-owned Delachance also has come in for strong support and currently is being held at 18 to 20-1. James V. Rank's Cooleen, runner-up last year, Sir Warren Chilcott's Dunhill Castle and Arthur Donn's Dominick's Cross are next in line at 22 to 1 then comes Sir John Grey's Stalbridge Park and V. H. Smith's Rockquilla at 25 to 1 and Sir Frances Towle's Airgead Sios, one of the early favorites at 28 to 1.

Tradition is against Royal Mail repeating. He must carry top weight of 175 pounds, and only four horses in the history of the race have won with the maximum handicap.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Eddie Brietz

NEW YORK, March 19.—(AP)—Fresh from the coast: Joe DiMaggio will sign for $25,000 any hour now and we don't mean days. . . . Mike Jacobs really hopes those "scrambled" conditions in Germany will prevent Max Schmeling from coming over to fight Joe Louis (1) because Mike is afraid Max will put Joe to sleep (thus ruining a perfectly good meal ticket) and (2) because an anti-Nazi boycott might make a sizeable dent in what otherwise shapes up as a million-dollar gate. . . . Personally, Mike would prefer to see Maxie Baer in there. . . .

The Temple basketball team which won the Madison Square Garden tournament isn't superstitious, anyway. . . . They brought 13 players to town; left Philadelphia on track No. 13; had rooms on the 13th floor of the hotel and the first hat check received by Coach Usilton was No. 13. . . . Bet old Pop Warner wouldn't have stood for all that more than a minute. . . . We get plenty tired of hearing how some of these big league clubs need catchers. . . . Why doesn't one of them go out and make a deal for Virgil Davis of the Reds, a fine receiver, good hitter, perfect gentleman and a darned swell guy to have around a ball club.

Every member of Wisconsin's boxing team, except one, is a bona fide native. . . . That's all right, but how many collitches can say that about their football teams? . . . Arkansas State Teachers will travel 7,500 miles playing football next fall, which we claim is a record for a school with only 700 students. . . . A hop to Fresno, Calif., will be made by air. . . . Out-of-towners block traffic on Broadway peering into Jack Dempsey's new drinking spot. . . . Jack wishes they would go in and hoist a few steins.

Olson's "all-America" girls' basketball team is a terrific hit in the small towns. . . . They play only men's teams and beat most of 'em.

Two lanky brothers from Corbin, Ky., will be rivals for the center position on the University of Kentucky basketball team next season. . . . They are Marion Cluggish, six feet nine, and his brother, Stanford, who is only six feet two. . . . Too bad the boys are so small. . . . Frank Thomas, Alabama football coach, is going around with a gleam in his eye. . . . Some of those freshmen must look pretty good.

L. S. U. ENDS FOOTBALL PRACTICE IN 7-6 GAME

BATON ROUGE, La., March 19.—(AP)—Louisiana State's Tigers ended six weeks of spring football practice today with an intra-squad game in which the Blues defeated the Whites 7-6.

Dick Gormley captained the Blues and Gayle Monget, sophomore candidate for Gormley's center position, the Whites.

Bob Kendrick plunged over for the Blues' touchdown in the second period from the one-yard line where Young Bussey had downed his own blocked kick on fourth down. Guy (Cotton) Milner kicked the extra point.

After the touchdown play, Bussey was carried from the field with a strained muscle.

Kay Anastasio, sophomore halfback, ran the kickoff back 85 yards for a touchdown a minute later for the Whites' only score. Jimmy Cajoleas' try at kicking the extra point was wide.

Coach Bernie Moore expressed high satisfaction with work accomplished this spring.

VIDALIA BASEBALL CLUB OPENS SEASON IN NATCHEZ

FERRIDAY, La., March 19.—(Special)—Manager Mike Ohlsen's Vidalia Tigers will play their first game of the season in Natchez Sunday afternoon, meeting the enrollees of Leroy "Cowboy" Jones' training school. Jones' team lost two games to the Mississippi college Choctaws Thursday and Friday and will also engage the Millsaps Majors next Tuesday afternoon.

Vidalia will be aided by O. C. Montgomery, left fielder, Babe Brown, shortstop and Jake Sanguinetti, third sacker, of the Natchez Indians club.

'HUMAN BLIMP' BOOKED FOR WRESTLING CARD

640-POUND ENTRY TO MEET 4 FOES AT LOCAL ARENA

Martin Levy To Tackle Purdin, Caddell, Powell And Rabeen At Once

Martin Levy, famous "human blimp," will be the feature attraction at Wednesday night's wrestling show at Bruscato arena, it was announced by Promoter Charlie Bruscato.

Levy, who weighs 640 pounds, will wrestle four light heavyweights at once, and at the conclusion of that exhibition, the four will be used in the usual two matches.

The four wrestlers who will oppose Levy are Jack Purdin, Al Caddell, Najeeb Rabeen and Turk Powell. The first two who are thrown—or smashed—by the blimp will meet in the semi-final match and the two survivors will tangle in the main event. Purdin and Caddell made their mat debuts here last week, Caddell substituting for Powell. Rabeen and Powell are newcomers.

Levy, who sometimes has to be hoisted in and out of the ring and who usually travels around in a truck, has been quite a wrestling attraction over the country for the past year or so. He is said to be surprisingly active for his 640 pounds and, according to press reports, puts on a good show.

Levy has appeared in several motion pictures. He has just completed a picture for Warner Brothers in New York and is on his way to Hollywood to appear in another film. Bruscato said Levy is making a wrestling tour of the south and southwest en route to California and thus the local promoter was able to book him here. He said he is paying Levy a large guarantee, and the admission price will be increased to 75 cents.

The four wrestlers who will attempt to "gang" Levy and then appear in the regulation matches are all capable performers. Purdin proved quite a roughhouse artist last week in defeating Morris Bloomfield, powerful Jewish light heavyweight champion. Caddell also turned in a most creditable performance in stopping Tommy Tracy, the clever Little Rock grappler.

Powell, an Alabama entry, is said to be a rough grappler. Rabeen, a Turkish gentleman who is said to appear in native dress, turban and all, is quite colorful, according to reports. All have been highly recommended to the local promoter, he said, and it ought to be a good show.

As soon as Levy has shown his wares, the semi-final, a 45-minute affair, will start. The main event will have a 90-minute time limit. Both matches will be best two out of three falls.

"Butch" Martin will referee all matches, J. B. Swanson will make the announcements and "Bud" Fisher will keep time.

DELHI AND BERNICE WIN COLORED CAGE TOURNEY

Living up to predictions, Richland Parish Training school made good on early foul shots to nose out Bastrop's Morehouse Training Lions 30-27 in the finals of the colored high school basketball tournament held here at the Liberty club Friday. The Bernice Training school girls won the sextet title by trouncing Columbia's Union High school, 18-4.

Billy Herring, lanky Delhi center, was not only high point player of the day, but also tossed in 22 of his team's 30 points.

The Delhi school will represent the fifth district in the state championship playoff at Southern university next Friday and Saturday.

The Bernice sextet displayed a brand of basketball that almost matched the title winning male team.

The Monroe school was eliminated in the second game of the day by a 26-8 drubbing at the hands of Delhi.

third, but Stanert suddenly rallied and was staggering Deal about the ring as the round drew to a close. Again the judges voted two and one, and the booes from the fans followed.

Peddy, Neville, was given the technical knockout victory over the battling little Lively boy from Start in the 90-pound class, but Lively was far from being kayoed. Lively suffered cuts over the eyes in the afternoon semi-finals, but refused to forfeit the final despite the fact that Peddy had the edge in reach, height and experience. Both boxers were mixing it freely, with Peddy carrying the fight, when the Start seconds saw fit to stop the fight to save their boy from any injury.

Sam Whatley, defending heavyweight from Lake Providence, and Perry Snyder, defending 165-pounder, of Neville, won their battles by technical knockouts in the second rounds. Whatley's decided reach and experience was too much for Pippin, Oak Grove; while Spicer employed a powerful right to the jaw effectively to stop Carter, of Jonesville.

One of the best fights of the night resulted in a technical knockout victory for Buck Brantley, Neville, state 90-pound champion last year. Brantley, a 105-pounder this season, had rough going with Bob Fairly, the Tallulah star, but Fairly began to weaken about the middle of the second and went down for no count. He was up quickly again only to meet a barrage of lefts and rights that floored him again and the towel came in from the Tallulah corner.

For action, the Gates-Edgerton 126-pound battle was one of the fastest and wildest on the card. Both boys hit hard and often and bored into each other from the start. Gates, of Neville, made his best show in the opening round when he knocked Edgerton to the mat twice, once for an eight count and again for no count. Gates also had a shade the better of the furious second round exchange, but the third round was about even, with both youngsters hammering away as the bell ended the fight. Gates got the judges' nod.

The tournament officials were "Hickey" Higginbotham, Joe Gersack and Fred O'Banion, all of L. S. U., judges; Sam Jones, of Monroe, referee; J. B. Swanson, Monroe, announcer; and Amos Smelser, Monroe, timer.

Summary of the finals:

90 pounds: Peddy, Neville, won by technical knockout over Lively, Start, first round.

98 pounds: Cagnolatti, Tallulah, decisioned Ross, Forest.

105 pounds: Brantley, Neville, technically knocked out Fairly, Tallulah, second round.

112 pounds: Danna, Neville, outpointed Erwin, Tallulah.

118 pounds: Cole, Neville, decisioned Quinn, Bastrop.

126 pounds: Gates, Neville, beat Edgerton, Tallulah.

135 pounds: Deal, Lake Providence, decisioned Stanert, Oak Grove.

145 pounds: Wyly, Lake Providence, outpointed Payne, Neville.

Heavyweight: Whatley, Lake Providence, technically knocked out Pippin, Oak Grove, second round.

The results of the consolation fights which preceded the finals on the night's program were:

90 pounds: Fortenberry, Forest, beat Sevier, Tallulah.

98 pounds: Cohn, Oak Grove, won on forfeit from Norman, Sicily Island.

105 pounds: Belgarde, Jonesville, won on forfeit from Wright, Lake Providence.

112 pounds: Ben Milam, Bastrop, won on forfeit from Butler, Forest.

118 pounds: Borden, Oak Grove, won on forfeit from K. Nettles, Tallulah.

126 pounds: White, Bastrop, won on forfeit from Grubbs, Kilbourne.

135 pounds: Ladart, Neville, outpointed Knicely, Jonesville.

145 pounds: Lester, Oak Grove, technically knocked out Tom Fortenberry, Forest, third round.

155 pounds: L. Nettles, Tallulah, won on forfeit from Shockley, Lake Providence.

Chaney, Lake Providence 165-pounder, and Ed Endom, Neville heavyweight, won third place in their divisions unopposed as there were only three entries in those classes. There was no third place in the light heavyweight class, only two fighters being entered in that weight.

Results of the semi-finals yesterday afternoon:

90 pounds: Lively, Start, decisioned Sevier, Tallulah; Peddy, Neville, decisioned Fortenberry, Forest.

98 pounds: Cagnolatti, Tallulah, beat Cohn, Oak Grove; Ross, Forest, technically knocked out Norman, Sicily Island, first round.

105 pounds: Brantley, Neville, technically knocked out Belgarde, Jonesville, second round; Fairly, Tallulah, won on a forfeit from Wright, Lake Providence.

112 pounds: Erwin, Tallulah, beat Butler, Forest; Danna, Neville, outpointed Milam, Bastrop.

118 pounds: Cole, Neville, beat Borden, Oak Grove; Quinn, Bastrop, decisioned K. Nettles, Tallulah.

126 pounds: Gates, Neville, won on a forfeit from Grubbs, Kilbourne; Edgerton, Tallulah, technically knocked out White, Bastrop, third round.

No semi-finals in 155, 165, 175 and heavyweight classes.

Street Asks Only That Browns Hustle For 'Break'

SARGE PREDICTS NO MIRACLES IN ST. LOUIS CAMP

Team Promises To Be Improved Club After Several Winter Trades

By Felix R. McKnight

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 19.—(AP)—Charles (Gabby) Street's 38 years in baseball have left him a wise citizen—and he doesn't plan to start getting foolish now by predicting magic from his St. Louis Browns.

Gabby Street

All the old sarge expects of the Browns, exclusive of winning their share of ball games, is what he has done all his life—hustle for a break.

"Never knew anything else myself," Street said. "My boys are going to do the same thing—and maybe we'll get somewhere."

Grey and grizzled, the campaigner who won a couple of National league pennants and a world series for the St. Louis Cardinals, believes winter trades have rid the club of a "defeatist" attitude. And can Street converse about attitudes?

"Why, last year, it got down to this. One day the Browns took a 3-2 licking from the New Yorks. What happened? They slapped each other's backs and celebrated because they had held the Yanks to three runs. Hell's bells, can you imagine that?

"Take a look at that won and lost column last year. Forty-eight won and 108 lost. Why any team could just accidentally stumble into more wins than that.

"For one thing, they lost games last year when the opposition parked a man on first base."

Gabby got his breath for a moment and added he "didn't want to say anything about the boys who aren't with the club anymore—just wanted to show you where all those games went in '37."

Remedies for the trouble? Gabby believes he has them.

First in importance is the addition of Ralph (Red) Kress, the transplanted major leaguer who played plenty of shortstop and batted .334 for Minneapolis last year.

"With Roy Hughes, our Cleveland transfer, over at second base, we should get our share of double plays," he said.

Pitchers—perennial Brownie problem—may perform a bit better this season with a bevy of newcomers. There's Buck Newsom, who won 16 and lost 14 with Washington and Boston last year; Vito Tamulis, the former Yankee who had an 18-6 record with Newark; Jim Weaver, who gave Pittsburgh eight wins against five defeats; and Ed Linke, who won six and lost one for Washington. Holdovers Jack Knott and Oral Hildebrand, plus left-hander Howard Mills of the San Antonio farm, gave Street the nucleus of his spring staff.

POWELL'S BACKGROUND

Shades of an old time battery—Powell and O'Connor for the Browns—will be flitting about the Cotton States loop with the signing of Jimmy Powell as manager of the 1938 Greenville Bucks.

Jimmy is a son of Jack Powell and a nephew of the late Jack O'Connor. To brush up on baseball history, Jack Powell was a leading pitcher for the St. Louis Browns more than a quarter of a century ago. A massive right-hander, he was a bulwark of the Brownie staff.

His battery mate was the late Jack O'Connor, an outstanding receiver of the day who later became manager of the Browns under Robert Lee Hedges. Powell and O'Connor formed a battery that was as well known as the beer and pretzel combination of those days.

Powell married O'Connor's sister, which gives Jimmy the relationship with the two former stars. Father and uncle combined efforts since Jimmy's boyhood to bring him up in the ways of baseball. With Daddy Jack to teach him from the angle of the pitcher and Uncle Jack to tutor him in the finer points of catching, young Jimmy had a baseball education that would be the envy of any young backstop.

He starred as receiver for McBride High school in St. Louis before stepping out as a professional. He threw out nine would-be base stealers in one game, and also sparkled in basketball and swimming.

When the Browns established a farm at Fort Smith in 1932, young Powell was given a contract and batted .281. The next year he moved to Tyler of the Dixie league and boosted his mark to .307.

Joining the Memphis Chicks in 1934, he was with that club until last spring, when shipped to Hazleton of the New York-Penn loop. He didn't prosper with the stick there, and had about decided to give up the pastime when the opportunity to take a whirl at managing presented itself and he snapped it up.

In 1935, eight managers of the Southern league voted him the best rookie in the circuit.

The new Buckshot skipper is 26 years old, not a decrepit fellow for one with seven years of experience. There are mighty few players in the game today who have inherited the diamond background that he got from his family, which boasted an illustrious father and uncle who reached stardom in the majors.

With such a rich baseball heritage, Powell should fit in as a pilot, and no doubt, there is still plenty of good class C ball in him to make him an active manager in the Cotton States.

CLARKS HIGH MITT TEAM BEATS JENA BY 6-2 SCORE

CLARKS, La., March 19.—(Special)—Coach Loy Camp's boxing team won another victory Tuesday when they defeated Jena here, 6 to 2. Floyd, Clarks 95 pounder, scored a technical knockout over Ezell of Jena in the second round of their fight.

Probably the most interesting fight of the evening was between Christman of Clarks and Evans of Jena, with Christman gaining the decision. These boys stood toe to toe and put on a real slugging match for the fans to enjoy. At times punches were traded so rapidly that it was impossible to keep track of the number of blows. Another bout that kept the crowd in an uproar was between two 112 pounders, O'Banion, Clarks and Hodges, Jena, with O'Banion out in front all the way.

The summary with visitors listed first: 64 pounds, Gillis lost to Hilliard; 83 pounds, Swaggers won from Patton; 95 pounds, Ezell knocked out by Floyd; 110 pounds, Fluitt won from Allen; 112 pounds, Hodges lost to O'Banion; 120 pounds, Bishop lost to Ferguson; 126 pounds, Evans lost to Christman; 138 pounds, Cruse lost to Stringer.

TECH COACH IMPROVES, PRESENTS AWARDS HIMSELF

Coach Eddie McLane of Louisiana Tech, critically injured in an automobile accident near Bunkie on November 13, has improved sufficiently to permit his taking part in one of the college's activities that he "wouldn't have missed for anything." In his room at the Ruston-Lincoln sanitarium, where he was transferred from Alexandria about a month ago, the injured coach is pictured above as he presented gold footballs to three of Tech's senior gridders, who are, from left to right, I. L. Causey, Monroe, Herbert Massey, Tallulah, and James Mize, Shreveport. The coach's nurse, Miss Martha Turner, is watching the presentation. "I brought these boys and the rest of the seniors to Tech when I came here four years ago," Coach McLane said, as he made the awards. "If they didn't do their part in bringing this place out of the 'dumps,' I don't know who did." After having seen a print of this photo, Coach McLane remarked: "I wish the people down in Alexandria could see one of these pictures. I'll bet they would be surprised to see how much my condition has improved."

L. S. U. NINE TO PLAY MINNESOTA

Tigers Open Baseball Schedule With Big Ten Squad At Capital Monday

BATON ROUGE, La., March 19.—(Special)—Louisiana State university's varsity baseball team will open its 1938 season against the University of Minnesota here Monday afternoon with at least six sophomores in the starting lineup.

Co-Coaches J. B. (Ears) Whitworth and Harry Rabenhorst have a squad composed predominantly of sophomores from which to choose their starting team.

Glen Delafield, outfielder who batted .365 in 1937; Jimmy Warmbrod, utility man, and either Marcel Romagousa or Fred Oser, catchers, are the only veterans expected to start for the Tigers.

Other veterans of the 1937 team available for duty are Joe Childress and Bob McDonough, pitchers; Euel Breaux, second baseman, and Fluitt Hundley, third baseman.

Jesse Danna, sophomore lefthander, probably will get the opening call on the mound with either Romagousa or Oser catching.

COTTON

New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, March 19.—(AP)—The cotton market advanced $1.05 to $1.15 a bale here today, regaining most of yesterday's losses, under more optimistic foreign political news and strong outside markets.

The close was steady at net advances of 21 to 23 points. May closed at 8.87-88, July 8.93-94, Oct. 8.99, Dec. 9.02 and Jan. 9.04. The market fluctuated within a range of 9 to 16 points during the day after opening 26 to 32 points net higher.

Long interests which disposed of holdings in yesterday's decline were on the buying side today as the European war scare abated. Traders found comfort in Lithuania's decision to accept the terms of Poland's ultimatum.

Liverpool refused to accept yesterday's decline on the American market and closed 5 to 6 points stronger than due. Other foreign markets did likewise.

Reports said cotton mill activity increased during the past week and that sales of gray goods were below production while prices remained nominally unchanged.

Trading in finished goods was quiet and yarns sold slowly.

The turnover yesterday was 53,850 bales and open commitments 410,200 bales, a decrease of 4,900 bales from the previous day.

Cotton futures closed steady at net advances of 21 to 23 points.

NEW YORK STOCKS

By Victor Eubank

Averted, at least for the moment, stocks jumped back on the recovery track in today's market and regained one to around four points of Friday's losses.

While extreme advances were reduced by light profit selling before the close, most of the early upturn was retained. The come-back was negotiated at a much slower pace than in yesterday's reversal.

Buying support appeared in virtually all departments at the opening following advices Lithuania had accepted Poland's ultimatum, thus lessening the chances of a military outbreak which might have embroiled the principal world powers.

Prominent on the move were steels, motors, rubbers, aircrafts, coppers, farm implements, gold mines and specialties. Even the rails and utilities, although not particularly buoyant, were in moderate demand.

Transfers for the two hours were approximately 400,000 shares.

Major commodities, with the exception of grains, pointed higher. Bonds generally were on the recovery side. The flight of foreign capital into dollars lessened and overseas currencies improved in terms of the American unit.

Wall Street was more cheerful regarding tax revision after overnight study of Senate Majority Leader Barkley's promise that substantial modification would be voted within a month. The step of the New York legislature in cutting state taxes on capital gains about one-half also was a reassuring influence.

Action of Mexico in expropriating the republic's petroleum industry was without disturbing repercussions on stocks of Standard of New Jersey and Consolidated, both of which have important interests in that country.

MARKETS MAKE BRISK RECOVERY

Respond To Europe's Indication Of More Stable International Situation

NEW YORK, March 19.—(AP)—Financial markets today briskly recovered most of yesterday's losses as news from Europe indicated a more stable international situation.

Stocks, bonds and commodities generally participated in the gains.

Grains, which rose on yesterday's war scare news, were lower today, and cotton, hard hit yesterday for the same reasons, today won back about two-thirds of the losses.

New York stock exchange securities generally showed gains at the close ranging from 12 1-2 cents to as much as $4, with gold mining stocks the most favored.

Eastman Kodak was $3.50 higher at $148.50, Bethlehem Steel $2.12 higher at $55.25 and Douglas Aircraft at 2.12 higher at $40.37.

Among stocks which gained more than $1.50 at the close were Allied Chemical at $156; Chrysler at $50; International Harvester at $62.12; Union Pacific at $67; Texas corporation at $39.50, U. S. Steel at 51 and Westinghouse Electric at $86.37.

All bond groups advanced substantially except the industrials, according to the Associated Press averages.

Even the threatened expropriation of American and British oil properties in Mexico failed to disturb the market. Of the two largest American groups affected, stock of Standard Oil of New Jersey gained $1.25 at $47.25 and Consolidated Oil gained 12 cents at $8.75.

In the commodity field, wool tops, cottonseed oil, tin, copper, rubber and hides were all higher.

Cotton advanced as much as $1.10 a bale.

Wheat, in Chicago, fell 1 5-8 cents a bushel, further reflecting the general belief that the European crisis has passed its peak for the moment.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, March 19.—(AP)—With world markets reflecting easing war tension in Europe, wheat prices dropped as much as 1 5-8 cents a bushel here today.

Short covering prompted by the political situation was halted and profit taking took its place in the pit.

Opening 3-4-1 1-8 lower, May 87-87 1-8, July 84 1-4-3-8, wheat then showed even more declines. Corn started 1-8 up to 3-8 off, May 59 3-4-7-8, July 61 5-8-3-4.

Wheat closed 3-4 to 1 1-2 lower compared with yesterday's finish, May 87 1-8—1-4, July 83 7-8—84, and corn was 1-8—1-4 down, May 59 7-8, July 61 1-2. Oats lost 1-8—1-4.

L RAILROAD MEN GIVEN HONOR

John Dundas And E. L. Morgan Go Five Years Without Having Accidents

John Dundas, engine foreman, and E. L. Morgan, warehouse foreman, both of Monroe, are the proud possessors of cards bearing the signature of L. A. Downs, president of the Illinois Central system, and testifying to the fact that the bearer has completed five or more consecutive years with a perfect record in accident prevention.

This news is revealed in a compilation of [illegible] safety merit cards for 1937 and prior years now in distribution by the management of the railroad. Top rank is shared by [illegible] supervisory employes, each of whom is officially credited with completing at least the last 12 years without a single accident to himself or to workers under his control.

The maximum credit given is for 12 years, the period during which card records have been kept, but many of the top-ranking card holders had perfect showings for years before that. More than half of all the cards issued bear the signature of Downs, and testify to perfect records of five or more years. Cards so signed total [illegible] of which [illegible] are for ten or more years.

Cards for four years and three years are signed by [illegible], vice-president and general manager; those for two years by general superintendents; those for one year by division superintendents. This news is revealed in a compilation of 3,759 safety merit cards for 1937 and prior years now in distribution by the management of the railroad. Top rank is shared by 730 supervisory employes, each of whom is officially credited with completing at least the last 12 years without a single accident to himself or to workers under his control.

50 ENROLLING IN I. O. O. F. LODGE

Organization of the Monroe lodge of I. O. O. F. was effected at a meeting held in the Woodmen of the World hall Friday night when 50 men signed up as charter members, according to Lake A. Barber, who was named temporary chairman at a former meeting held. M. A. Chambers, Shreveport, grand warden, participated in the meeting, as did J. Shows, Jonesboro, deputy grand master.

It was voted to keep the charter membership open for a few days longer so that those who desire to join the lodge at its establishment can still do so. Also it is explained that those who enter as charter members will not be required to put up as much money as others will do later.

Members voted to hold meetings at the Woodmen of the World hall each Friday night.

Announcement was made that the next state convention, in the spring of 1939, will be held in Jonesboro, which will be near enough to Monroe to enable a large number from here to attend.

Refreshments were served by wives of some of the members of the newly-formed lodge at the conclusion of the business meeting.

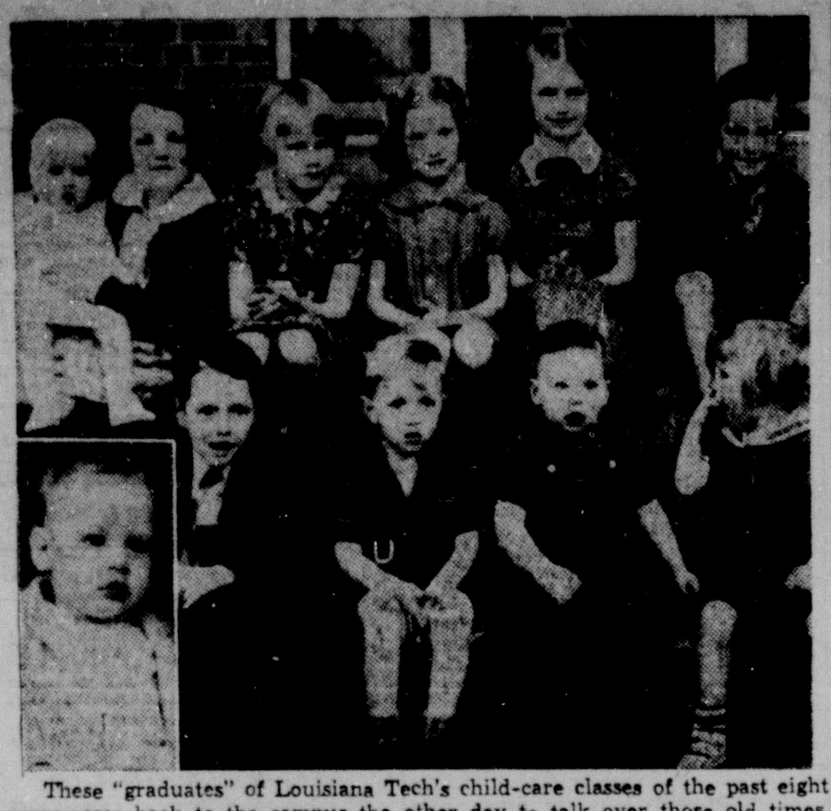
'ALUMNETTES' HOLD REUNION



These "graduates" of Louisiana Tech's child-care classes of the past eight years came back to the campus the other day to talk over those old times, when they were youngsters in swaddling clothes and helping the home economics girls practice what had been preached to them about caring for children. The freshman of the group is J. B. Christman (inset), who is staying day and night at the home management house at Tech this semester. Young Master Christman, age ten months, is being held in the top row by Sara Jean McCrary, oldest of the "alumnettes," who helped out the child-care girls back in 1930. Others in the top row, left to right, are Elsie Ellard, class of 1931; Virginia Alexander, 1932, and Anna Leila Hays and her brother, David, 1933. Bottom row: James Mabry, 1934; Richard Sumlin, 1936; Raymond Foster, 1937, and Dorothy Fay Spencer, 1936.

Publicity Expert Tells How It Is Possible To 'Do Too Much'

One of the high lights of the Louisiana Conference of Social Welfare, which concluded its sessions Saturday in Monroe, was the address of Mrs. Helen Cody Baker, one-time news writer on the staff of the Chicago Daily News, and now publicity secretary of the Chicago Council of Social agencies, who talked on the subject, "Telling Our Story." The speech was replete with practical observations on the practices and attitudes that should be a part of the social service work's approach to publicizing the activities of her organization. As a climax to her address Mrs. Baker asked: "Do we overtax our time and strength and strain our nerves to the point where good relationships with anybody become impossible, trying to do too much?"

To illustrate, she told this fable, "The Wisdom of Ping Shu":

Ping Shu the wise slept placidly in the shade of his fig tree while the mid-day sun passed above his head and began its westward descent. When its level light penetrated beneath those sheltering branches he stirred, stretched, and raised himself to a sitting posture. Only then did he become aware of a stripling youth, modestly seated at some distance, gazing upon him with a glance of humble but eager solicitation.

"Amiable stranger," said Ping Shu, "why do you tarry in my execrable garden?"

"Benevolence," the youth replied, prostrating himself at Ping Shu's feet, "I came in the hope that the bowl of your infinite wisdom might overflow by the few drops necessary to refresh my parched ignorance. It was revealed to me in a dream that the golden key of your intelligence might unlock the stubborn gates of my perplexity."

"What is your admirable name?" inquired the Sage, "and what your worththy calling?" Relaxing against the trunk of the fig tree, he composed himself in an attitude of courteous attention.

"This person's name is Wang, of the line of Foo. He is a teller of tales, and has been schooled from childhood in the rites and ceremonies of that art. This humble gift he has employed in the service of the poor and oppressed, to the end that the prosperous and substantial might find satisfaction through donations of tael and cash to their less fortunate neighbors."

"An ancient and honorable profession," admitted the venerable Ping. "From whence, then, blows the wind of your discontent?"

"Of late," the youth lamented, "my feeble voice has been raised to no effect. I have omitted no observance taught me by my father and my father's father. I have burned precious gums and spices before the altars of Pity and Fear. I have discharged occasional fireworks in the honor of Vanity and Pride. But my appeals fall now upon deafened ears. Since the last full moon my miserable efforts have not produced so much as three strings of cash from the round-bodied and well-to-do."

"These observations are well enough," acknowledged Ping Shu, "and would ordinarily suffice; but the demons of the Upper Air are in a singularly unpropitious mood at the moment. I have, however, a charm which may appease them." From his voluminous sleeve he brought forth a brown and shining seed, a porcelain bowl, a silver spade, a golden flagon and a curved and gleaming knife.

"To one of your unquestioned intelligence," he smiled, "the uses of these gifts require slight explanation. I will say merely that the seed is a small talent. The bowl is for the collection of donations, the spade is the emblem of industry, the flagon will flow unceasingly with the waters of truth, and the knife is essential to your ultimate success. Farewell, and may Wit and Discretion guide you."

Returning with the speed of a swallow to his native city, Wang Foo lost no time in putting the charm of Ping Shu to the test. Selecting a sunny corner of his garden, and offering the customary oblations to those of the Upper Air, he planted his small talent with every appropriate formality. Industriously he cultivated the soil with his silver spade. Daily he sprinkled the spot with the waters of truth from his golden flagon. In a few weeks a sturdy shoot appeared, which grew rapidly to a tree of fair proportions and delightful aspect. Its leaves were the green of jade; its flowers a pearly pink, and its fruit—when the blossoms scattered, was delicious to the taste and satisfying to all who ate of it.

The neighbors and friends of Wang Foo stopped at the garden gate to admire his tree, and to each he extended the porcelain bowl, with the explanation that taels or cash dropped therein would be used for the benefit of the poor and oppressed. The fruit, too, he sold; and its fame spread to neighboring cities, so that his bowl was never empty. Devotedly he poured the waters of truth from the golden flagon on the roots of his tree. Industriously he labored with his silver spade. But the curved and shining knife lay forgotten in a dusty corner.

So, for two years, he prospered. On the third spring the tree put out so many new branches that his heart was glad. But as the fruit ripened the care of these branches became a heavy task. He built props of bamboo to sustain their weight. He sprayed them with magic potions. He set ladders against the trunk and ran up and down them all day, gathering fruit to sell for cash and tael to all who came.

At last, in his zeal for the poor and oppressed and his pride of his own skill, he neglected to refresh the roots of his tree with water from the golden flagon. It so befell that on a day when only half the crop was garnered, the jade leaves hung limp in the sunlight and the rosy fruit withered on the branches. On the morning when this dismal sight blighted the gaze of Wang Foo, he heard behind him a gentle and propitious voice. Turning swiftly, he beheld, leaning over his wall, none other than the venerable Ping. "Suitable greetings, esteemed son of an illustrious house," the sage remarked. "Can this person be of service?"

Too full of grief for the exchange of courtesies that should have followed this greeting, the devastated Wang gestured mutely in the direction of his tree.

"Alas," exclaimed the wise one. "What a pitiful fate has overtaken your small talent. But all may yet be well. You have still the golden flagon? And does my miserable memory betray me, or was there, among the gifts I gave you, a curved and shining knife?"

Silently, Wang Foo entered his house. Dejectedly, for the better part of a morning, he pruned and cut among the branches of his tree, reducing it to a skeleton. Hopelessly, he lifted the golden flagon and poured upon its roots the still undiminished waters of truth, while the venerable Ping sat at ease in the shade and complacently regarded his laboring disciple.

At last, "It is well, my son," said the sage. "For in the book of wisdom it is written, 'He who attempts too much, accomplishes nothing.'"

With a benevolent hand he pointed to the naked trunk of the dismantled tree. There, to the delighted surprise of Wang Foo, appeared a small, but brightly green new shoot.

Monroe Morning World

SUNDAY, MARCH 20, 1938

lowers In Full Bloom; Sara Cole Morrison Plans Bermuda Tour; Jane Hill Back From Trip

By Eve Bradford

A TREMENDOUS lot of pleasure and gaiety last week. One thing we ask of Lent is that it won't be drab and colorless. Laughter, color and change are the necessary requisites these days when the soul soars on waves of religious fervor. There must be no penitent tears and the best way to keep the heart singing is to be out of doors where gardens in every section of the south are now open for public inspection.

Never have the hours been so crowded as now. A magic carpet has become almost a necessity to transport one to all the points of beauty. Things to be enjoyed this week are many and include a visit to Natchez where the pages of history have been turned back one hundred years or more. Then on to the gulf coast with its Riviera-like scenery. The Cherokee roses are blooming along the route and down the Old Spanish trail which runs along the sea wall. Seventy miles from Biloxi is Mobile with its seventeen miles of azaleas. They are fading rapidly, so one must hurry if their beauty is to be enjoyed this year. Coinciding with the Natchez pilgrimage and the azalea trail, New Orleans welcomes strangers to its spring fiesta. Vieux Carre out-of-door exhibits will be a novel feature, also the floral parades and the opening for the first time of many ante-bellum homes. The French quarter is now in gala attire and the streets about Jackson square have never been so alluring.

Looking ahead to Easter brings to mind Sara Cole Morrison's trip to Bermuda where she will revel in Easter lilies growing wild on the slopes and along the sun-drenched roads. Sara Cole, student at Randolph Macon college, will be accompanied by other students sailing from New York City early in April.

Another event where the gods seem to favor is Martha Jane Hill. She has just returned to Stevens college from an educational tour of 11 states and two foreign countries in company with 200 students who traveled in private cars. Kate Mae Turnbull rushed over to Dallas to get the facts of the trip first hand during the hour wait between trains. She found out that Martha Jane was entertained while in Los Angeles by the Eric Cords, world travelers and socially prominent and whose home is one of the show places of Los Angeles. She spent one day with the Cords at Santa Anita and had the thrill of her life when Bing Crosby walked into their box. Tea at the Harold Lloyd estate was another thrill.

Irma McIntyre of Bay City, Mich., is like a child surrounded with her favorite toys, so happy is she to be among old friends in Monroe where some of the happiest years of her life were spent. She is still the dramatic person friends remember, but gone is the beautiful voice that charmed audiences years ago. Her gift of song went with the tragic death of her husband, Percy McIntyre, several years ago. So she informed us when we expressed a desire to hear her sing once more. Irma McIntyre was a leader in Monroe society back in the old days. Her parties were gay, clever, unusual affairs with that surprise element which distinguished her as a hostess.

Very few possessions were salvaged. Californians are not deserters, however. They return to their land and build more stately mansions.

Monroe hostesses believe like Mahomet that they must go to the mountain if the mountain can't come to them. Last week when the Louisiana Social agencies met in this city for their state convention a tea was arranged at the G. B. Cooley sanatorium at Pine Top, an isolated place up the river. In order to mold things close to the heart's desire, Carrie Cummings sent out a truck load of beautiful mahogany furniture including her handsome dining table and Rose Haas sent out a truck load of flowers from Monroe gardens. Tea pouring was elevated to a fine art on this occasion with Anna Slagle and Marie Bendel in black chiffon gowns striking a dramatic note against the white damask-covered table with its mound of white blossoms and tall white tapers.

Garden Club Hears Address On Birds

Members of the Garden club enjoyed a most interesting talk Monday afternoon at their meeting in the Virginia hotel, when they were addressed by Mr. Fred Williamson. The subject of Mr. Williamson's talk was the "Conservation of Bird Life."

He stressed the importance of protecting bird life especially the group comprising the insect-eating birds.

"Bird life," asserted Mr. Williamson, "is the life on which we depend for our very existence. If all bird life were destroyed civilization would be destroyed.

"We must awaken to the need of protecting our birds. A movement is now being [illegible] all over the state which has as its objective the protection of all insect-eating birds throughout the state.

150 Guests Attend Tea Affair Saturday

Mrs. A. E. Wilenzick, Mrs. Louis Cohn And Miss Lillian Marx Hostesses For Occasion

Claiming prominence among events distinguished by beauty and charm last week was the afternoon tea on the mezzanine floor of the Frances hotel Saturday afternoon, with Mrs. A. E. Wilenzick, Mrs. Louis Cohn and Miss Lillian Marx hostesses.

The hostesses received their guests, numbering 150, in the Blue room, where beautiful flowers in all the pastel shades were massed together with supreme artistry. Mrs. Wilenzick was wearing an exquisite afternoon model of purple blue chiffon with Talisman roses at her throat. Mrs. Cohn was wearing a smart black chiffon model with a shoulder knot of Talisman roses. Mrs. Marx was wearing [illegible] blue chiffon model with a rose [illegible] corsage.

The hostesses were assisted in receiving by Mrs. [illegible] Marx, who wore a black chiffon model [illegible] [illegible] imported lace. Plaques of pink tulips, lilacs, yellow roses and purple iris centered both tables. The rainbow colors were reflected in the luscious confections comprising tinted sandwiches tied with satin ribbons, small gateaux embossed in rainbow colors and pastries decorated with all the flower colors.

The handsome silver tea and coffee services gracing both tables were graciously presided over by Mrs. D. I. Cromwell and Mrs. Sig Marx.

This affair, characterized by beauty of detail, charming gowned hostesses and an atmosphere of genuine hospitality, was a distinct contribution to the early spring social season.

Monroe Social World Finds Much Entertainment As Spring Season Advances

Many Continue To Visit Out-Of-Town Events

Flowers In Full Bloom; Sara Cole Morrison Plans Bermuda Tour; Jane Hill Back From Trip

By Eve Bradford

A TREMENDOUS lot of pleasure and gaiety last week. One thing we ask of Lent is that it won't be drab and colorless. Laughter, color and change are the necessary requisites these days when the soul soars on waves of religious fervor. There must be no penitent tears and the best way to keep the heart singing is to be out of doors where gardens in every section of the south are now open for public inspection.

Never have the hours been so crowded as now. A magic carpet has become almost a necessity to transport one to all the points of beauty. Things to be enjoyed this week are many and include a visit to Natchez where the pages of history have been turned back one hundred years or more. Then on to the gulf coast with its Riviera-like scenery. The Cherokee roses are blooming along the route and down the Old Spanish trail which runs along the sea wall. Seventy miles from Biloxi is Mobile with its seventeen miles of azaleas. They are fading rapidly, so one must hurry if their beauty is to be enjoyed this year. Coinciding with the Natchez pilgrimage and the azalea trail, New Orleans welcomes strangers to its spring fiesta. Vieux Carre out-of-door exhibits will be a novel feature, also the floral parades and the opening for the first time of many ante-bellum homes. The French quarter is now in gala attire and the streets about Jackson square have never been so alluring.

Looking ahead to Easter brings to mind Sara Cole Morrison's trip to Bermuda where she will revel in Easter lilies growing wild on the slopes and along the sun-drenched roads. Sara Cole, student at Randolph Macon college, will be accompanied by other students sailing from New York City early in April.

Another co-ed whom the gods seem to favor is Martha Jane Hill. She has just returned to Stevens college from an educational tour of 14 states and two foreign countries in company with 300 students who traveled in private cars. Katie Mae Thornhill rushed over to Dallas to get the facts of the trip first hand during the hour wait between trains. She found out that Martha Jane was entertained while in Los Angeles by the Eric Cords, world travelers and socially prominent and whose home is one of the show places of Los Angeles. She spent one day with the Cords at Santa Anita and had the thrill of her life when Bing Crosby walked into their box. Tea at the Harold Lloyd estate was another thrill.

Irma McLurg of Bay City, Mich., is like a child surrounded with her favorite toys, so happy is she to be among old friends in Monroe where some of the happiest years of her life were spent. She is still the dynamic person friends remember but gone is the beautiful voice that charmed audiences years ago. Her gift of song went with the tragic death of her husband, Percy McLurg, several years ago. So she informed us when we expressed a desire to hear her sing once more. Irma McLurg was a leader in Monroe society back in the old days. Her parties were gay, clever, unusual affairs, with that surprise element which distinguished her as a hostess.

When Pearl Wise left Monroe for California several years ago her one desire was to own a home where she could "lift up her eyes unto the hills." Her wish came true but the sunny, perfidious smile of California was deceiving. The rains came and washed part of the house down the mountainside. The family barely escaped with their lives, we were told. An inventory of their losses found the baby grand piano buried in a sea of black mud and the Persian rugs water soaked and damaged beyond repair. Very few possessions were salvaged. Californians are not deserters, however. They return to their land and build more stately mansions.

Members of Lakeside Country club are all agog over the prospects of dancing to the swing music of Anson Weaks' orchestra next Saturday night. Only Lakeside club members and their out-of-town guests will be permitted this privilege.

Monroe hostesses believe like Mahomet that they must go to the mountain if the mountain can't come to them. Last week when the Louisiana Social agencies met in this city for their state convention a tea was arranged at the G. B. Cooley sanatorium at Pine Top, an isolated place up the river. In order to mold things close to the heart's desire, Carrie Cummings sent out a truck load of beautiful mahogany furniture including her handsome dining table and Rose Haas sent out a truck load of flowers from Monroe gardens. Tea pouring was elevated to a fine art on this occasion with Anna Slagle and Marie Bendel in black chiffon gowns striking a dramatic note against the white damask-covered table with its mound of white blossoms and tall white tapers.

Alice Briggs and Janet Powell and their brother, Will Nelson, are getting a jump on summer tan on the beach in front of their cottage in Palm Beach where they loll in the warm sands with nary a care to mar the serenity of the perfect days. They are too happy to even think about returning home. Friends desiring to drop them a line can address them 417 Sea Breeze avenue.

This year, as never before, one realizes that gardening has become a source of enjoyment for the masses. With the help of ever broadening knowledge Monroe has become a city of gardens "of the people, by the people, for the people." The azaleas along the garden walk at the Allan Sholars home have spent themselves but what a feast for the soul while they lasted. A group of vivid pink azaleas in one corner of Cherrie Bernstein's yard caught the eye of every motorist during the past three weeks. No one passed the George Snelling home but paused to enjoy the dogwood blossoms, the azaleas and the redbud. In the rear gardens of the O. M. Grisham home the wistaria hangs in purple clouds from the giant oaks. The full glory of the wistaria can be seen at the Cedars, where it trails clouds of glory over everything in sight. Like a rustic at the country fair, we were filled with amazement and rapture last week when we walked beneath the labyrinth of purple blossoms with the sunlight filtering through. This spot was a veritable paradise for local artists who endeavored to place on canvas some of the glory of the wistaria.

We found one artist in particular, Frances (Robert) Brown, standing with brush in hand beneath a solid canopy of wistaria drinking in the beauty of it all.

Garden Club Hears Address On Birds

Members of the Garden club enjoyed a most interesting talk Monday afternoon at their meeting in the Virginia hotel, when they were addressed by Mr. Fred Williamson. The subject of Mr. Williamson's talk was the "Conservation of Bird Life."

He stressed the importance of protecting bird life, especially the group comprising the insect-eating birds.

"Bird life," asserted Mr. Williamson, "is the life on which we depend for our very existence. If all bird life were destroyed civilization would be destroyed.

"We must awaken to the need of protecting our birds. A movement is now being inaugurated all over the state which has as its objective the protection of all insect-eating birds throughout the state.

"Children should be taught in earliest life to protect the birds, and to realize the important part they play in our struggle for existence.

"Birds may be encouraged by the planting of trees and shrubs which attract them.

"Thirteen species of birds, including the meadow lark and the brown thrush, feed on the berries of the hedge bush, the honeysuckle and the red choke berry.

"Forty birds feed on the shad bush. Eighty-six species eat the fruit of the dogwood. Seventy-five are attracted by the bayberry and 106 by the black elderberry.

"The hollyberry is especially attractive to the cedar wax wing.

"Children must be taught to protect birds rather than to destroy them. Every time a child is given an air rifle, it is being encouraged to shoot birds and perhaps kill one that is most valuable in destroying insects that are harmful to vegetation."

Mr. S. E. Dodd of the American Legion post gave a most interesting talk on "Flag Etiquette" and in closing presented the school with two beautiful plaques, the preamble of the constitution of the United States of America and oath of the American Legion. The gifts were accepted by Mr. Jack Hayes and will be hung in the halls of the school.

Filling Definite Place In Club Circles, New Organizations Grow In State

Junior clubwomen of Louisiana are looking seriously toward the future and especially toward the national triennial convention of General Federation of Women's Clubs in Kansas City during the week of May 10 to 17. Junior clubwomen will have a definite place on the program.

Who are Louisiana's junior clubwomen? They are groups of young women newly graduated from scholastic organizations or young matrons who had a vision and who wished for adult activities but were not ready to enter into a senior club. Since the state convention held in Alexandria last November, Louisiana is proud to announce the addition of two junior clubs to her rolls. They are the Quid Nunc of Shreveport and the Junior Novel club of Baton Rouge.

Louisiana has also gone forward in general federation membership among junior clubs. The Junior Literary club of Baton Rouge has entered the general federation.

Interest in junior club women is steadily growing and indications are from several districts in Louisiana tend to add strength to the belief that before the next [illegible] more junior clubs will be organized and added to Louisiana's rolls.

Junior Clubwomen Of Louisiana Look Forward To Kansas City Convention

Young Members Will Appear On Program

Filling Definite Place In Club Circles, New Organizations Grow In State

Junior clubwomen of Louisiana are looking seriously toward the future and especially toward the national triennial convention of General Federation of Women's Clubs in Kansas City during the week of May 10 to 17. Junior clubwomen will have a definite place on the program.

Who are Louisiana's junior clubwomen? They are groups of young women newly graduated from scholastic organizations or young matrons who had a vision and who wished for adult activities but were not ready to enter into a senior club. They wanted to find spiritual and creative development but they wanted to do their own developing, not to enter into a long established club where experienced clubwomen handled the business of being a clubwoman with such dispatch and efficiency that they hesitated to take their place in such an organization and to display the lack of knowledge in club life. To them the junior club was the answer. It answered their needs and to it they brought their youthful enthusiasm and initiative and a zest for accomplishment into a group where they could learn together.

What progress are Louisiana's junior culbs making? All members of junior clubs or members of senior clubs that have organized or are planning to organize junior clubs will rejoice to know that Louisiana has made a definite step to bring junior clubs up to the standards set up by the General Federation of Women's clubs. For as long as there have been Junior Federated clubs in Louisiana there have never been any rules adopted by the Louisiana federation to govern the entry of junior clubs into the Louisiana federation. There still are no rules adopted but the goal is at last in sight.

At the board meeting of the Louisiana federation held in Alexandria during February certain recommendations were presented to the board by W. D. Cotton, chairman of junior club women, whereby Louisiana was to use the plan adopted by the general federation for the admission of junior clubs into the Louisiana federation.

The board adopted these resolutions as follows: It is necessary for every junior organization to have a sponsor organization. A contact chairman shall be appointed by mutual agreement between junior and senior organizations. The contact chairman must be a member of a club belonging to the general federation, either through direct or state federation membership.

Junior organizations shall be divided into three groups, namely, sub-juniors, junior departments, functioning as in senior clubs as any other departments; and junior clubs.

The age limits of the three classifications shall be: sub-juniors shall be a group of girls under 16 years of age; and the junior departments and junior clubs shall be groups of young women over 16 and under 35 years of age.

No one under 16 or over 35 may be an active junior clubwoman. Those over 35 may be associate junior clubwomen, not eligible for office and having no vote.

These recommendations if put into practice by the district chairman of junior clubwomen at the time that they organize junior clubs will do much to help standardize the meaning of a Louisiana junior clubwoman. They will also place the junior club in such a position that when the club is eligible for membership in the general federation none of the by-laws of the club will have to be changed and the club will be ready and fully qualified to enter the general federation.

Since the state convention held in Alexandria last November, Louisiana is proud to announce the addition of two junior clubs to her rolls. They are the Quid Nunc of Shreveport and the Junior Novel club of Baton Rouge.

Louisiana has also gone forward in general federation membership among junior clubs. The Junior Literary club of Baton Rouge has entered the general federation.

Interest in junior club women is steadily growing and indications from several districts in Louisiana tend to add strongly to the belief that before the year 1938 ends several more junior clubs will be organized and added to Louisiana's rolls.

ost Successful Meeting In Years Held By Fifth District Parent-Teachers

t. Matthew's And Neville Are Hosts

Several Well Known Speakers Appear On Program; Mrs. Carl Couch Presides

Phases of the joint responsibility of character education were discussed by leaders in the life of the community Wednesday, at the meeting of the Fifth District Parent-Teacher association, which convened at the Neville High school, with members of St. Matthew's P.-T. A. and Neville High school P.-T. A. co-hostesses.

The meeting, which was one of the most successful held during the past few years, both from the standpoint of interest and attendance, was presided over by Mrs. Carl Couch, fifth district director.

The morning session was opened by assembly singing, led by Mrs. Joe Thompson, and an invocation was given by Father L. R. Aycock, assistant pastor of St. Matthew's Catholic church.

The address of welcome was given by Mr. Paul J. Neal, principal of Neville High school, and the response was made by Mrs. John Nelson of St. Patrick's school, Lake Providence.

Greetings to the assemblage were extended by Mrs. E. Fay Walter, president of the Louisiana Parent-Teacher association.

The phase of character education in the home was discussed by Dr. W. R. Kline of Ruston.

"When a freshman goes to college, the faculty is concerned first of all with his native capacity and secondly with the kind of person he is," stated Dr. Kline.

"If a person lacks character, first of all, his home is considered.

"One cannot expect much from the church or the community, unless it is backed up by the home. Character education is too important to be left to chance.

"Social heredity means much in character building. The home sets certain standards and ideals and attitudes that influence the lives of its members, which should help them to work and live together in a worth-while way."

Dean C. C. Colvert, of Northeast Center, discussed the joint responsibility in the school.

Dean Colvert said that maladjustments appear first in schools and that schools may even be a contributing factor in teaching the wrong attitudes, such as cheating and stealing.

"Mere talking and preaching do not mean that a child will reach the proper adjustment. There must be a transfer of identical elements."

Character education in the church was the subject of the talk by Rev. Ernest Holloway, who said that our most prized possession of today is our youth.

"The education of youth is a broad subject and is many sided," he said. "Not only do we recognize the need of a strong physique and a trained mind, but also the need of spiritual education as well. The church makes a mistake when it fails to uplift and inspire youth, and is endeavoring to meet this need through its many institutions and church schools."

Speaking of "Character Education, a Joint Responsibility in the Community," Mr. Fred Williamson stated that we are in a moment of change, so that we cannot look ahead and see what is to be.

"We cannot predict the future. Since this is true, it is necessary for each individual to understand his own responsibility, so that he will integrate his ideas with individuals of the times. It is most important that our youth learn to adapt themselves to changing world and changing customs."

Luncheon was served in the school cafeteria by a group of girl members of the Home Makers club, under the direction of Miss Sara Rice.

Several enjoyable musical numbers were presented during the afternoon session, including a [illegible] by Miss Jeanette Mae [illegible] accompanied by Mrs. Charles [illegible] all, and a piano solo by Miss Evelyn Geiger.

Two minute reports were given by each association represented at the meeting.

Invitations were extended by both Bastrop and Lake Prvoidence for the fall district meeting of the Fifth District P.-T. A.

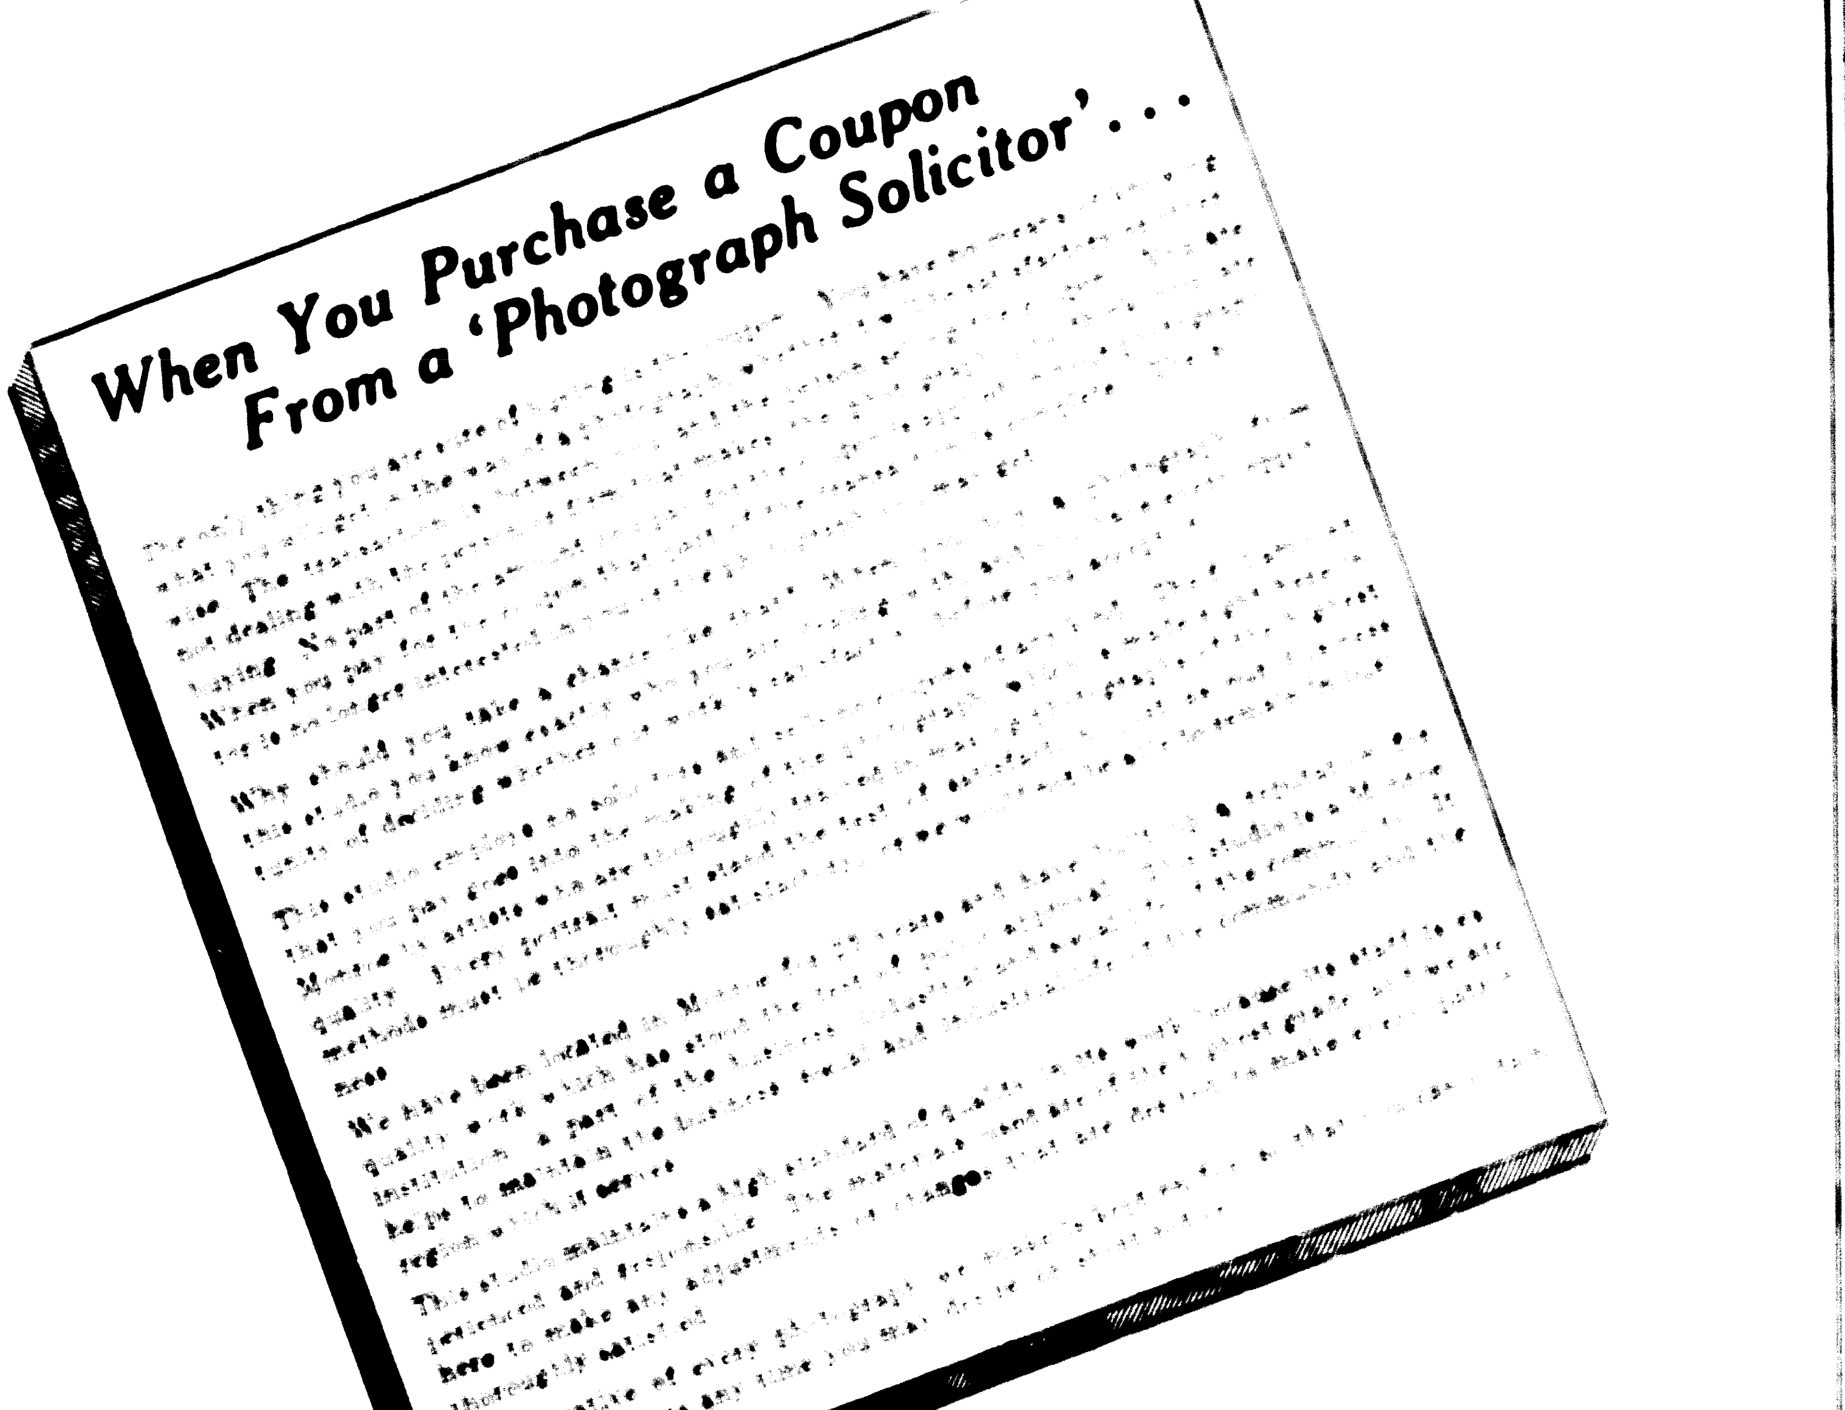
THE TRUTH ABOUT COUPONS!



When You Purchase a Coupon From a 'Photograph Solicitor' . . .

The only thing you are sure of buying is the coupon. You have no means of knowing what you will get in the way of a photograph, whether it will be satisfactory or otherwise. The transaction is between you and the person selling the coupon. You are not dealing with the person or firm that makes the photograph you think you are buying. No part of the amount you pay for the coupon is applied on your photograph. When you pay for the coupon that part of the transaction is complete. The solicitor is no longer interested in you or the photograph you may get.

Why should you take a chance like that? When you buy a photograph from this studio you know exactly who you are dealing with, and you have every opportunity of deciding whether our work is satisfactory before you accept it.

This studio employs no solicitors and sells no coupons of any kind. The full amount that you pay goes into the making of the photograph, which is made right here in Monroe by artists who are thoroughly trained in making photographs of the highest quality. Every portrait must stand the test of satisfaction, just as our business methods must be thoroughly satisfactory, or we would not be able to remain in business.

We have been located in Monroe for 23 years and have built up a reputation for quality work which has stood the test of public approval. This studio is a Monroe institution—a part of the business, industrial and social life of the community. It helps to maintain the business, social and industrial life of the community and the region which it serves.

This studio maintains a high standard of quality in its work because its staff is experienced and responsible. The materials used are of the highest grade, and we are here to make any adjustments or changes that are desired to make every patron thoroughly satisfied.

The negative of every photograph we make is kept on file, so that you can obtain additional prints any time you may desire on short notice.

Delegates Attending Welfare Conference Feted At Tea At Cooley Sanatorium

Event Sponsored By Local Social Agency

Visitors Transported To Scene Aboard Noe's Ark And Weto; Flowers Get Much Attention

All nature conspired to render last Thursday a perfect spring day at Pine Top on beautiful Bayou D'Arbonne where the G. B. Cooley sanatorium, perched on a high pinnacle overlooking the surrounding country, was thronging with visitors during the late afternoon hours.

The tea arranged by local members of the Louisiana Conference of Social Welfare complimentary to the delegates attending the convention in this city, was attended by 300 or more.

The visiting delegates enjoyed the trip to Pine Top up he Ouachita river and into the D'Arbonne on board the Noe's Ark and the Weto. Landing at the foot of the hill leading to the sanatorium, visitors were permitted an opportunity to view the beautiful wild flowers now at the height of their glory. Dogwood trees in full bloom flung their snowy banners above the low drifts of pink honeysuckle dotting the hills in every direction. Stately pine trees add dignity and complete the beauty of this spot which has been the favorite rendezvous for nature lovers for generations.

The spacious halls of the sanatorium were banked with flowers for this interesting event. Mrs. Henry Haas and members of her committee, Mrs. W. E. Reardon, Mrs. John Breard, Mrs. Fred Strauss, Mrs. Alexander Morrice, Mrs. Isadore Leibreich and Mrs. R. L. McHenry were responsible for the transportation of flowers from Monroe's private gardens and for arranging them with supreme artistry throughout the sanatorium.

Mrs. James R. Wooten, general chairman, was assisted by Mrs. W. F. Cummings, Mrs. Charles McCord, Mrs. Walter Meyer, Mrs. James A. Noe, Mrs. W. M. Harper, Mrs. T. O. Brown, Mrs. C. R. Tidwell, Mrs. H. H. Benoit, Mrs. Henry Colbert, Mrs. Melville Hunter, Mrs. Clarence Oakley, Mrs. R. B. Frizzell, Mrs. A. V. Miller, Mrs. A. J. Emerson, Mrs. J. W. McWilliams, Mrs. C. P. Gray, Mrs. A. G. McHenry, Mrs. Elmer Slagle and Mrs. William Bendel in extending gracious courtesies.

Every room of the sanatorium, banked with flowers, was thrown wide for general inspection. Every room section of this beautiful building is swept with a pine-scented breeze blowing in from the nearby hills. The screened galleries are especially inviting as they overlook the lofty pines, the shimmering bayou and the restful sweep of meadow land.

In the dining room, where delectable confections were served, the table, overlaid with handsome lace and silver appointed, was presided over by Mrs. William Bendel and Mrs. Elmer Slagle, both of whom wore lovely afternoon models with corsages.

A circular mound of white iris, white spirea and white roses encircled with tall white tapers in handsome silver candelabra, formed the floral decor. The beautiful silver tea and coffee services were placed at either end of the table.

This event, an artistic achievement, claims prominence among the social affairs of early springtime and will be remembered by all those in attendance as one abounding in beauty, charm and graciousness.

Mrs. J. C. Kramer Entertains Club

Mrs. J. C. Kramer, Jr., welcomed members of the Current Literature club at her home Wednesday afternoon. Spring flowers were placed attractively throughout the reception suite.

Mrs. V. S. Garnett, the president, presided over a short business session, at which time the yearbook committee was appointed for the ensuing year. This committee is composed of Mrs. R. S. Conway, chairman, Mrs. R. I. Taylor and Mrs. Raymond John.

"The Importance of Living," by Lin Yutang, was reviewed in a capable manner by Mrs. W. F. Hornberger. She said in part: "If we have a better knowledge of our bodily functions and mental processes, we have a broader view of ourselves, making it impossible to look down upon them with contempt. Should we not be appreciative of the fact that we are endowed with a body which is self-regulating, self-repairing, self-starting, self-reproducing, installed at birth and lasting like a good grandfather clock for three-quarters of a century? A body that is provided with wireless vision, wireless hearing, with a more highly complicated system of nerves than the most complicated telegraph and telephone system in the world. It manufactures its own chemicals for the processes of transforming food into living tissue. Above all the body has a sense of time, for hours, days and decades. It regulates its own childhood, puberty and maturity, stops growing when it should and brings forth a wisdom tooth when our conscious wisdom has nothing to do with it. All of these are done with absolute silence so that our superfine metaphyscian may not be disturbed.

"Human life reads like a poem with its own rhythm and beat. It begins with innocent childhood, followed by awkard adolescence trying awkwardly to adapt itself to mature society. Then comes manhood with intense activity. Then in the sunset of our lives, if we have a true philosophy of old age and have ordered our life pattern accordingly, it is truly the age for us of peace and security. One should be able to appreciate and sense the beauty of this rhythm of life, as we do in grand symphonies, its main theme, its strains of conflict and the final resolution."

Added to the afternoon's program was a reading given by Mrs. V. S. Garnett—"St. Patrick's Birthday."

Members present were: Mrs. R. L. Conway, Jr., Mrs. F. T. Harkness, Mrs. V. S. Garnett, Mrs. E. R. Whitaker, Mrs. V. T. Porter, Mrs. W. F. Hornberger, Mrs. Raymond John, Mrs. Dudley Stone, Mrs. J. M. Menefee, Mrs. G. W. Guerriero, Mrs. Louis Peters, Mrs. J. C. Kramer, Jr., Mrs. R. W. Ensminger and guest, Mrs. J. R. White.

DEVELOPERS MUST ANTICIPATE NEED

Demand For Houses Is Criterion For Activities In Launching Project

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Total demand and effective demand for houses are two terms which developers should study carefully before laying plans for launching developments calling for the construction of a large number of houses of particular price classification, Ernest M. Fisher, director of the Federal Housing administration's economics and statistics division, said here today.

From experience with hundreds of developments submitted for approval during the past two years, Dr. Fisher said, the Federal Housing administration has found that developers are prone to confuse the two terms and to accept as their potential market one which is much larger than the actual market.

"Although adequate and comprehensive figures are difficult to obtain, it is possible to gain a reasonably accurate idea of the effective demand for houses in a given locality, if the proper approach is used. While the Federal Housing administration cannot supply data on given communities, it can indicate the type of procedure to be used and the possible sources of information," Dr. Fisher said.

"With the aid of these figures, and by a careful study of the existing building and real estate activity in the vicinity, developers should be able better to plan successful new subdivisions. Unless some attempt is made to analyze the actual effective demand, developers may find it extremely difficult to anticipate the market for their houses."

The first step to be taken is a survey of the existing housing situation in the city. An attempt should be made to find out the number of dwelling units in existence, the number of vacancies, the physical condition of existing houses, the number of owner-occupied houses, and the number of families which are doubled up. This information is a necessary background.

These and other figures necessary for an accurate determination of the demand for houses are available, in one form or another, for many cities. Surveys have been made by government agencies and by such local groups as the city real estate board.

Once the background has been gained, some attempt should be made to find out the extent and character of the growth of the city. Vital statistics will show whether the city is growing from within, and figures on industrial employment or business growth will give an idea of the number and type of families which are being brought to the city.

Other indices which have been used to indicate rate of city growth are school-enrollment figures, newspaper deliveries, postoffice receipts, and even the number of tons of garbage collected each month.

While these figures will show the rate of growth with a fair degree of accuracy, they will give only a vague idea of the number and type of houses needed. Industrial and business-growth figures will give some clue, but the developer must use other means of determining character of the demand.

By studying carefully the sales of real estate, keeping in mind the necessity of finding which type of house is most popular and the price classification which sells most readily, he may gain some idea of the type of house which is in greatest demand. By surveying the new subdivisions created in recent years and looking over the houses which have been built and sold he can reach some conclusions as to whether or not builders have tended to overbuild in one price classification.

Dr. Fisher pointed out that the Federal Housing administration has recently completed the preparation of maps showing the extent and direction of the growth of 17 of our major cities. These maps and other recent studies will form the basis for a better understanding of the whole problem of city growth and, hence, demand in future years.

We Want to Build A Big Town

We boasted of having the biggest gas field in the world—piped plenty of it out of the State. An invitation to the manufacturing world to locate near Monroe at that time free of taxation would have been a great inducement. Real Estate at that time was sitting pretty. We wanted to build a big town. We had the carbon plants with us. They have gone visiting to Texas and will hardly return, and help us build a big town. The chemical plant wanted to settle in South Monroe—certainly in earnest since they paid thousands of dollars in options—the wire workers got busy and seemingly dropped a monkey wrench in the machinery of industry. And still we want to build a big town. Lumber yards sell building materials of all descriptions from foundations to roof—including donating the roof at cost to swing the deal, and build a Big Town.

Wholesale groceries play the second fiddle to the lumber yards in roofing materials—all the necessaries of life, including socks, neckties, beer, whisky, pray on Sunday—open up shop Monday and help build a big town, without paying any compensation, Social Security or two per cent sales tax on Tom, Dick or Harry who erect the roofing they sell—helping the hungry man out wonderfully in the way of building a big town.

Some years ago there was a pine pole thicket where the Brown Paper Mill now stands. Suppose history would repeat and transform the greatest industry and its immense payroll for hundreds of miles around into a second pine pole thicket. Do you think, Mr. Green, the big smoke of the Federation of Labor, or John L. Lewis will be standing in the middle of this pine pole thicket handing out hamburghers, mince pies to the horny handed workingman, including $10.00 bank notes for napkins to wipe your greasy chops. Do you suppose Mr. Green or John L. Lewis have any notion of building a big town. Do you imagine the raising of water freight rates on the Ouachita River by the present Chamber of Commerce is going to build a big town. Don't you think all chain stores ought to furnish free cots, beds and free transportation to and from trains—and help build a big town.

With the promise of our dear Governor Richard Leche and influential property owners on the outskirts of Monroe, we will be donated sewer service without any additional expense in the way of taxation. The Governor is always giving—donations helping the poor and needy—and wants to build a big town. Personally, am expecting a pension the next day after I die, on account of building a big town.

Is this great charity movement going to pay girls working in restaurants more than three dollars a week and one meal a day. Read "Income Tax" in Liberty, March 26, 1938; if the poor producer does not pay the rich man's tax, who does? $50.00 State occupation tax, 2 per cent sales tax, 20 per cent on motor oil; one token on a cup of coffee and one cent on a barrel of oil to Standard Oil Co. It all depends on who is getting the grape—and paying the freight.

Thanks to Governor Leche; this will be a big Rooster Plume in your political bonnet.

MANY BENEFITS IN NEW FLOORS

Coverings Will Aid In Overcoming Inequalities Of Old Wood

Old wood floors in kitchens and bathrooms that have become worn and splintered and show stains of grease and soap and medicines should be renewed or covered. The use of linoleum is the logical remedy, for this is easily applied, makes a fine appearance, and takes little work to keep fresh and clean.

Before the linoleum can be laid the floors should be scraped to an even finish and all nails driven home, or if any are loose they should be removed and replaced in a new spot so they will hold. When the floor is smooth and level felt sheets are cemented to it. Over this the linoleum is laid and cemented.

Wherever possible the kitchen or bathroom fixtures should be lifted and set on top of the linoleum when it is laid. If this is not practical, the linoleum may be neatly cut around them.

At the wall either a wood molding should be nailed over the linoleum where it meets the base or, better yet, a brass cove made especially for this purpose can be inserted that makes a tight, neat joint that eliminates corners for dust to gather in.

The floors of other rooms may also be covered with linoleum, and the many designs now available make beautiful and appropriate floors for any room. They can be waxed and brought to a high polish that makes them very attractive and easy to clean.

New floor coverings of this kind can be financed under the modernization credit plan of the Federal Housing administration.

KEEP AIR HUMID

In winter the air in most houses where no humidifying systems are installed is much too dry; it dries out all the membranes of the head and makes them just right for the settlement of germ colonies. If your heating plant is not built to include a humidifier, separate wall humidifiers may be installed and connected with the water system, throwing an atomized spray into the air. Such a cabinet will supply sufficient moisture for a five or six-room house.

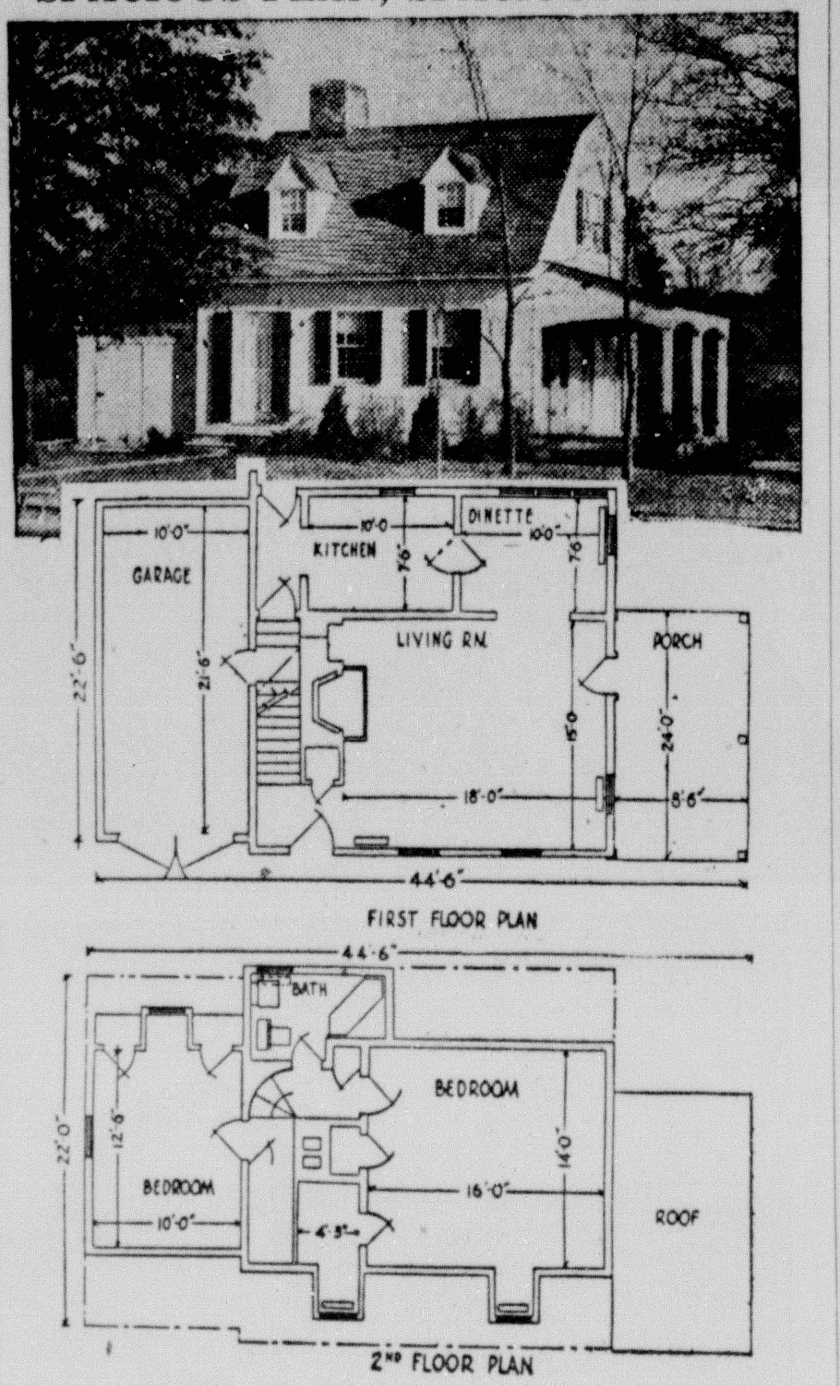
SPACIOUS PLAN, SPACIOUS ROOMS



This spacious New Jersey house has for its foundation poured concrete. The frame is of wood with shingle facing, and the roof is shingled. Interior walls are plastered, and there are tile walls in the bathroom. Floors are of red oak, except in the basement and garage, where they are of concrete. The first floor plan includes kitchen, dinette, living room, porch, and garage. The second floor contains two bedrooms and bath. Randolph Evans is the architect, and the house shown here is one of a group of modern, low-cost dwellings chosen by "The Architectural Record."

Grade Of Lumber Determines Future Durability Of Homes

The lumber that goes into the frame of a house will determine largely the future durability of the house itself. Undried lumber of inferior grades is sure to shrink and probably warp during the slow drying process that will take place over a long period. This shrinkage and warpage will affect all the rest of the house; plaster will crack, doors and windows will stick, trim joints will open, plumbing and heating pipes will be forced out of line, forming pockets which will prevent complete drainage in water pipes and steam traps in steam pipes with a consequent hammering in the pipes and blocking of circulation so that some radiators will not heat.

This can be avoided largely by the use of grade-marked lumber. But grade marking is just a safeguard against material inferior to that specified. In each case the grade of the lumber to be used should be specifically noted. Grade marking does not guarantee moisture content however, as that is an element which can be upset by exposing the lumber during a long period of rain. Lumber should have not over 19 per cent moisture content when erected, and should be protected while on the job during rains, with tarpaulins or waterproof paper.

Except in unusually dry weather, lumber that has been well dried before coming on the job will pick up some moisture even with the best of care, but if it is well dried to start with, and is not subjected to actual soaking, it will dry out rather quickly and will not change in volume enough to make an appreciable difference.

When the FHA insures a mortgage for the construction of a new home the grade of lumber used is carefully checked.

Planting Of Ground Important In The Development Of Property

The development of the yards or, if they are large enough to be dignified by that term, the grounds about the house are almost as important as the development of the house itself. In most parts of the country a garden and lawn and shrubs are desirable features that every home should have. And for architectural effect the proper planting around the house is essential.

In small plots much can be done by careful planning to provide all the niceties of a good-sized estate. On a plot 50 by 100 feet there can be flowers and fruits and vegetables with space left over for a lawn and shrubs and a shade tree or two. True, none of the units will be large, but they should be large enough to occupy those interested in their care and provide some fresh vegetables and fruits and flowers that will gladden their hearts.

If the garage and service entrance can be kept near the front of the lot so that the whole rear yard and as much of the side yard as possible can be kept clear, the development of that area can be carried much farther. A porch or terrace facing the rear, opening out on a lawn with flower beds and shrubs surrounding it and a long, narrow vegetable garden on one side with berry bushes separating it from the living area, and a grape arbor and fruit trees at the rear, gives a fairly complete layout that will be ever interesting and ever changing to delight the eye of the beholder.

The development of the grounds can be carried out under the modernization credit plan of the Federal Housing administration.

Graduated Port Air-Vent Valve Aid To Heating

An interesting new development for use in connection with the common one-pipe steam house-heating system is the graduated port air-vent valve.

Inasmuch as the successful operation of a one-pipe steam system is largely dependent upon the efficient operation of the air-vent valves, this new development is quite an important advance. The valves are provided with an easily adjustable cap which when turned regulates the size of the air-vent, thus the heating system may be much more accurately balanced than heretofore, and the radiator in each room may be adjusted so that it receives its proper proportion of steam, preventing overheating in rooms nearest the boiler, and assuring adequate heat in rooms farthest from the boiler. Because of this even distribution of heat it seems probable that fuel economies will result along with the better comfort conditions.

WOODEN PLATFORMS

Laundry trays, or tubs as they are commonly called, that are set on a concrete floor should have a small wooden slab in front of them so that the laundress need not stand on the wet floor. These platforms should be movable so the floor may be cleaned and the platform aired.

KEEPING IN MIND THE WALL SPACE

One Of The Important Factors In Proper Placing Of Furniture

In planning a house one of the most important things to keep in mind is wall space. Only too often houses have been built without any thought of where the necessary furniture is to be placed. Doors and windows and fireplaces sometimes seem to have been scattered around promiscuously. Frequently we find a living room with no place for a couch or table except the middle of the floor, or a bedroom with ample floor space for twin beds and a couple of dressing tables or highboys, but no walls to set them against.

Of course, the first thing to do is to consult an architect. Then, before a plan is definitely settled upon, cut out pieces of paper or cardboard the size and shape of the principal pieces of furniture that must be placed in the house and to the proper scale. Lay these on the plan and see if they fit. It is usually possible to shift a door or a window a few inches one way or another to make room for the bed or bureau. The old idea of making a house "open up well" by putting wide openings between the hall and living room and dining room or between the living room and dining room, where an opening there is provided, is a great robber of wall space and has other disadvantages as well. A narrower opening—say three feet wide—does just as well and really looks better. Sometimes to these wide openings glass doors are added, which are seldom, if ever, used. Such an opening, especially when its doors are swung open against the wall, takes up the best part of one side of a room.

A fireplace set between two doors is awkward, too, for it is impossible to "furnish" it properly. It should be a cozy, intimate spot, but placed between two doors it stands isolated and aloof—no furniture can be placed near it unless it stands in the middle of the room and seems as ill at ease as a child reciting to company.

The extent of the floor area is not the measure of the size of the room, for a room is only as large as its available furniture space.

CRACKED PANES

Cracked window panes are great robbers of heat. Examine your windows and you will probably be surprised how many cracked panes there are. Replace them and the reduction in the fuel bill may pay the cost.

PAVE GARAGE FLOOR

Dirt floors in garages get wet and messy and keep the carpets of the car in a state of constant dirt. It is not a difficult job to lay a concrete floor; the only precautions to be taken are that the floor be sloped to drain out to the front and that the surface be made smooth so that it can easily be cleaned.

CRIPPLED CHILDREN UNIT HAS LUNCHEON

While the Louisiana State Conference of Social welfare was in session 21 members of the Ouachita unit of the Louisiana Society for Crippled children met Friday noon at a luncheon in Hotel Frances.

Chairman A. N. Robinson introduced Mrs. N. H. Feitel, of New Orleans, executive secretary of the society, who addressed the group.

"Our society is now part of the Louisiana State Conference of Public welfare," said Mrs. Feitel. "It is the first society of its kind to work out a system that doesn't operate in a hit-and-miss fashion.

"We start at the bottom—beginning with the child who is born crippled There will be people at the elementary schools who are trained to detect conditions that others might overlook. This follows through the higher grades and ties in with the rehabilitation.

"This work will not be sectional, each unit will be welded into a whole, a one hundred per cent state unit, to which every case will be reported. Adequate facilities will be available to handle cases individually."

The next meeting will be held in the B. M. I., eighth floor of the Bernhardt building, Tuesday at 7:30 p. m.

Spectacular Picture At Paramount

Dorothy Lamour And Jon Hall Head Cast Of One Of Year's Best Films

SAMUEL GOLDWYN knew that he had a truly great picture in "The Hurricane," which plays at the Paramount theater today, with Dorothy Lamour and Jon Hall heading a great cast which includes Mary Astor, C. Aubrey Smith, Thomas Mitchell, Raymond Massey, John Carradine and Jerome Cowan.

In this dramatic saga of the South seas, written by Charles Nordhoff and James Norman Hall, authors of "Mutiny on the Bounty," he was confident he had a story rich in every element of cinematic entertainment. And under the virile direction of John Ford, the story has been translated into a picture which surpasses even the producer's fondest expectations.

Published first as a serial in the Saturday Evening Post, later as a novel, "The Hurricane" has a ready-made audience of millions of readers. It was Goldwyn's determination not to disappoint these old friends and to that end he entrusted the screen play adaptation to Dudley Nichols with instructions to adhere closely to the original story in shaping his drama.

"The Hurricane," with its tender romance, its powerful drama, its picturesque setting and its amazing spectacle climax, is a story ready-cut to the screen's most heroic measure.

On the low island of Manukura, 600 miles from Tahiti, two native sweethearts, Terangi and Marama are wed. Their brief happiness is shattered when Terangi, returning to Tahiti on the trading schooner of which he is first mate, is imprisoned for striking a white man who insults him.

After five years of unsuccessful attempts, the boy escapes from Tahiti and makes his way to his native island. Because of the implacable sense of duty of the French administrator, however, he is forced to hide on a neighboring island.

The search for him is at its height when a great hurricane begins to blow up. Unmindful of his own safety, the youth goes to Manukura to warn the inhabitants. In the fury that follows, he plays a heroic part, and the hurricane scenes provide one of the most thrilling and powerful climaxes the screen has ever shown.

Known as the discoverer of more new stars than any other producer, Goldwyn entrusted the role of the native hero, Terangi, to a Hollywood newcomer, Jon Hall. Handsome, possessed of a magnificent physique, Hall will undoubtedly be lifted to stellar rating by this performance. Lovely Dorothy Lamour appears opposite him as the native heroine Marama.

It was Goldwyn's original intention to film the entire production in its actual South sea island locale. Weather conditions in the South seas and the necessity of using a vast amount of special equipment to create the climaxing hurricane, proved clinching factors in altering that plan. The producer sent a photographic unit of 18 members to American Samoa to film scenic backgrounds, while the action involving the cast was shot in Hollywood on settings unprecedented for size and realism.

Largest of the Hollywood settings is a complete island village, encircling an acre-and-a-half lagoon. This set occupied two and a half acres of the studio's "back lot."

It is there that the hurricane, brewed by James Basevi, the technical genius who created the earthquake effects for "San Francisco," unleashes its full destructive power. The great storm, filmed with almost terrifying realism, involving exceptional hardships and hazards to the cast principals, promises to make "The Hurricane" the most talked-of picture in years.

"The Hurricane" is released through United Artists.

JEWISH RELIEF FUND NOW BEING RAISED

The United Jewish Charities of Monroe, under the chairmanship of Clifford Strauss, is conducting a campaign to raise money for the relief of Jewish people in Europe, especially those in Austria.

Throughout the United States, a similar campaign is in progress but it is not the purpose of those in charge to cause undue excitement such as to alarm the public, although it is believed that there is urgent need for money. All who are able and willing to contribute, both Jews and non-Jews are invited to contact Mr. Strauss and all money given will be thankfully received.

Monte Carlo Scene Of New Chan Thriller

Warner Oland And Keye Luke Again Head Cast Of Detective Series

DEATH deals a hand at the gaming tables and "Charlie Chan at Monte Carlo" gives you your best mystery bet in his most brilliant case, which comes to the Capitol theater today.

The world's ace detective at the world's gayest playground takes a million-to-one chance to solve a triple murder as he mingles with the millionaire playboys, bejeweled beauties and gay adventurers.

Behind the laughter and banter of thousands of pleasure seeking internationals, there is a million-dollar stake in stock manipulation which spells success for one man and ruin for another.

Into all of the gaiety and sinister seething counterpoint of this latest and best of Twentieth Century-Fox's Chan thrillers comes Charlie Chan and his Number One Son Keye Luke. They are greeted effusively at the Casino de Monte Carlo by the prefect of police.

The first rumblings of death's roulette are under way at a table where Paul Savarin and Victor Karnoff are playing fortunes on the flip of a card. These two men, rivals at chemm de fer as well as on the Bourse, later are to provide Charlie Chan with another annoying interruption in his quest for a peaceful vacation. Karnoff's wife, his brother-in-law, a mysterious English girl and one of the bartenders at the casino soon become involved in a weird series of events.

Missing bonds are found, just in time to be sent to Paris for a financial coup. A million dollars in securities disappears; the messenger is found slain, the bartender dies with the millions nearby, a key-witness chauffeur is murdered.

And Charlie Chan, along with Number One Son, lands in jail.

It's murder for a million, but Chan clears the entire mystery while gamblers spin the wheels and plotters spin new webs of intrigue.

There are laughs aplenty to ease the suspense and Charlie's escapades with a Monte Carlo taxicab and a high-strung police official doing their share.

In the cast supporting Warner Oland are Keye Luke, Harold Huber, Virginia Field, Sidney Blackmer, Kay Linaker and Robert Kent.

KAYOES HIMSELF

You've heard about the star who put too much realism into his punches and knocked out his opponent during a film battle.

Well, Warner Baxter put reverse English on the idea and almost kayoed himself.

It happened while Baxter, playing a two-fisted couturier who trains with a pugilist to keep fit in "Walter Wanger's Vogues of 1938," the gay musical which co-stars him with Joan Bennett at the Strand theater today, was boxing Dick Wessel, actor-fighter, in front of the Technicolor cameras. Ordered by Director Irving Cummings to stand toe to toe and slug for a close scene, they were mixing it furiously when Baxter missed a wild swing, slipped and crashed into a parallel on the edge of the set.

They picked him up groggy, but eager to resume the battle. It wasn't necessary, however, for Cummings had yelled "Cut!" just before Baxter started the haymaker that proved a boomerang.

"Walter Wanger's Vogues of 1938" is released through United Artists.

In eight years the Tulsa, Okla., municipal airport has accommodated 613,000 persons—coming and going—in 140,000 planes without a casualty or minor injury.

Griffin Advocates Check-up On Rods

Now is the time of year to check up on your casting and fly rods before you begin to give them hard summer usage, according to J. L. Griffin, 2?12 Lee avenue, expert rod repair man.

Mr. Griffin, who has been repairing rods for the past seven years, does his work at half the factory price and guarantees satisfaction, besides. Although, from the outset, his work has carried a money-back guarantee, he has yet to make a refund.

Unless a rod is completely covered, Mr. Griffin can repair it whether it be of bamboo or steel. Besides repairing rods he also cleans and oils reels. In doing so he completely dismantles the reel, washes the parts in gasoline, reassembles them and then greases the gears with reel grease and oils the bearings with reel oil.

Three Mile Inn Widely Known For Excellent Food

A motorist pulled up at Three Mile inn, situated on the outskirts of Monroe on DeSiard road, a part of U. S. highway 80.

Before an attendant could get to the car, he disembarked and began fumbling with a notebook, alternately mumbling to himself and talking to his wife. Then, when the attendant reached him, the motorist deluged him with a barrage of questions.

Yes, the motorist was informed, this was Three Mile inn. The one and only Three Mile inn near Monroe, certainly. Yes, it was still owned and operated by Jack Angell.

"Well, then," said the motorist, "I want a couple of those chicken dinners. One for me and one for my wife."

As the attendant re-entered the inn, the motorist followed him.

"Want to know how I heard about this place and its chicken dinners?" he inquired.

The attendant replied that he would.

"A tourist told me," he said, "a tourist in Spokane, Washington."

A methodical sort of person, the motorist had made a notation about the inn and its chicken dinners in case he ever traveled through north Louisiana on highway 80. That's why he was fumbling with the notebook as he got out of his car.

The inn serves chicken plates for 50 cents up. But that's not all. It offers regular meals daily, at noon and 6 p.m., for 35 cents each, and if you go for sandwiches—well, take your choice. It makes 60 varieties, including its famous Toasted Pig sandwich.

Moreover, you can get anything you want to drink, either hard or soft, at the inn, which operates an up-to-date bar.

Only the choicest of foods are prepared at Three Mile inn. Even its hamburgers are made from round steaks ground in its kitchen. And its Angell Food ice cream—it's manufactured only from cream of the richest butter fat content.

The inn, conveniently situated as it is on highway 80, one of the main east-west roads across the continent, and near Selman field, a stop on the southern transcontinental air route, has fed some of the most notable people of the United States. Many have taken occasion to commend highly both its food and its service.

Tire Exchange Saves You Money

Just because your finances are not at present at the high level you expected them to be is no reason why you shouldn't enjoy your automobile to the fullest this spring. Pile into the old bus! Get out into the open! Visit new scenes! Enjoy the glorious panorama nature has to offer during the first warm days! Then the recession will not seem half so enormous or important.

How can you keep the old car rolling?

One way is to trade with Monroe Tire Exchange, 2008 DeSiard street, an institution that has been saving motorists money through good times as well as bad times. Owned, operated and managed by J. D. Cascio, it has come to be known as "the home of used but useful tires."

Monroe Tire Exchange, which handles both new and used tires, sells gasoline, oils and batteries and does tire repairing and vulcanizing, always has a flock of used tire and tube bargains to offer. Think of it; you can get used tires there for as low as $1 each! Tubes? They're priced as low as 50 cents each!

Drive to the establishment and see what it has to offer. Or telephone. The number is 2767.

Monticello Gives Fastest Freight Service To North

Monticello Truck Line, which operates between Monroe and Little Rock, is enabled, through its working agreements with other motor transportation lines, to offer the fastest freight service available between points in this vicinity and cities to the north —Chicago, Kansas City, St. Louis and Memphis, to mention a few.

Freight out of Chicago reaches Monroe on the third morning after shipment; out of Kansas City and St. Louis, on the second morning. Overnight service is given between Monroe and Memphis and Monroe and Little Rock.

Chicago freight is handled by George Kimball Truck Lines of that city; Kansas City freight, by England Brothers Truck Line of that city; St. Louis freight, by Superior Forwarding company, of that city; Memphis freight, by Highway Express of that city. All of these lines, converge in Little Rock, the northern terminal of Monticello Truck Line, necessitating only one transfer of freight.

The fast service offered by Monticello Truck Line is not entirely confined to Monroe. Freight arriving in Monroe during the morning over Monticello is delivered during the afternoon to points west in this vicinity on United States highway 80 by Jordan Truck Line. The same service is available to the east on United States highway 80 through connection with Leonard Truck Line. Same-day service is also maintained between Monroe and Natchez on Louisiana highway 15, through connection with Bailey Truck Service. Merchants' Fast Freight handles freight shipped over Monticello Truck Line destined for points on Louisiana highways 16, 47 and 94 and United States highway 165. Next-morning delivery is given these points.

Monticello Truck Line maintains a terminal-warehouse at 504 Olive street, the telephone number of which is 4808. It operates its own pick-up and delivery service in Monroe.

'Radio Nurse' One Of Latest Devices To Aid Housewife

The "Radio Nurse," science's latest contribution toward relieving the burden of the housewife, has been demonstrated in Monroe by Parnell and Massey Radio Service, which is affiliated with Massey's Service, an automotive service station. Both are located at 520 Jackson street and their telephone numbers are 463 and 603.

Developed by E. F. McDonald, Jr., president of Zenith Radio corporation, the "Radio Nurse" is manufactured and distributed by the company. Parnell and Massey Radio Service is wholesale and retail distributor for Zenith in north Louisiana.

The "Radio Nurse," which has just been introduced to the American public, consists of two small units. One of these, called the "Guardian Ear," will pick up even the slightest sound in the room in which it is placed and make it audible, considerably amplified, through the other unit, which may be placed in any other part of the house or apartment. Both units become operative when simply plugged into an ordinary light socket, no special wired connection between the two being necessary.

With the "ear" unit placed in the nursery, for example, a mother can plug in the "voice" unit in any other room in the house in which she may be and instantly hear every sound made in the nursery—a cry, a window or door opening or, so sensitive is the device, even the child's breathing. Placed beside an invalid's bed, it permits transmission of requests without even the need of the patient changing position in bed.

The product has behind it the approval of virtually all authorities on scientific child care. Not only does it lessen the burden on the mother, but it makes possible leaving the child alone in safety. With the "Radio Nurse" in use, it is no longer necessary for the mother to disturb the child's sleep by slipping into the nursery to see if all is well. She knows immediately if anything is wrong and, unless it is, can leave the child alone.

Walker Keeps Cars Lined Up Properly

The spinning wheels of today are a whole lot different than the spinning wheels of grandmother's day. In this modern age, almost a hundred million automobile wheels are spinning along the highways at 40 to 80 miles an hour.

In order that these wheels spin true and straight, it is necessary that they be in perfect balance and alignment. Safety and driving comfort are lost when a car shimmies, wanders, weaves or steers hard.

Keeping wheels spinning true and straight is the business of Sida Walker, 236 South Grand street. He is outfitted with Bear wheel, axle and chassis alignment equipment, tools that restore an out-of-line car to factory specifications. Moreover, he employs only competent mechanics, men who know their jobs.

If you want your car to function properly, keep it in line at Sida Walker's. Mr. Walker, incidentally, guarantees all of his work. His telephone number is 4000.

Caulking Assures Home Of Comfort

Now is the time to build! What with liberal credit available for long periods, it's cheaper to own your home than to rent.

But before you build—or even repair, renovate or remodel, for that matter—consult Louisiana Caulking and Insulating company, 710 South Grand street. Members of the firm, the telephone number of which is 3063, will tell you how to add both comfort and durability to your dwelling.

Caulking and insulating makes a residence cooler in summer and warmer in winter. But in addition to that, caulking and insulating protects both the exterior and interior materials of which it is built.

Caulking and insulating, while assuring you cosiness and comfort, protect your home against the elements.

United Electric Gives Free Check On Speedometers

Is the speedometer on your automobile or truck giving you the "straight dope" on speed and the number of miles your machine has traveled, or is it cheating you?

It costs nothing to find out, if you accept the offer of G. F. Becker, general manager of United Electric Service, Inc., located at 306 North Third street, who invites all owners of passenger automobiles, trucks and buses to call at the company's service department and get their speedometers checked free of charge by factory-approved methods and equipment.

The speedometer, Mr. Becker points out, is a very important piece of equipment on every motor vehicle. It not only registers the speed at which an automobile travels but furnishes valuable data on the actual performance of the car itself by enabling the owner to check wear and tear on engine, tires and other parts.

The speedometer that fails to function with accuracy is a thief, as it cannot give the automobile, truck or bus owner that degree of information which the owner requires in order to maintain the proper upkeep of his machine. The speedometer that fails accurately to register the speed of an automobile subjects the car owner to the possibility of arrest for exceeding established speed limits and may even result in serious accidents.

United Electric Service, Inc., realizing the importance of the speedometer and the necessity for accuracy, has spent considerable money to equip a special department in its shop designed solely to service speedometers by testing and calibrating them. Factory-trained experts are employed in this department and are ready to give quick and accurate service to car owners who are wise enough to accept the free checking service offered and who demand true-recording speedometers.

Not only does United Electric Service, Inc., test and repair speedometers but keeps speedometer equipment in stock suitable for all makes of passenger automobiles, trucks and buses.

Griffin Advocates Check-up On Rods

Now is the time of year to check up on your casting and fly rods—before you begin to give them hard summer usage, according to J. L. Griffin, 2712 Lee avenue, expert rod repair man.

Mr. Griffin, who has been repairing rods for the past seven years, does his work at half the factory price and guarantees satisfaction, besides. Although, from the outset, his work has carried a money-back guarantee, he has yet to make a refund.

Unless a rod is completely severed, Mr. Griffin can repair it—whether it be of bamboo or steel. Besides repairing rods, he also cleans and oils reels. In doing so, he completely dismantles the reel, washes the parts in gasoline, reassembles them and then greases the gears with reel grease and oils the bearings with reel oil.

Here's what a fisherman should do now with his rods, which have been stored away during the winter: Join the sections together and switch the rods several times to see if the ferrules are loose; sight along the rods for alignment, to see if they have a bad set (or bend); examine all wrappings to see if they are in good shape; examine the varnish to see if it is chipped; examine guides to see if they are badly worn, or, if they are agate or glass, if they are cracked or chipped.

A few cents spent on minor repairs will save dollars for the fisherman later on, Mr. Griffin said. He maintains that a bamboo rod should be varnished at least once a year. As to cracked and chipped guides, he says they will cut an expensive line to pieces in no time.
